City Bows to Poland in Customs Row.

BULLETIN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Aug. 7.—Albert Forster, Danzig Nazi leader, arrived unexpectedly at Salzburg tonight by airplane. He is scheduled to confer extensively with Hitler early this week at Berchtesgaden, Bavaria.

WARSAW, Poland, Aug. 7.—A German bombing plane was fired upon today by a Polish coastal battery. The bomber escaped by increasing its altitude.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WARSAW, Aug. 7.—Arthur Greiser, president of the Danzig senate, today delivered to Marian Chodacki, Polish commissioner for Danzig, a written reply to the Polish government's ultimatum of last Friday. The ultimatum had threatened "very serious consequences" if the senate should carry out its plan of refusing to recognize the eighty-three Polish customs inspectors operating on the East Prussian border inside free state territory.

As Greiser forecast in his oral reply to the ultimatum on Saturday, the written reply was conciliatory. In political circles here it was considered more than conciliatory—a backdown by the senate and a victory for Poland.

Admits Issuance of Orders.

In substance, the senate's note said it never had any intention of discriminating against Polish customs officials and promised not to do so in the future. The note admitted that orders were issued to cease recognition of the Polish customs control on the East Prussian border after midnight Sunday, but said the orders were issued without the senate's knowledge or approval.

A government communique in Warsaw said that in view of the senate having given Poland satisfaction Polish customs control will continue to function as before along the East Prussian border.

According to reports received here the Danzig senate regards the exchange of notes between Poland and Danzig during the last week as a draw. The Poles won this time, Danzigers were quoted as saying. But they argued that Poland previously had rescinded its ban on oleomargarine and herring products of Danzig when Warsaw saw that its action was "playing into German hands and practically forcing Danzig to conclude a customs union with Germany."

Poles Ignore Suggestion.

During the last few days, discreet suggestions have been made to Poland by British and French officials that in view of the departure of a French-British military mission for Moscow, the Poles also might send at least one of their more prominent soldiers to soviet Russia. The suggestion met with no response.

[The French-British mission sailed from England last Saturday.]

The Poles maintained that a three-power alliance between Britain, France, and Russia is none of their business.

Germany Warns Poland.

BERLIN, Aug. 7 (AP).—Germany's official news agency, DNB, tonight declared that continued "challenges" by Poles might result in their "acquaintance with German weapons." In a commentary criticizing the Polish newspaper, Csas, DNB attributed to it the threat that Poles would shoot Danzig to pieces should the free city attempt to effect a union with Germany.

DNB said the newspaper "openly threatens a malicious attack and brutal bombardment by which Danzig should be laid in ruins."

Says Patience Will End.

"But Polish loudmouths must be told that they cannot ruthlessly provoke Germany in this manner," DNB continued. "Germany's patience with these constant challenges will end all of a sudden.

"Then it can happen that the Poles, although they could accomplish their criminal intention to shoot Danzig to pieces, could make an acquaintance with German weapons in such a manner they will forever lose their desire to bombard German cities again."

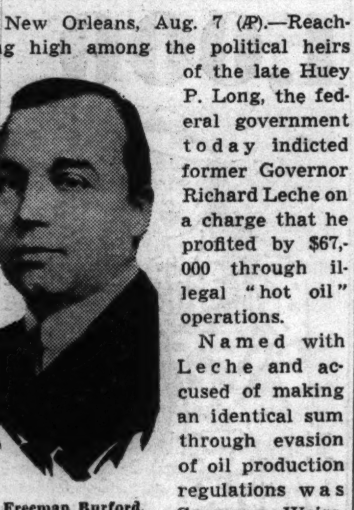
EX.-GOV. LECHE AND 2 INDICTED IN HOT OIL QUIZ

Weiss Also Charged with Tax Evasion.

New Orleans, Aug. 7 (AP).—Reaching high among the political heirs of the late Huey P. Long, the federal government today indicted former Governor Richard Leche on a charge that he profited by $67,000 through illegal "hot oil" operations.



Freeman Burford.

Named with Leche and accused of making an identical sum through evasion of oil production regulations was Seymour Weiss, New Orleans hotel owner and one time financial right hand man to the slain "Kingfish." Freeman Burford, wealthy Dallas, Tex., oil man, and the East Texas Refining company also were indicted in this transaction.

A second indictment announced today by the federal grand jury charges Weiss with income tax evasion and still another makes a similar charge against the dapper hotel man and Louis C. Lesage, former Standard Oil company official here. This same jury indicted these men on mail fraud charges a few weeks ago.

Indicted with Dr. Smith.

Indicted with them at that time was Dr. James Monroe Smith, ousted president of Louisiana State university. Dr. Smith also is under indictments charging embezzlement and mail fraud in connection with the manipulation of university funds.

The strapping Leche, just six weeks out of the governor's chair, appeared at the Federal building soon after the indictments and was fingerprinted before being released on $5,000 bond. Weiss made bond of $15,000. They face possible imprisonment for two years on each of the two oil counts.

The name of New Orleans' mayor, Robert S. Maestri—who emerged with Leche and Weiss as the rulers of the Long domain after the senator was shot to death in 1935—appeared repeatedly in the oil indictment, but he was accused of nothing.

Declare Maestri Misled.

In 1936, when the alleged illegal production occurred, Maestri was commissioner of conservation and as such authorized the order whereby output of certain wells was stepped up, but the indictment said he was fraudulently misled by the conspirators and no charge or implication was made against him.

The story related by the indictment follows:

In March, 1936, Governor Elect Leche met with Weiss, Burford, and others to plan a deal whereby production of thirteen oil wells in the Rodessa field, near Shreveport, would be stepped up from approximately 5,000 barrels daily to 20,000 barrels daily for several months, and this contraband oil run over into Texas, in violation of the Connally act which prohibits interstate movement of illegally produced "hot" oil.

Build 59 Miles of Line.

Burford built a 59 mile pipeline to Longview, Tex., and approximately 480,000 barrels of oil was moved before a federal court in east Texas issued a restraining order.

Burford paid Weiss $48,592.66, representing 10 cents per barrel on this oil, and subsequently paid over $100,000 to Weiss as a commission after the pipeline had been sold for $950,000.

Weiss paid Leche sixty-seven $1,000

Judge Charges C.I.O. Attempt to Get His Job

Judge Theodore Forby of the Zion City court charged last night that the C. I. O. and the Democratic machine in Lake county are seeking to remove him from the judiciary. A petition was presented to the Zion council earlier in the evening demanding a referendum to abolish the City court.

Judge Forby.

"Right after my decision in the Fansteel case [the judge sentenced thirty-nine rioters, including Meyer Adelman, C. I. O. leader] I was told no stone would be left unturned to get me off the bench," said Judge Forby.

Links C. I. O. to Democrats.

"After that decision I learned that C. I. O. agents were out to get me. There is a close connection between the C. I. O. machine and the Democratic machine here as everywhere else. [The petition was presented by representatives of the Zion Democratic Voters' league.]

"At the time of the C. I. O. troubles in North Chicago I was not intimidated. I dealt out simple justice. I shan't be intimidated now."

The Democratic leaguers told the council that there is no real need for a City court in Zion, that there have been fewer than 100 cases filed before Judge Forby in the eleven years he has sat on that bench. They insisted that the maintenance of the court, even though all its costs are borne by the state, is wasteful and should come to an end.

Requires Two-Thirds Vote.

If the council puts the referendum on the ballot it would require two-thirds of Zion's 3,300 voters to pass it.

Judge Forby was elected in 1928 with the support of Wilbur Glenn Voliva, overseer of the Christian-Catholic church of Zion. He has sat often in the Circuit, County, and Probate courts of Lake county, and in the Circuit and Superior courts in Chicago.

LADY LUCK FOLLOWS NEGRO RIGHT INTO JAIL AND RIGHT OUT AGAIN

Nashville, Tenn., Aug. 7 (AP).—Prisoners helping tear down Nashville's 50 year old precinct police station are allowed to keep anything they find in the building. One Negro, with $19.75 of a $25 fine to work off, found an envelope containing $20, dropped his tools, marched to the workhouse office, paid the $19.75, and walked out, with two bits to spend.

SIDLEY RESCUED IN LAKE AFTER HIS BOAT SINKS

Racine, Wis., Aug. 7 [Special].—William Horlick Sidley, 27 years old, millionaire heir to a malted milk fortune, tonight was rescued from drowning when his speedboat sank a mile off Racine. Sidley was under a doctor's care tonight, suffering from exposure and from swallowing a large amount of water.

G. H. Smith, proprietor of a Milwaukee night club, was rescued with Sidley.

Sidley bought the speedboat a week ago, and today took it out for a trial run into Lake Michigan. He and Smith wore life preservers. Sidley drove the craft east three miles, circled the reef lighthouse, then headed for shore. About two miles from shore a wave ripped planking loose. The boat began to sink immediately and Sidley and Smith were thrown into the lake.

Sidley escaped injury last week when his big sedan knocked down thirty fence posts, three telephone poles, and leaped over a culvert.

BROTHER-IN-LAW OF MAYOR KELLY KILLED IN CRASH

Charles Shide, 40 years old, the husband of Mayor Kelly's sister, Catherine, was killed yesterday in an auto collision at Harrison street and Damen avenue. Shide, who lived at 906 West 77th street, was a chauffeur for the board of education.

Shide and George W. Ring, 4321 North Central Park avenue, also a board of education employé, were driving south in Damen avenue in a school board truck which collided with a car driven by Mrs. Betty Simon, 26 years old, 2312 Thomas street. Ring and Mrs. Simon were injured.

Faces Bandit's Gun; Shoots and Kills Him

Watchman William J. Riley Jr. looked into a bandit's gun last night and fired one bullet through his heart and another an inch from his heart in Hyman Rudd's liquor store at 1320 East 55th street. The robber ran out the door and fell dead.

William J. Riley Jr.

He might have killed the watchman but for this fact: The robber's .38 caliber revolver was loaded with .32 caliber cartridges which he had padded with paper to make them fit. He pulled the trigger twice, but both times the gun failed to fire.

Linked to Other Holdups.

Police believe the robber was the holdup man who has been preying on south side liquor stores for the last week.

Riley is the son of a retired lieutenant of the Hyde Park police. The elder Riley founded a one-man watch service for 55th street business men some years ago and later turned it over to his son, who is 35 years old.

Riley was standing in the liquor store with his uniform coat and cap off shortly before midnight. Behind the counter were the proprietor and his clerk, John Sutton of 1353 East 55th street.

Cartridges Fail to Fire.

Riley whirled around, drawing his gun. "Don't!" warned the bandit. Then he snapped the trigger of his gun twice, but the misfit cartridges failed to fire. Riley blazed four shots at him, hitting him twice.

Riley lives at 840 East 56th street. He and the police were mystified by the cartridges that did not fit the bandit's gun. One theory was that he had no money to buy the right size cartridges. But the bandit who has been robbing liquor stores took considerable loot.

Flee in a Stolen Sedan; Break Hushed 2 Days

The escape of four more inmates from the St. Charles School for Boys last Saturday was revealed yesterday. William T. Harmon, superintendent, admitted that the four had fled while working on the school farm.

Wm. T. Harmon.

Their escapes raise to fifty-three the total of inmates who have fled this year from the unwalled state institution in the Fox River valley.

Authorities at the school have been criticized repeatedly for their reluctance to notify the police of surrounding towns when escapes occur. Yesterday, after learning that the latest scandal had been hushed up for two days, law enforcing officials renewed their demand that they be notified of all escapes.

Slip Through Unadvised Police.

Sherif Robert F. Stewart of Bureau county, the home county of one of the fugitives, said that if Harmon had informed him of the escape of the four inmates would have been captured quickly.

"We've learned that the four boys drove into Wyanet [in Bureau county] early Sunday morning in a stolen sedan," Sherif Stewart said. "They talked to a friend there, then drove west. We could have been on the watch for them. But the school apparently didn't think it necessary that we know."

The four who fled are Donald Rhae, 17 years old, of Wyanet; Floyd Dickinson, 16, of Quincy; Edward Bellows, 16, of Polo, and Norman De Vore, 17, of Hoopeston.

They made what is known among St. Charles inmates as a "tall corn escape." They had been assigned to a threshing crew on the farm. Late in the afternoon, as they were working near the boundary of the farm, they dropped their hay forks and ran into an adjoining cornfield.

Discloses Secret Break.

The first word of the escape came, not from Harmon, but from Sherif Stewart. Not until the sherif had learned the fleeing inmates had passed through Wyanet—the home of young Rhae—and had requested details of the escape did the report become public.

Harmon maintains that unfavorable publicity in such matters will hurt a boy's chances when he is returned to society. He said the school does not regard such flights as escapes but merely as "runaways."

The records of the four inmates were somewhat similar. Young Rhae was sent to St. Charles last January after he had confessed, according to Sherif Stewart, to stealing chickens.

Dickman was sent to the school six months ago after he had been arrested by Quincy police as he was driving a stolen car. The Quincy police said they had not been informed of his escape.

Bellows was sentenced a year ago for theft, Polo police said.

Hoopeston police records show that De Vore was sentenced to St. Charles last Nov. 22 after he had been arrested for taking a girl, younger than himself, across the state line into Kentucky. They hitch hiked, and were gone about five days. The Hoopeston police said that because De Vore was a minor prosecution under the federal Mann act was precluded. They said that they were not informed of De Vore's escape.

TOTAL EXCEEDS WAR TIME PEAK, SETTING RECORD

June 30 Gain Over May Is 22,148.

BY WALTER TROHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 7.—The federal pay roll reached a new all time high in June, the United States civil service commission reported today.

The number of federal employés stood at 925,260 on June 30, the end of the 1939 fiscal year. The number represented a gain of 22,148 over the number of pay rollers in May. The previous all time high was established Nov. 11, 1918, the first Armistice day. There were 917,670 persons working in the executive branch of the government on that day.

The civil service compilation of government employés does not include the military, congressional, and judicial establishments.

Political Activity Prohibited.

The New Deal set the all time high for pay rollers just before congress passed the Hatch bill which forbids political activity of federal employés below the policy making rank.

The total of pay checks in June rose to $140,110,553. The figure was almost four million dollars higher than the May total of $136,408,999.

In setting the new record the Roosevelt administration is approaching a doubling of the federal pay roll. On Mr. Roosevelt's inauguration March 4, 1933, there were 563,847 persons at work in the government.

The increase of 362,413 would be almost enough to populate a city the size of Indianapolis, Ind., which had a population of 364,161 in the 1930 census.

120,309 in Washington.

Of the total of federal employés, 120,309 are in the District of Columbia. When Mr. Roosevelt took office, the number of employés in the capital was 66,802. Here the increase of 53,507 persons would almost establish a city the size of Decatur, Ill., which had 57,510 persons in 1930.

The number of persons employed in the district during the war was 117,103. The number of persons employed outside Washington on Nov. 11, 1918, was 799,736. In June this figure was passed and the new high fixed with 801,756 employés.

Murphy Adds Workers.

Study of the civil service report disclosed that the increase of employés extended to all departments of the government, including the department of justice, whose chief, Attorney General Frank Murphy, urged a billion dollar slash of the public pay roll and a cut of more than one million employés from the federal, state, and local governmental salary lists in a speech to the eastern regional conference of the civil service assembly at Asbury Park, N. J., on June 15.

On that day Murphy was sending his pay roll up to 9,605 for the month. In January when Murphy took office, the pay roll of his department numbered 8,918. In five months he has increased it by 687 persons, or 7.7 per cent.

Murphy was given a dressing down by his chief, Mr. Roosevelt, for putting the administration on the spot in his speech. Later he tried to correct the record and said that he was not referring to the federal government but to the extension of the spoils system in state and local governments.

Growth of Pay Roll.

Year.	Employés.	Year.	Employés.
1861	49,200	1934	673,095
1881	107,000	1935	719,440
1901	256,000	1936	824,259
1916	438,058	1937	889,550
1918	917,760	1938	917,393

The 140 million dollar pay roll in June would, if distributed among every man, woman and child in the country, give each one a dollar and some change.

Statisticians say that the cost of federal, state, and local public pay rolls runs to $290 a year for the average family, or 13 per cent of the family's total income.

GIRD FOR 1940 BATTLE

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 7.—Leaders of both the New Deal and anti-New Deal factions were busy today projecting plans for renewal of the battle at the next session of congress over Roosevelt legislation.

The President conferred with Representative Sam Rayburn [D., Tex.], majority leader of the house. Rayburn repeatedly went down to defeat in the late session before the coalition of Republicans and conservative Democrats that rejected new Roosevelt recovery panaceas and forced modification of numerous New Deal laws.

Hopes to Win Next Session.

Mr. Roosevelt professes confidence that the 1940 session of congress will pass his 4 billion dollar lending-spending bills which the house threw out of the window last week and will repeal the mandatory embargo on export of arms to belligerents. He also will fight revision of the national labor relations act and the wage-hour law which the administration successfully avoided by dilatory tactics in the late session.

On the other hand, Senator Warren Austin [R., Vt.] predicted that the Republican-conservative Democratic coalition will be stronger in the next session than in the last. He looks for further New Deal defeats.

"The coalition movement is growing," he said, "and will extend right into the 1940 campaign."

Lists Accomplishments.

Representative Joseph W. Martin Jr of Massachusetts, Republican leader of the house, retired from the field of battle amid the plaudits of the coalition for organization of an intelligent and successful opposition.

Reviewing the work of the session, he said that the Republican party had "substantially redeemed" its pledges in the 1938 campaign to "check one-man government, stop rubber stamp legislation, and restore constitutional processes in national administration."

He listed the following fourteen accomplishments of the coalition:

1. A beginning "toward economy and common sense in federal finances."

2. Turned back a New Deal proposal to raise the national debt limit above the existing statutory ceiling of $45,000,000,000, and later rejected emphatically the $3,800,000,000 spend-lend program, "which sought to evade the limitation upon the national debt." As a part of "this broad economy movement, congress once more forbade additional expenditures on the crackpot Florida ship canal."

Avoided European Entanglement.

3. Turned back the administration's attempts to "pledge American involvement in European power politics. We supported adequate American national defense by land, sea, and air forces."

4. Forced a measure of tax revision "to relieve business of crippling punitive levies," and established a special recess investigation to recommend general tax codification to the next session.

5. Forced careful revision of the social security program, "to eliminate the fraudulent full reserve plan in favor of a pay as you go scheme, as consistently demanded by Republicans." The new schedule of benefits eventually "will stop diversion of the pay roll tax receipts to general government spending." By freezing the pay roll taxes at the prevailing 1 per cent level, "hundreds of millions of dollars in future taxes have been saved to both labor and industry."

6. Limited in some degree subsidized government competition with private enterprise in electric utilities, and instituted "honest systems of audit and accounting to keep taxpayers informed of real costs in the future."

Exposed WPA Corruption.

7. Exposed and partially reformed the "vicious political manipulation of WPA work-relief by the New Deal patronage racketeers."

8. Aided materially in passing the Hatch bill, reënforcing the merit principle in civil service and prohibiting electioneering by all federal pay rollers.

9. Enacted legislation to curb the spread of "hateful alien communism and Fascism," strengthening the mandatory deportation laws, and removing much discretionary power in this field from the coddling authority of the labor department."

10. In the government reorganization bill "we sustained the time-tested constitutional principle of checks-and-balances, eliminating many proposals for dangerous powers of dictatorship."

11. In the face of "persistent evasion of administrative responsibilities," the house insisted upon a thorough investigation of the National Labor Relations board.

Bared Trade Treaty Evils.

12. House Republicans "urged a formal congressional inquiry into the damage caused to American industry and agriculture by the so-called reciprocal trade treaty program. The Roosevelt-Hull policies of free trade, as now linked to the mutually exclusive policies of export subsidies, dumping, barter, and discriminatory import quotas are contributing largely to the utter demoralization of international trade."

13. Congress fought hard to reëstablish "the fundamental Republican principle of sound money by a return of all monetary powers to congress, where, under the constitution, they properly belong."

14. A special committee of house Republicans surveyed the so-called "emergency powers" of the President, and "charted in detail the course forward to a resumption of balanced representative government."

Stirred Business Confidence.

"In proportion as congress reasserted its legislative independence, business confidence began to show some signs of revival," said Mr. Martin. "Today the administrative failures and confusions of the New Deal are the only obstacles in the path of solid and sustained business recovery.

"Pump priming is a demonstrated illusion. Now in the seventh year of federal squandering we still have 10,000,000 unemployed; farm prices are at bankruptcy levels; our export market for farm products still is diminishing, and our rich home market is being flooded by an increasing tide of low cost industrial and agricultural products from abroad. Under the New Deal's misguided policies of internationalism and free trade the vaunted American standard of living is being lowered steadily for all our people."

Increase in Federal Pay Rollers

Increase in the number of persons on the federal government's pay roll since 1901. Note particularly the comparison between the number of employes at present and the number necessary for carrying on wartime business.

PRESIDENT SIGNS CONCLUDING BILL IN COURT DISPUTE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 7.—President Roosevelt today signed a bill establishing a new organization for the administration of the federal courts.

It was hailed by the President and by former Attorney General Homer Cummings and Attorney General Frank Murphy as the realization of the President's program for reorganization of the judiciary.

The President's original plan provided for an increase by a maximum of six in the number of Supreme court justices, an increase in the number of Circuit and District judges, and general control over all federal courts by the executive through a proctor under control of the department of justice who was to have watched the calendar of lower courts and suggested the transfer of judges to handle congestion.

Court Increase Rejected.

Congress rejected the President's plan to increase the membership of the Supreme court. His objective of changing the personnel of the court was partly achieved, however, through deaths and resignations which permitted him to name four new justices.

Legislation providing for more judges in lower courts was passed.

The plan for a proctor was attacked in congress as a scheme to control judicial decisions through the transfer of judges and the assignment of cases to "friendly" courts. The bill was radically changed. As signed today it provides for a director to be appointed by the Supreme court and responsible to it, whose duties will be chiefly fiscal work and the gathering of statistics about court dockets.

His salary will be $7,500 a year and he will exercise general supervision over court employes throughout the country, fixing their number and salaries in coöperation with senior court judges, though he will not interfere with the authority of the courts to appoint their clerks and administrative personnel.

Staged as Victory.

The signing of the bill today, however, was staged as a victory.

The President said that recent attacks on the Supreme court indicate how fully the objectives of his judicial reform program of 1937 had been attained.

Mr. Cummings declared, as the President handed him the pen with which he signed the bill: "This puts the cap sheaf on that fight. Every objective the President had in mind has now been achieved."

Mr. Murphy echoed: "This completes the 1937 court program."

"This country is naturally concerned with the attainment of objectives rather than any one of possible methods proposed for the accomplishment of the end," the President continued. Speaking of his program as it affected the Supreme court he said:

"I called attention to the unwarranted attitude of the Supreme court with reference to its exercise of constitutional powers. Measures of social and economic reform were being impeded or defeated by narrow interpretations of the constitution, and by the assumption on the part of the Supreme court of legislative powers which properly belong to the congress.

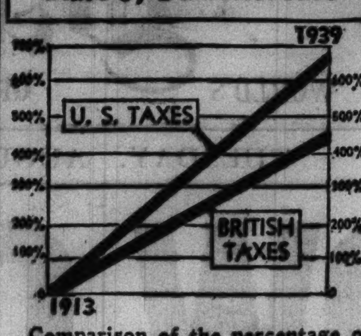
Refers to Bar Attacks.

"Attacks recently made on the Supreme court itself by ultra-conservative members of the bar indicate how fully our liberal ideas have already prevailed."

Frank J. Hogan, president of the American Bar association, in a recent address in San Francisco accused the Supreme court of "replacing stability with instability" in government.

"Recent far-reaching decisions [of the high court] compel the conclusion that the American people must look to the legislature rather than the judiciary for the preservation of liberties," Hogan said.

Rate of Tax Increase



Comparison of the percentage of increase of taxes in Great Britain and the United States since 1913.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 7 (AP).—The National Association of Manufacturers said today that taxes in Great Britain have climbed 430 per cent since 1913, while in the United States they have risen 640 per cent. Up to 1924, the association's survey showed, the tax rate in both countries had increased in nearly the same ratio. In the United States all federal, state, and local taxes were included. In Great Britain taxes levied by the national government and localities in England, Scotland, Wales, and Northern Ireland were counted.

PRESIDENT ASKS PLAN FOR BOOST IN INCOME TAXES

Confers with Chairman of Committee.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 7.—In an interlude between the signing of bills passed by the 13 billion dollar congress which adjourned Saturday, President Roosevelt today briefly turned his attention to raising new funds to meet New Deal appropriations.

With Representative Frank Buck [D., Cal.] he discussed the work of the subcommittee of the house ways and means committee, which is to study proposals for increasing taxes. Buck is a member of the subcommittee which is to meet here in November.

Expects Broadening of Base.

The subcommittee was appointed at the instance of the administration. It is expected that it will recommend a broadening of the income tax base as the first step in getting the taxpayers started on a long term payment program for the expenditures of the New Deal. Buck said after he left the executive office that the subcommittee will give serious consideration to proposals for lowering the income tax exemptions.

Various suggestions have been advanced to cut the exemption for married persons from $2,500 to as low as $1,500 and that for single persons from $1,000 to $800. The exemption reductions would be accompanied by an increase in the tax rate under the various programs advanced.

Estimates Revenue Increase.

Buck said that a cut in the exemption of married persons to $2,000 and of single persons to $800 along with a 1 per cent increase in the tax would produce 137 million dollars of additional revenue yearly.

The conference was one of a series the President held with departing members of congress who came to bid him good-bye before they returned to their homes and before he left on his cruise in northern waters.

Mr. Roosevelt left aboard his special train shortly before midnight for his family home at Hyde Park, N. Y. He will remain there a week signing bills. He will then board a cruiser at New York City for a cruise of ten days or more.

RESCUE CLIMBER FROM PRECIPICE; EXPOSURE FATAL

Denver Expert Storm Trapped 20 Hours.

Estes Park, Colo., Aug. 7 (AP).—Gerald Clark, 30 years old, Denver mountain climber, trapped 20 hours on Long's Peak during a sleet and snow storm, died of exposure today a few minutes after rescuers had lowered him, limp and unconscious, by rope 1,500 feet down the peak's sheer east face.

Clark, heading an ascent with Eddie Watson, 23, and Edmund Cooper, 32, both of Denver, lost the head of a hammer he used to drive mountain climbing spikes into the rock.

Rope Too Short.

His climbing rope was not long enough to reach down to Cooper and Watson behind him. If the rope had reached, Cooper said, the three together could have completed the ascent. Instead Cooper and Watson, at Clark's insistence, left him to call help.

Clark was conscious when three rescuers reached him in a narrow trough on the 14,255 foot peak. "But he passed out the first time we lowered him out on a rope," said Ranger Ernest Field, one of the three rescuers.

Rescue Takes Five Hours.

For five hours Field and two Denver climbing experts, Bob Boyd and Bob Lewis, worked down the cliff, lowering Clark from ledge to ledge.

Snow and sleet swirled over the men throughout the descent.

SEPT. 1 IS LAST DAY FOR PAYING REALTY TAXES

September 1 is the deadline for paying the second and final instalment of 1938 real estate taxes, County Treasurer John Toman warned taxpayers yesterday. Toman said a penalty of 1 per cent a month is added to all bills not paid by the due date.

Toman cautioned taxpayers who are leaving for their vacations and will not return until after Labor day to take care of their tax bills before they leave in order to escape penalties.

The county's new tax collection bureau has received more than 1,000 inquiries from taxpayers wanting to learn about the monthly payment plan for cleaning up back taxes, Toman said. He said the bureau will accept monthly payments from all real estate taxpayers, including those paying to redeem properties forfeited for tax delinquencies.

LA GUARDIA WILL VISIT CHICAGO TO BOOST N. Y. FAIR

New York, Aug. 7 [Special.]—Mayor Fiorello La Guardia will make a trip to Chicago Wednesday in the hope of stimulating interest in the New York World's Fair.

At 8:10 a. m. he will take a plane for Washington for a fifteen minute conference at the airport with members of the United States Conference of Mayors, of which he is president.

Then he will board another plane, arriving in Chicago at 2:55 p. m., where he will go to the Hotel Sherman for a luncheon address to the Federation of Advertising Clubs. After luncheon the mayor will fly back to New York.

SPECIAL SESSION ACTION SOUGHT ON STATE RELIEF

Relief officials indicated yesterday that they soon will appeal to the state for more money to pay the dole. They declared that Gov. Horner should include the relief problem in his forthcoming call for a special session of the general assembly. The session primarily will be for the purpose of passing again a bill to increase old age assistance from $30 a month to a maximum of $40 a month.

Such a bill was passed in Springfield in June, but Gov. Horner vetoed it Thursday when he was informed by United States Senator James M. Slattery that the federal government would not share the additional costs. The next day congress provided that federal funds to match state old age assistance be increased from $15 to a maximum of $20 a month.

Gov. Horner later announced that he would ask the assembly to convene in time to obtain the larger federal grants, which will be available Jan. 1, 1940, if President Roosevelt signs the measure. He is expected to sign it.

Agree on Relief Action.

Both Neil H. Jacoby, University of Chicago professor, who is chairman of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission, and Leo M. Lyons, executive secretary, declared that relief should be on the calendar for the special session. They asserted that the shrinking WPA program is throwing thousands of new cases on direct relief rolls.

"If the governor asks me for advice I shall tell him that I think relief should be considered," said Jacoby."

Jacoby sent a report on the situation to Gov. Horner and enclosed a request for a conference to discuss the report, which is believed to be concerned mainly with an approaching shortage of funds. For the two year period which began July 1 the legislature appropriated $72,000,000 for relief, compared with IERC recommendations of $120,000,000.

State Senator Earl B. Searcy [R., Springfield] said he fears that relief will be an issue in the special session.

Searcy Cites Jobs Failure.

"Everything I hear attests the failure of the New Deal to provide jobs," Searcy said. "Once more it will be necessary to dig into taxpayers' pockets to pay the relief bill incurred by this failure. And the veto of the old age assistance measure is a typical New Deal blunder that will cost at least $25,000 to pay expenses of the special session."

Arnold P. Benson [R., Batavia], minority leader of the senate, also said relief will probably be on the program if the present trend continues.

"The special session should be as brief as possible," Benson said. "It seems to me the people of Illinois are darn well satisfied to have us out of the law-making chambers."

Mayor Kelly, who just returned from a three week trip to the west coast, said he will talk with Gov. Horner about old age assistance and relief after studying the problems.

Seems Worse, Says Mayor.

"I hoped when I left the city that the relief situation would be better, but it seems to have become worse," Mayor Kelly said.

Representative Elmer J. Schnackenberg [R., Chicago] said the governor should add parole reform and a plan for central counting of ballots to the business of the special session. He said he is not hopeful that parole reform will be included, because Horner in 1937 vetoed the Ward-Schnackenberg bill to give trial judges the right to set minimum and maximum prison terms.

Among other members questioned were two who said the special session should be limited to old age assistance. They are Senators Richard J. Daley and A. L. Marovitz, both Chicago Democrats. They said the recent six month session covered everything of importance.

FREIGHTER HITS ICEBERG; MOVES ON FOR LONDON

Boston, Mass., Aug. 7 (AP). — Narrowly escaping disaster when it nudged an iceberg as she crept across the North Atlantic in an early morning fog, the Canadian Pacific freighter Beaverhill with a crew of seventy-four aboard con inued tonight on its course for London, apparently little damaged. It was approximately seventy-five miles off the coast of Newfoundland, above the most used steamship lanes, when it struck at 5:30 a. m. today.

Arrow indicates where ship and iceberg collided.

Such accidents have been only occasional since the luxury liner Titanic struck an iceberg in the same waters on April 14, 1912, and sank with a loss of 1,517 lives, and not a life has been lost as a result of a brush with an iceberg since the international ice patrol was established in 1914.

The liner Ausonia was first to gain the 10,000 ton passengerless freighter's position. For several hours the Beaverhill pushed slowly along, the Ausonia beside her, while Capt. T. Jones inspected the damage to his ship. Then the skipper reported his vessel's inner hull apparently intact, although the bottom was ripped open. He said the Beaverhill would reach London as scheduled on Aug. 13.

Pipe Rolls Down Mountain; 2 Dead, 2 Hurt as Result

San Francisco, Cal., Aug. 7 (AP).—Eleven hundred feet of four inch gas pipe rolled down a mountainside today, crushing to death Mrs. Bess Arnold Ross, 46 years old, of Long Beach, Cal., in her automobile. Her housekeeper, Ann McDonald, 25, was taken to a hospital, where one leg was amputated. Grant Allison, 71, died from shock upon seeing Mrs. Ross' body at the accident scene. Henry Dutton, a workman on the gas main project, was thrown 100 feet into the air by the rolling pipe. His back was broken. The pipe, a single welded section, broke loose from cables and tore down the mountain a mile a minute.

14 LOSE LICENSES TO DRIVE PENDING TRAFIC HEARINGS

Court to Take Up Permits of All Until Cleared.

Fourteen motorists were deprived of their drivers' licenses in Safety court yesterday. The licenses were temporarily taken up by bailifs when the motorists asked Judge Francis Borrelli to continue their trafic violation cases. One motorist also was sent to the Bridewell for ten days.

The unusual procedure of impounding drivers' licenses pending trial was inaugurated by Judge Borrelli to serve notice on all drivers that henceforth they may expect the strictest enforcement of laws intended to promote safety.

Get Time to Ponder Safety.

"I am establishing this precedent," Judge Borrelli told the accused motorists, "in order to impress upon you the importance of careful driving. During the term of your continuances you will not drive and I think it will be a good time to reflect on the necessity of safety when you are behind the wheel of a car.

"None of your cases has been disposed of and some of you may be found guilty. Until then, however, think this over and maybe you will learn a valuable lesson."

Woman Loses License.

Among the first defendants to surrender their licenses was Miss Gertrude Smith, 19 years old, 1116 Washington boulevard, Oak Park, charged with reckless driving and destroying city property.

Others to lose their licenses pending trials and the charges they face, are:

Joseph Frank, 6402 May street, a WPA laborer, driving while intoxicated. Frank also received the ten day jail sentence and his license was revoked for a year.

Grover Jones, 607 Division street, leaving the scene of an accident.

Compare Judges' Records.

In connection with the present campaign to enforce the drivers' license law, the records of the judges who have sat in the Safety court since July 1, 1937, were obtained yesterday in the offices of Chief Justice John J. Sonsteby of the Municipal court.

The law permitting judges to suspend driving privileges became effective July 1, 1937. The judges' orders were enforceable through the power of the courts to punish for contempt. Then, the law requiring all automobile drivers to have licenses became effective July 12, 1938, after passage by a special session of the legislature. The penalty for not having the license, however, was not to be applied until after May 1, 1939.

Braude, Dougherty Set Pace.

The records show that when the judges first obtained power to deprive offending motorists of the right to operate a car they exercised it in many instances. Judges J. M. Braude and Charles S. Dougherty, who sat in the Safety court during the last six months of 1937 and the first five months of 1938, set a pace that was not followed by their successors.

For the last six months of 1937 the totals only were obtainable, not a month by month account, but the figures show that the Safety court considered an average of 793 cases per month and that an average of 156 motorists were deprived of driving privileges each month.

Then, starting in June 1, 1938, the number of cases per month decreased and the number of penalties decreased. This was taken as an indication that drivers were more careful to obey the law, but the number of accidents did not decrease, police said. The records for 1939 show more accidents and deaths than in the same period of 1938.

The Driving Ban Record.

Other judges who have sat in the Safety court in the last twenty-five months are Stephen Adamowski, Michael G. Kasper [deceased], Jay A. Schiller, Thomas A. Green, and Francis Borrelli. The court's record for the period follows:

Period.	Driving privileges suspended.	Cases in court.	Judge.

SAFETY COUNCIL EXPERT HELD ON TRAFIC CHARGE

George Currier, a member of the publicity department of the National Safety council, recently made arrangements to collaborate with Judge Harry H. Porter of Evanston on a magazine article on trafic safety. A meeting between the two was arranged for next week. But Currier, who is 30 years old and lives at 615 Michigan avenue, Evanston, will meet Judge Porter much sooner—Thursday, to be exact. He'll appear before him on charges of running through a stoplight in Evanston last night and of driving without a driver's license.

FINED ON DISORDERLY CHARGE.

Ernest Haines, 35 years old, no address, arrested Aug. 1 after he had been identified as having annoyed women and children on beaches, was fined $200 yesterday by Justice of the Peace David E. Elmgren, of Kenilworth, for disorderly conduct.

CHILD IN RUMBLE SEAT HURLED TO DEATH IN CRASH

Five Others Injured in Same Collision.

Carmen Plourde, 5 years old, 2444 Linden place, was killed last night when she was jolted out of the arms of her father, Maurice Plourde, in an automobile accident at Central and North avenues. Five other persons were slightly hurt.

The girl was riding with her father and her brother, William, 7, in the rumble seat of a car operated by Raymond Kankouski, 27, of 2214 Irving Park road. Kankouski's wife, Agnes, 28, sat next to him. They collided with a car driven by Guyons Granata, 23, of 524 North Parkside avenue.

Dies in Truck-Car Crash.

Harlan L. London, 28 years old, of Sycamore, in De Kalb county, was killed yesterday in a collision between the automobile in which he was riding and a truck driven by William Leeman of Freeport. The accident occurred seven miles west of Elgin on U. S. route 20.

Andrew Haave, 80 years old, 4336 Kenmore avenue, died in Alexian Brothers hospital of injuries incurred July 21 when he was struck at Kenmore and Montrose avenues by an auto driven by Harry Heroick, 348 West Chicago avenue.

Mrs. Ella Quinn Kain, 50 years old, formerly of 422 South Elmwood avenue, Oak Park, was killed Sunday night in an automobile accident in Fort Lauderdale, Fla., Chicago friends learned yesterday. Her husband, Edward J. Kain, was injured.

Crash Injuries Fatal.

Fred Peterson, 81 years old, 943 North Latrobe avenue, died last night in St. Anne's hospital of injuries suffered last Thursday when he was struck by an automobile at Laramie avenue and Augusta boulevard. The driver was Robert Sillhe, 61, of 3428 Le Moyne street.

A coroner's jury recommended yesterday that Raymond Martin, 1518 East 68th street, a sheet metal worker, be held to the grand jury on a charge of manslaughter. A passenger in Martin's car, George Marra, 23, of 1534 East 65th street, was killed Sunday when the machine struck a light pole at South Chicago and Baltimore avenues. Martin admitted to the jury that he and Marra had been drinking before the accident.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 488 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these, 377 were killed in Chicago, where 12,614 were injured in the same period.

ST. LOUIS GIVES CHICAGO TIP ON SUPERHIGHWAYS

Has Depressed Roadway; Prefers Elevated.

BY HAL FOUST.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 7.—This city of 821,000 population has an express highway. It is a sunken pavement. Frank J. McDevitt, director of the department of streets, is planning future express highways. They are to be elevated.

This fundamental difference in the design of what St. Louis has and the design of what St. Louis wants is regarded by the Chicago Motor club as pertinent to the studies now under way on Chicago's superhighway system.

Construction in Chicago is awaiting a State Supreme court validation of $60,000,000 in gasoline tax anticipation notes authorized by the legislature last June. Engineers for the city, county, and state are considering various types of structures and various routes.

Construction Cost Excessive.

"In two years' experience with a depressed highway," said McDevitt, "we have found that this type of construction is excessively costly, that it attracts snowdrifts and unsafe ice conditions, and that it retains engine exhaust gases. Our research for future construction recommends elevated highways of the trestle type in existing wide rights of way.

"St. Louis needs three or four elevated highways to radiate from its central business district, with a downtown loop to sort and to distribute the trafic. In this downtown terminal, and in outlying business districts as well, our engineers recommend that car storage facilities be built into the ramps in space that is wasted in designs common in the New York metropolitan area.

"The proposed storage facilities would not be garages in the ordinary sense. They would be more like multi-storied parking lots, four levels of steel grid decks with connecting ramps and with heavy steel fences in place of walls. This is low cost construction, about $1.50 to $2 a square foot.

Foresees Self-Liquidation.

"Thirty miles of elevated highway with a grid steel deck for automatic drainage and snow removal we estimate can be built for from $600,000 to $700,000 a mile. The project can be made self-liquidating for a Reconstruction Finance corporation loan by charging 10 cent tolls on the highways and 15 cents for car storage.

"A depressed highway costs many times as much as an elevated. The big cost item is right of way. In sinking an existing street for express trafic, parallel surface pavements must be built to serve abutting property. The rearrangement of underground utilities is a serious problem. Cross streets must have viaducts. Not only is the expense excessive but the results are unsatisfactory.

"Construction of elevated highways has been retarded because owners of abutting realty have a mistaken idea that it will detract from property values. This certainly hasn't been true in New York with the Park avenue ramps and trestles around the Grand Central station."

The St. Louis express highway, opened to trafic two and a half years ago, is 3.4 miles long. For 2 miles it is at ground level, on the border of Forest park. Thereafter, toward the central business district, it is depressed 24 feet below normal level at its deepest points, but much shallower between cross-street viaducts. The sloped sides, originally landscaped, have been riprapped with rock to stop a wash of dirt over the roadway.

In inclement winter weather it has been necessary to close the route, sometimes due to snow drifts and at other times due to irregular freezing and thawing as a result of part of the pavement being shaded by overhead viaducts. These overhead shadows, in summer as well as winter, have been a driving annoyance, producing blind spots such as experienced by Chicago motorists when driving from sunshine into a viaduct under a railroad.

The slight grade of the rises and dips also has proved too dangerous for fast and heavy trafic. Personal injuries have been at a rate of about six a month and there have been three deaths on St. Louis' depressed highway. It is not a good safety record.

Missionary Society Told of 4 Deaths in Plane Crash

Three missionaries of the Society of the Divine Word, which has headquarters in Chicago, and a pilot were killed in an airplane crash in New Guinea, according to a cable received yesterday by the Rev. Bruno Hagspiel, mission procurator of the society. The cable, from Madang, said the plane crashed while the priests were returning from a visit to the tribes. The missionaries were the Revs. James Weyer, Francis Kirschbaum, and Otto Bader, all Europeans.

NAZIS CRY 'PEACE' AS THEY SPEED PLANS FOR WAR

Vaccinate Army Against Typhoid Fever.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Aug. 7.—German officials are taking pains to assure Germans and foreigners alike that real peace is just around the corner and that there will be no war this year. At the same time Nazi leaders are telling the public that the nation is getting ready for a "peaceful demonstration of strength in four weeks at the Nuremberg Nazi party rally."

"The Nuremberg demonstrations of power and strength of the Nazi party and the German army will give a picture of the tremendous force of the German people," the Berlin district leader said. "They will tell the world that Germany does not let herself be impressed by threats or roars and that the German people are determined not to abandon any of their claims."

Speed Up Maneuvers.

While officials maintain no startling developments are to be expected in August, German military maneuvers are speeding up. School children are enjoying an extra holiday in villages near the Polish border because school buildings have been requisitioned until the end of September.

Troops are being vaccinated against typhoid fever in garrisons near Berlin. Germans declare such vaccinations are carried out "only when the authorities want to be prepared for all emergencies."

Germans returning from Silesia and the border districts of West Prussia declare that whenever local inhabitants can buttonhole a visitor alone they bombard him with questions about the danger of war. In public, they are tongue tied. Posters warning of the danger of spies are scattered in increasing numbers throughout the country.

Nazis Save Two Polish Flyers.

The rescue of two Polish military flyers who crashed into the Baltic today after flying over a German sea resort steamer appears in the German press under the heading, "Crashed While Spying."

"The steamer Hansestadt Danzig was nearing Zoppot [a resort near Danzig] from Swinemuende at 6 a. m. when a Polish military plane circled several times above the steamer and the observer, as could be seen clearly, took photographs," newspapers state. "Shortly afterward the airplane crashed behind the steamer. In a few minutes a lifeboat was lowered and the Poles were rescued. They were landed in Zoppot."

Joachim von Ribbentrop, German foreign minister, resumed his vacation in Salzburg today. Adolf Hitler is expected to return to his retreat at Berchtesgaden in the Bavarian Alps early this week. Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, former president of the Reichsbank and now personal economic adviser to Hitler, is in Munich waiting to be summoned to report to the Fuehrer.

EUROPE'S PEACE RESTS ON DANZIG, POLAND'S AMBASSADOR ASSERTS

New York, Aug. 7 [Special].—Count Jerzy Potocki, Polish ambassador to the United States of America, returning today from a five week vacation in Warsaw, asserted that the peace of Europe depends on Danzig. Asked if he thought that Poland's determination to resist Nazi encroachment would prevent war, he replied:

Ambassador Potocki.

"It is difficult to say what Hitler will do, but I do not think that Germany will take the step which most certainly would provoke war. Our attitude on Danzig is quite clear to Hitler."

The ambassador had not seen the speech yesterday of Marshal Smigly-Rydz, Polish army chief, but when its main points were cited to him by reporters, he said that it reflected the attitude of the entire Polish people. On the other hand, he said, Poland is amazingly calm. He said that despite the determination to fight for Danzig, there is no hysteria and that the public attitude is quiet and normal. He called it "a wonderful feeling."

TWO MATES LURE FUGITIVE CIRCUS ELEPHANT HOME

Staunton, Va., Aug. 7 (AP).—Two-ton Elsie, fugitive circus elephant, was lured back into captivity today after a safari of 200 police and country folk had stalked her through the foothills of the Blue Ridge mountains for a day and a half.

Footsore and hungry, Elsie had plodded through the forests south of here for 33½ hours since escaping from a wrecked circus trailer. She walked quietly from the woods with two fellow pachyderms by her side. They had been freed to entice her from her hideout. She came back like any other good circus elephant, ready to eat her peanuts.

Fright engendered by the wreck that killed a circus attendant and another elephant was gone when the fugitive found her mates, and she quickly was loaded on to another trailer and started on the way to Roanoke, Va., where the circus is showing.

POLAND SEEKS AID OF UKRAINIANS IN MOVE FOR UNITY

Leaders Air Differences in Warsaw.

BY DONALD DAY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RIGA, Latvia, Aug. 7.—Another attempt to improve relations between the Polish government and its Ukrainian minority has been undertaken by political and cultural leaders of both sides. At a meeting held in the editorial rooms of the conservative newspaper Czas in Warsaw, the conferees frankly discussed the situation and its dangers, but no action was taken.

Ukrainians were impressed by the views of Dr. M. Moshinski, chief editor of Czas, who presided. He said the Ukrainian question in Poland could not be solved without Polish recognition of the Ukrainians as a separate nation. The Polish provinces populated by Ukrainians, he said, are an inseparable part of Poland and will be defended by the Poles with the same determination as other sections of the country.

Urges Political Ethics.

Dr. Moshinski did not agree with the government's policy towards the Ukrainian minority. He said it lacked initiative and continuity and urged the use of political ethics in reaching a settlement. Other Polish speakers suggested formation of Polish-Ukrainian cultural societies to bring the two nations closer together.

Sharp differences of views became evident when the Ukrainians presented their case. M. Zelewicz, Ukrainian deputy to the Polish parliament, denied that the Ukrainians were admirers of the National-Socialist régime in Germany. He urged the Poles to support the Ukrainian national movement since an independent Ukrainia would develop from the disintegration of soviet Russia.

Cites Ukrainian Power.

He said that should Germany be defeated in a war, Poland would find itself between a communist Russia and a communist Germany and Poland then would need the support of a Ukrainian nation. The Poles, he said, made a serious mistake in underestimating the power of the Ukrainian national movement.

Together with other Ukrainians, he suggested the government cease its attempts to Polonize the Ukrainians, grant them complete religious, cultural, and political autonomy and permit the organization of a Ukrainian representative legislative body which could meet in Lwow, or some other Ukrainian city, and coöperate with central authority in Warsaw.

Although Germany's ambition to establish an independant Ukrainian state has not been mentioned for some months by the Nazi press, many Poles fear this problem will again become acute in the near future.

ORDER TYROLESE LEAVING ITALY TO DROP CITIZENSHIP

Germans Seeking New Homes Affected.

ROME, Aug. 7 (AP).—The government introduced a bill in the Fascist chamber today requiring South Tyroleans of Italian citizenship, who elect to move into Germany, to renounce their citizenship before leaving.

Such renunciation would sever them completely from Italy, automatically exempting them from obligations of Italian military service. The bill was presented by Premier Mussolini himself as minister of the interior.

10,000 to Leave Quickly.

Under the program for Italianizing the South Tyrol 10,000 German citizens there must leave immediateely. Another 200,000 residents of Germanic blood, who acquired Italian citizenship through the treaty of St. Germain after the world war, have been given the choice of leaving or remaining.

Many of them fear, however, that if they stay in the South Tyrol, which Italy acquired from the former Austro-Hungarian empire in the postwar settlements, they might eventually be moved to other parts of Italy.

Exceptions for Swiss.

It is to those of this second class who choose to leave that the measure introduced today would apply. Renunciation by the head of a family would extend also to his wife and minor children.

The ban on Germans in the South Tyrol, explained officially as for "political and military reasons," later was extended to all foreigners in the border area, but it was learned exceptions had been made for many Swiss property owners whose government interceded.

POLES HAVE NEW SPORT: ROB NAZIS OF BARBED WIRE

WARSAW, Poland, Aug. 7 (AP).—The stealing of barbed wire from German military obstructions has become a sport among Polish peasants along the German frontier, the newspaper Ilustrowany Kurjer of Cracow reported today.

Mischievously, the newspaper indicated, the peasants cross the border and snip away lengths of wire which they use to fence their gardens.

There is an element of competition, the paper said, to see who can get the most wire and in some cases the peasants bring back pieces of military equipment to prove their daring.

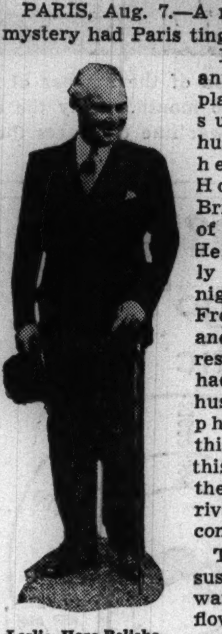
BRITISH DEFENSE CHIEF IN FRANCE ON HUSHED VISIT

Woman Enters His Car and Mystery Deepens.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Aug. 7.—A new diplomatic mystery had Paris tingling tonight.



Leslie Hore-Belisha, British war chief.

It was the unannounced, unexplained and unsuccessfully hushed presence here of Leslie Hore-Belisha, British secretary of state for war. He arrived secretly by plane last night but though French reporters and foreign correspondents soon had the tip, the hush-hush atmosphere was so thick that until this morning even the fact of his arrival could not be confirmed.

This led to the suspicion that the war minister had flown here for some exceptionally important and secret conferences with his French colleagues.

This suspicion increased when a French semi-official agency put out a communique this afternoon announcing that Hore-Belisha's trip was purely private.

Hard Man to Trail.

The keenest bloodhounds of the French press accordingly were set on his trail and one of them, writing for Ce Soir, tracked him to his lair at the Hotel Ritz.

A day long vigil at the Hotel Ritz and the various ministeries failed to produce evidence of any contact between the British minister and any one connected with the French government or army.

On the other hand, an unidentified, beautiful and elegant young woman called for Hore-Belisha at 11:30 a. m. and with him climbed into a black car not belonging to the British embassy or the French government and drove off.

Perhaps a Decoy.

Ce Soir, apparently wishing to reassure its readers, published a two column front page picture of Hore-Belisha and the unidentified caller walking out of the Ritz.

The mystery remained as deep as ever and one rumor was that the unidentified young woman was deliberately brought into the picture to throw the press off the trail. However, after close study of her picture, most observers were satisfied that she was not a member of the French general staf in a wig.

Seeks to Put Spanish Exiles on Dominican Farm Lands

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, Aug. 7.—Homes for 5,000 Spanish refugee families are being sought in the Dominican republic. José de Los Rios, brother of Fernando de Los Rios, former Spanish ambassador to Washington, D. C., sailed today to make a survey of lands reported available by the Dominican government, which has invited selective agricultural immigration. If suitable lands are found, De Los Rios said the immigrants will be taken from concentration camps for Spanish refugees in France.

BRITISH BOMBER HITS CLIFF; CREW AND WOMAN DIE

LONDON, Aug. 7 (AP).—A Royal Air Force bomber crashed on a steep cliff on the English channel at Beachy Head tonight, killing its crew of three and a woman who was walking on the 350 foot precipice. The big twin motored plane toppled over the cliff and into the surf. The bodies of the crew were not recovered until the tide fell.

Germany Seeks to Hire 10,000 More Bulgarians

[Copyright: 1939: By the New York Times.]

SOFIA, Bulgaria, Aug. 7.—Two German officials have arrived here to negotiate with the ministry of commerce for the enlistment of 10,000 Bulgarians for work in Germany, principally in the Hermann Goering Steel works. Since spring, 5,000 Bulgarian agricultural workers have been employed in Germany.

JAP RAID ON SHIPS WAS DELIBERATE, BRITISH DECLARE

Bomb Aimed at Gunboat, Officer Reports.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, Aug. 7.—The Japanese air attack which yesterday destroyed two British steamers on the Yangtze river near Ichang was premeditated and deliberate, British authorities charged in a report today. A protest already had been made to Japanese authorities.

Four Chinese were killed and four injured and a Canadian, H. J. Denyer, was gravely injured by the Japs' bombs. The two ships, the 1,300 ton Kiawo and the 600 ton Hsinchangwo, burned to the water line after they were hit. The British owned Asiatic Petroleum company's property also was bombed and damaged.

Commander A. F. St. G. Orpen of the British gunboat Gannet reported that his vessel was only half a mile downstream from the scene of the bombings.

Commander Orpen said one Japanese plane detached itself from the main group of attackers. The plane, he said, flew over the Gannet and released a bomb which apparently was aimed at the gunboat. It landed only 100 yards away.

Dived at Oil Plant.

Reports from the Gannet, said the raiders, twelve planes in all, appeared not to be concerned with any objective but the anchorage of British ships just below Ichang and nearby waterfront property of the Asiatic Petroleum company.

These reports said the planes dived at the oil plant and the anchored ships, which included eighteen lighters, a floating dock and two tugs, "with seeming undeniable intent to destroy this foreign property."

Officials asserted that all the properties were marked clearly with British flags.

The Gannet stood by to give assistance to the crews of the two burning vessels. Orpen reported to Rear Admiral Reginald Vesey Holt, commander of Britain's Yangtze river patrol, who earlier had protested to Japanese military authorities.

A Japanese army spokesman said "We have no information [concerning the attack]. If it happened, it is a regrettable mistake."

Many Hurt in Ichang.

A Japanese squadron of twelve planes bombed Ichang twice yesterday. Reports from the city, which is 1,000 miles up the Yangtze from Shanghai, said there were more than 500 casualties as a result of the attacks.

C. J. Spiker, American consul general at Hankow, today protested to the Japanese consul there against the Japanese bombing on July 26 of the American Lutheran United mission at Kioshan, Honan province. Kioshan is 150 miles south of Hankow.

Six bombs were dropped, one scoring a direct hit on the mission hospital. Eight Chinese were killed and two injured.

Another Port Blockaded.

Japanese naval authorities, continuing to extend their blockade of the South China coast, announced that Haimen, a port 250 miles south of Shanghai and midway between Ningpo and Wenchow, would be closed beginning tomorrow morning. The Japanese advised foreign shipping and citizens to leave the port.

A Japanese army spokesman disclosed that a "Unified Government of China" soon would be announced. This will merge the Peking and Nanking Japanese puppet régimes. The spokesman said the announcement would be made by Wang Ching-wei and Gen. Wu Pei-fu. Wang is a former premier of the Chinese nationalist government but was expelled by Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek last January. Gen. Wu is a famed war lord, statesman and scholar.

The Inquiring Reporter

The Question.

Do you think it is wrong for more than one member of a family to be on the public pay rolls?

Where Asked.

The Answers.

Frederick W. Boe, 6040 Dorchester avenue, draftsman—Yes, I do. When there is more than one member of a family on the public pay roll it keeps others out of jobs needed to support their families. When a man earns enough county funds to support his family, for example, it's totally wrong to have his wife drawing a pay check, too.

Mrs. Jennie Anderson, 2753 Arthur avenue, housewife—No, there isn't any wrong in work honestly performed, although it would be better public policy to divide the jobs. My idea is that there are many more families with several members on public pay rolls than we know anything about. We ought to find out how it affects the general unemployment situation.

T. B. Robertson Jr., 4505 Greenview avenue, salesman—In my opinion there's nothing wrong about the practice of permitting more than one member of a family to draw public pay if they are good workers. There's no rule against it in private industry so long as it promotes efficiency, and the same thing should apply to public employment.

Mrs. Josephine Abplanalp, 6318 North Richmond street, housewife—With conditions the way they are at present, I believe it is wrong. In the midst of general unemployment a person on a public pay roll should be satisfied to leave the other places open for heads of more families. Of course political pull is at the bottom of it.

Thomas O'Malley, 2049 North Avers avenue, heating salesman—It isn't wrong, in my opinion, unless a law prohibits giving several public jobs to one family. There should be an investigation to show whether such a law is needed. If the practice is widespread it ought to be stopped by law, with exceptions made for those getting less than $175 a month.

BORN WITH HEART ON OUTSIDE, BABY IS "DOING NICELY"

MANILA, Aug. 8 [Tuesday] (AP).—An infant girl born with her heart exposed was reported "doing nicely" on the second day of her life.

Dr. Guillermo del Castillo, attending physician, said he expected the baby to live since her heart beat and breathing were normal. Other prominent physicians, who gazed at the heart through a glass jar that covered it, disagreed.

The child, born yesterday to a 24 year old mother, was baptized and named Maria Corazon [Mary Heart]. She is being fed milk with an eyedropper.

Dr. Castillo explained the baby's heart rested on the chest over a small opening. It was suggested an operation be performed to enlarge the opening in the chest, permitting the heart to drop into the cavity where it belongs. But conferees decided no operation should be performed immediately. Doctors said there was only one other such case in recorded medical history.

ENGLAND TO TEST DEFENSE AGAINST 1,300 WAR BIRDS

Some of Sham Raiders to Fly from France.

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 7.—Thirteen hundred British military aircraft will participate in a comprehensive series of maneuvers beginning at 8 p. m. tomorrow designed to test this country's air defenses and the striking power of Britain's expanded air force.

About 60,000 airmen and ground units will be involved in the war games which are described as the biggest in British history. They will last until 7 p. m. Friday and cover an area of approximately half of England extending east of a line running through Hull, Macclesfield, Droitwich, Salisbury, and Bournemouth.

Blackout 28 Counties.

The high point of the maneuvers will come at midnight Wednesday when twenty-eight counties, including London, will be blacked out. Five hundred "enemy" bombers will carry out attacks. Eight hundred high speed fighting planes, aided by ground defense forces, will coöperate to repel the invaders.

Under a recent agreement between the British and French governments permitting training flights over each other's territory, some of the newest British bombers will start night raids on England this week from Beauvais, about forty miles north of Paris. The raiders will attack the southeast coasts of Britain to test the ability of the fighter squadrons to intercept bomber formations approaching from the continent. During the blackout it is suggested that French bombers may join in the surprise attack.

In view of Britain's new commitments in Europe, military and aviation strategists emphasize that this country needs a powerful striking force as well as defensive force.

Use Speediest Planes.

It will be a high speed "war," for the bombers have top speeds of from 200 to 300 miles per hour while most of the fighters have maximum speeds of from 300 to 360 miles per hour.

Apart from the 1,300 warplanes, the maneuvers will involve more than 1,400 anti-aircraft guns with searchlight units, ten balloon barrage squadrons with more than 500 balloons, fifteen groups of the civilian observation corps, which is responsible for reporting the approach of hostile aircraft, as well as numerous local air raid precautions organizations. All air raids will take place as if in time of war and in some cases bombers will fly only a few hundred feet above the ground.

DUTCH PRINCESS NAMED IRENE TO SYMBOLIZE PEACE

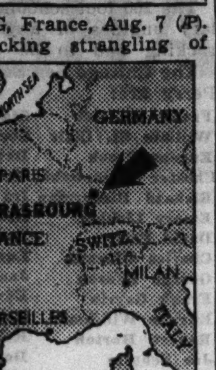
SOESTDIJK, The Netherlands, Aug. 7 (AP).—Smiling broadly, Prince Bernhard today carried his new born daughter on a pink pillow to the official registration of her birth as the Netherlands observed a holiday in celebration of the royal addition to the House of Orange.

The child, born early Saturday to Crown Princess Juliana, was named Irene Emma Elisabeth. The prince explained that "we chose Irene, which means peace, because of the serious international situation."

After the registration ceremony the Netherlands national birth drink "kandeel" was served. It is made of hot milk, gin, sugar, eggs, and cinnamon.

FRANCE HUNTS SILK STOCKING STRANGLER; BLAMED FOR 9 DEATHS

STRASBOURG, France, Aug. 7 (AP).—The silk stocking strangling of Jeanne Graziani started a new hunt today for the phantom "Strasbourg strangler," blamed by police for eight other slayings since 1932.



Arrow locates city terrorized by strangler.

The girl was found dead in her room yesterday. Police said neighbors gave a description of a man seen leaving the house and that it corresponds with other descriptions of the strangler suspect they have never caught.

The first murder attributed to the phantom was in February, 1932, when the body of a nude girl, strangled with a stocking, was found by a rag picker. Four more murders by strangulation were recorded over a period of four years. Two others were reported at intervals of several months and the last previous slaying was in March, 1937.

REPORT SEIZURE OF HUNDREDS AS SPANISH REBELS

HENDAYE, France [at the Spanish Frontier], Aug. 8 (AP) [Tuesday].—Unconfirmed reports reaching this border city today said Spanish Nationalists had arrested hundreds of persons accused of harboring former republican soldiers and extremists. The Nationalists have been carrying on an intensive campaign to weed out republican elements in the Asturian mountains of the northwest since the end of the civil war.

25 Seized in Madrid.

MADRID, Aug. 7 (AP).—Continuing an intensive drive that has resulted in sixty-two executions in the last three days, police tonight arrested twenty-five persons whom they identified as communists.

The sixty-two persons disposed of by firing squads had been charged with a triple killing, and similarly, the latest arrests were accused of "numerous assassinations." Seven of their number were described as members of the Red committee of the republican [Loyalist] war ministry that directed the defense of Madrid's long civil war siege.

KILLED BY HIT-RUN AUTO.

Oakland, Ill., Aug. 7.—[Special.]—Olin C. Rardin, 28 years old, a farmer living near Rardin, was killed last night, apparently by a hit and run automobile driver. His body was found on a country road half a mile from route 133.

VOTE TO CUT CITY SERVICE FEE ON FEDERAL HOMES

BY WILLIAM STRAND.

The city council housing committee recommended yesterday that the city accept $39,731 from the Chicago Housing authority in payment for governmental services at Chicago's three public housing projects during 1938. And, after further consideration, the committee voted to accept a smaller sum for the same services—fire and police protection and sewage disposal—in lieu of taxes this year.

All told, the federal government has spent $13,847,000 in public funds on the three projects, the Julia Lathrop, the Jane Addams, and the Trumbull Park homes. H. G. Bollman, representing County Assessor John S. Clark, told the aldermen that the properties, if privately owned, would have an annual tax bill of $494,355, of which the city's share would be $193,000.

Charge Based on Rents.

But the federal government contends that payment of this sum would boost the rents beyond the reach of the low income groups for which the projects are designed. The small service charge in lieu of taxes was one of the terms under which the United States Housing authority leased the projects to the CHA.

The reduced payment for the year 1939, it was disclosed, will result from a change in computing the service charge. Heretofore the $39,731 was a flat sum agreed upon by city officials and the CHA. The amount in the future will be figured on the basis of total rents collected for dwelling quarters.

The aldermen agreed to accept 5 per cent of the rentals after utility charges for gas and electricity are deducted. Elizabeth Wood, executive secretary of the CHA, said that if all of the 2,414 flats were occupied throughout the year the net dwelling rentals would be about $600,000. On this basis the city would receive $30,000 for services.

Expects Less than $30,000.

Miss Wood added, however, that all the flats have never been occupied for a whole year. She indicated that the city's share would be considerably less than $30,000, judging from the annual rent revenues in the past.

"I'm against this change," asserted Ald. Roy E. Olin [8th], who is a Republican. "Every time the service charge is lowered for public housing projects the burden of supporting the government is shifted to private property. Small property owners already are carrying too much of the load."

Miss Wood told the committee that services in unimproved slum areas cost the city much more than the housing projects. In one square mile of slums there were 912 fire alarms last year, she said, while the average over the entire city was 113 per square mile. The housing projects are of fireproof construction.

The action of the housing committee will be brought before the finance committee this morning and submitted to the council this afternoon.

BUILDERS OF CHICAGO (6)

By CALEB

AT the corner of Madison street and Vincennes Road once stood a quaint, prim building known as the Bennett Grammar School. There, in the 1850's, appeared at classes a quiet little boy of English descent, despite his American birth, whose life was to be interestingly entwined with the city's own subsequent life and growth.

This lad's name was Charles Daniel Peacock; his date of birth, October 10, 1838: his father's occupation—like his grandfather's and great-grandfather's in England—that of watch-repairer and jeweler. Hence, the trend of the boy's lifework was already practically implanted in his blood.

Finished with the limited schooling available on the very site of what is today "the world's busiest corner," young Peacock started business under his father, in the establishment then located at 199 West Randolph street. Those were the sumptuous days of elaborate brooches, bracelets and earrings for the ladies, and rings, cravat-pins and shirt-studs for the men—so that many of the civic and social celebrities then prominent were frequent patrons of the store.

Came the inevitable catastrophe responsible for so many demolished Chicago firms—the great fire of 1871—and amid the general ruin all of Peacock's that was left intact was its formidable jewelry vault. Business, however, was quickly resumed on Madison street; and 1873 found the firm located at the northwest corner of State and Washington streets, where it remained for nearly a quarter-century.

From 1896 to 1927, the business was located at State and Adams; then removed to its present site at State and Monroe. Thus, through six of the busiest, swiftest-changing decades of Chicago's history, have been carried on the same name and fine craft traditions inaugurated by Elijah Peacock, when the city was but one year young.

Charles Daniel Peacock, pioneer merchant, died at the turn of the century, in 1903, leaving to his sons the legacies of high esteem, deserved repute, and business integrity, that have most to do with posterity's memories of individuals, organizations and communities. One of the city's oldest establishments has corroborated that truth in the facts of its own continuous career.

ALDERMEN WANT MORE RELIEFERS ON CLEANUP JOBS

City Asks for 8,160, but 2,527 Are Assigned.

The Chicago Relief administration has ordered 2,527 men from the relief rolls to report for work this morning to the superintendents of the fifty wards. The men are to cut weeds and clean lots and parkways. The city requested 8,160 men for the job. Last night complaints from aldermen were numerous that too few men had been assigned to the projects.

This is one of several projects for able bodied reliefers that were set up recently by Oscar E. Hewitt, commissioner of public works. Those who refuse to work will have their relief checks cut unless an inquiry shows they have a good reason.

Calls It Waste of Time.

Ald. Richard M. Walsh [36th], whose ward was assigned only seven workers, declared the cleanup project would be a waste of time unless more men were assigned immediately.

Ald. George D. Kells of the 28th ward, where nine men were assigned, declared: "I'm going to see Lyons [Leo M. Lyons, CRA commissioner]. Something ought to be done about this."

136 Asked, 50 Assigned.

Fifty men were assigned to the 40th ward, although 136 were requested. The ward's alderman, Joseph C. Ross, remarked: "Fifty men would have to work a year to get anywhere."

Other wards fared better. The 2d ward, one of the most thickly populated in the city, got 156 men. The 3d ward, another in which there is little vacant property, was allotted 130 men.

CRA officials explained that the assignments were made several weeks ago. Recent reductions in relief budgets have made some reliefers ineligible for work. Adjustments in the asignments were promised within a week.

Following is a list of the wards showing the number of men requested and the number assigned to each:

Ward—	Asked.	Assigned.	Ward—	Asked.	Assigned.
1	136	23	26	136	17
2	170	156	27	204	18

24	136	36	49	136	15
25	136	25	50	272	27

Plans to clean the lots and parkways have been praised by city officials and civic leaders. Noxious weeds add to the sufferings of hay fever victims. They also increase trafic hazards, obscuring the vision of motorists and pedestrians at intersections.

WPA CHIEF PUTS WATER FAILURE BLAME ON CITY

Report on Belden Ave. Leak Revealed.

H. K. Seltzer, Chicago director of the Works Project administration, declared yesterday that WPA workers were not responsible for the failure of the water supply Sunday to residents along Belden avenue from Geneva terrace to Cleveland avenue. Seltzer said the city's water pipe extension division had been informed last Friday of the leak that developed into Sunday's break in the water main.

The Belden avenue sewer was to have been completed by Aug. 15, he said, but cannot be completed now before Sept. 15. Seltzer said the delay was caused by the WPA strike last month.

Can't Fix City Schedules.

"We cannot set up an accomplishment program and work according to schedule on projects sponsored by the city of Chicago, although we do have such programs on projects sponsored by the park district, the school board, and other local sponsors of the WPA projects," Seltzer said.

"We have to work intermittently on city projects as the work opportunities are made available by the city."

Water pipe extension men examined the leaky Belden avenue water main Friday and said it would hold until yesterday, Seltzer said. He stated that a WPA watchman reported that the leak rapidly was getting worse early Sunday.

Approves Shut Off by WPA.

"Camille Devito, our superintendent on the project, shut off the main Sunday morning in what I think was a wise move," Seltzer said. "If he hadn't, the main, which was broken by then, probably would have washed out more of the sewer ditch and part of the street itself.

The broken main was repaired by the city water pipe extension men early yesterday. Bernard J. Cullen, superintendent of the water pipe extension division, said the division tries to keep its men from working on Saturdays and Sundays because of the added burden of increased salaries for week-end work.

CHICAGO SCOUT SHIP, CAUGHT ON SHOALS, FREED

38 Boys Aboard Vessel; All Reported Safe.

The three masted schooner Oliver H. Perry was freed by coast guardsmen late yesterday from the Ile aux Galets shoals in Lake Michigan, about 300 miles northeast of Chicago. The ship, which struck the shoals while under full sail, was carrying thirty-eight Sea Scouts, including thirty-five from Chicago, and ten officers on a summer training cruise. All of those aboard were reported safe.

Coast guard surf boats last night were towing the Perry out of the treacherous waters where she went aground. Later the vessel was reported on its way to St. Ignace, Mich., on the Straits of Mackinac, where damage to its rudder will be repaired.

Surf Boats Release Vessel.

The release was affected by the coast guard's surf boats, no cutter being in the area. The cutter Escanaba started northward from Grand Haven, Mich., at 3:30 p. m., but it was ordered to return after the Perry was freed.

The coast guard was notified of the schooner's plight at 10:30 a. m. by an officer who had rowed to Cross Village, an ancient Indian settlement on the mainland, four miles from the ship. He reported that the Perry struck the shoal in the early morning.

Attempts to free it by rocking failed. Rocking is accomplished by dropping the anchor, then winding up the anchor line on the capstan or winch. This careens the vessel. It lurches back to normal position when the line is freed.

Has No Auxiliary Engine.

The 200 foot schooner has no auxiliary engines of any kind and the rocking had to be done by hand.

The Chicago Sea Scouts aboard the Perry are:

Frank Rydelek	Stafford Dairs
William St. Clair	Stewart Davis
Eugene Proch	David Zalsman
Chester Karczewski	Marvin Snyder
Richard Biederman	Ira Falk

The Perry was built in 1920 and sailed between Nova Scotia and Africa for many years. It now is under charter to the Sea Scouts of America. Detroit is its home port. The present cruise is its third of the summer.

WPA TO BEGIN FIRING 54,000 IN 18 MONTH CLASS

The discharge of 54,000 Illinois Work Projects administration employés who have been on work relief for 18 months or longer was ordered begun yesterday by Charles E. Miner, state WPA administrator. Miner said that about half of those to be dismissed are Chicagoans.

The 18 month limit is contained in the new WPA appropriation law, passed in June by congress. Col. F. C. Harrington, WPA commissioner, held up dismissals last month pending congressional action on the spend-lend bill, which carried a rider eliminating the 18 month rule. The bill was defeated.

Dismissals must be completed by Sept. 1. They will be made in Illinois at the rate of 2,500 a day.

Naval Reservist Is Lost Overboard on Lake Ship

Robert Joseph Welch of Burlington, Ia., a fireman, was lost overboard from the U. S. S. Dubuque early yesterday during maneuvers on Lake Michigan, according to a report received a district headquarters of the Naval reserve. Welch and other reservists from Iowa boarded the Dubuque at Chicago Sunday afternoon.

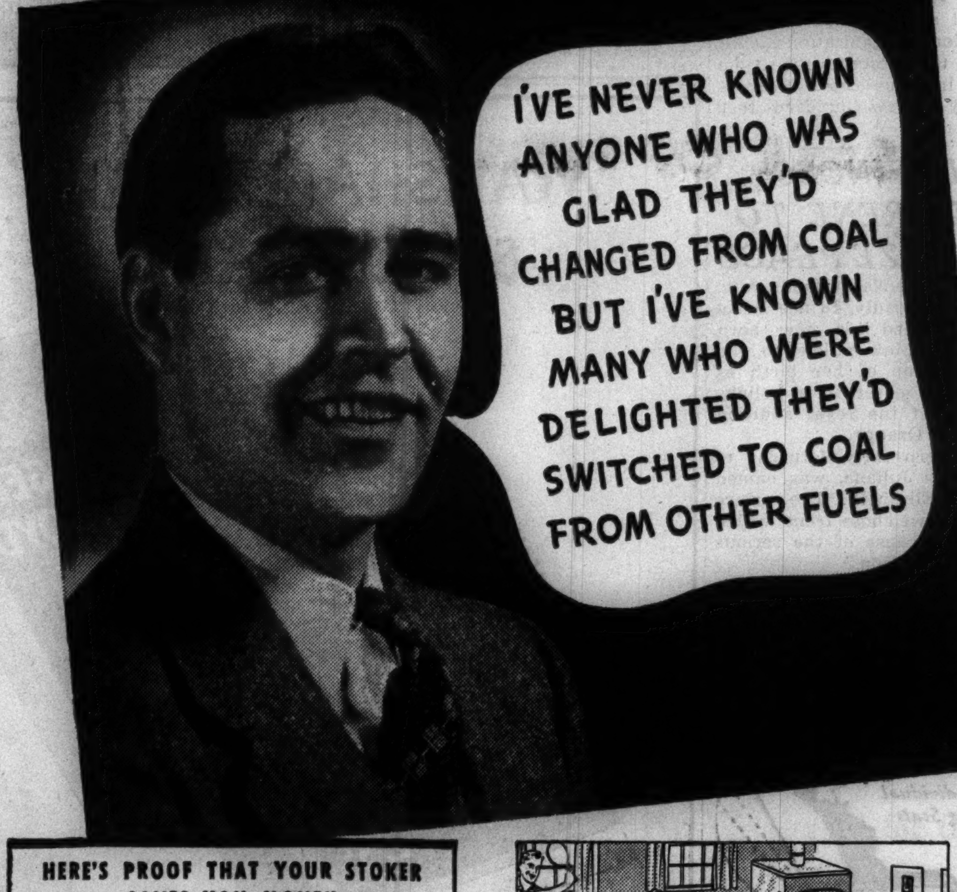
Experienced Home Owners Agree Stoker Heat is the best form of Automatic Heat - Costs Less



See Why Smart Householders say Stoker Heat is Most Satisfactory

EASY—Your modern coal stoker is safe and easy to operate. You light the fire once . . . from then on the automatic control keeps the fire going all winter long. The stoker feeds itself.

COSTS LESS—Your stoker burns coal, the most economical fuel in the world. You save 40% on fuel bills alone with coal. Your stoker burns efficiently, giving you the utmost heat out of every pound of coal.

BEST—Your modern stoker gives you clean, uninterrupted, healthful heat. No dangerous drafts, no Layer-Cake Heat, in the home heated with a coal stoker. A steady flow of warm air, circulating constantly, keeps the temperature uniform. The touch of your finger on the automatic control regulates the temperature exactly as you want it.

CALL YOUR COAL MERCHANT

Ask him to show you how much you'll save heating your home with a modern coal stoker. Ask him about the easy payment plan. If he is a member of the Chicago Coal Merchants Association, he will give you full information, and recommend the most suitable stoker for your home.

HERE'S PROOF THAT YOUR STOKER SAVES YOU MONEY

COAL

FUEL B

FUEL C

HOW MUCH DOES IT COST TO HEAT A HOUSE?
The actual cost was $66.70 to heat this 7-room house with coal, including wheeling, for a season, using a stoker to feed the coal.

THE MODERN STOKER Whatever your heating problem . . . there is a stoker to fit your needs. Buying on easy terms, you pay only $1.50 or $2.00 a week . . . and save on fuel as you pay. Put a coal stoker in your basement and use the additional space for a playroom or workroom. Your architect will tell you how easy this is with coal.

ASSAIL LICENSES USED BY STATE TO MAKE PROFIT

Officials Call Some Too High, Some Unnecessary

Officials of Chicago business organizations declared yesterday that the state charges excessive fees for licensing persons for certain trades and professions and that in some of these occupations no licenses should be required. They said that such licensing, when necessary to benefit and protect the public, should not be used as a source of revenue but only to defray costs to the state.

The spokesmen were Louis Dumond, manager of the industrial department of the Chicago Association of Commerce, and Kenneth Barnard, general manager of the Better Business bureau.

$367,067 Collected in Year.

The state department of registration and education at Springfield reported two weeks ago that it collected $367,067 from licenses and other certifying fees for trades and professions in 1938. The department's operating expenses totaled $286,644, thus showing a profit of $80,423 to the state.

The department regularly conducts examinations for licensing in eighteen trades and professions, certificates being necessary before a person can engage in any of them. These occupations are: architect, barber, beauty operator, chiropodist, dentist, detective [private], funeral director and embalmer, horseshoer, land surveyor, medical [physician], nurse [registered], optometrist, pharmacist, plumber, public accountant, structural engineer, veterinary, and real estate [brokers and salesmen].

The license and examination fees range from $100 for a plumber and $70 for a private detective to $2 for a real estate salesman. [The state's plumbing examinations are not given in Chicago; the city has its own tests and a $100 fee for that trade.]

Objects to Renewal Fees.

There are annual renewal fees charged for these occupations, except for dentists, physicians, veterinarians, and public accountants. These fees vary from $25 for plumbers to $1 each for architects, barbers, beauty operators, chiropodists, horseshoers, land surveyors, nurses, optometrists, structural engineers and real estate brokers and salesmen.

Mr. Dumond said the annual renewal fees should be abolished in all cases.

"The state gives no extra service for such fees and there is therefore no reason for them," he declared. "The fees just serve to complicate the state's bookkeeping and to put extra clerks on the pay roll. Why continue to bleed a person once a year after he has paid for his original license?

"As for the original fees, they are too high. That is evident because the department of registration and education shows a profit. The state's only concern should be to provide supervision and protection for the public, not to make money out of licenses.

Laws to Regulate Honesty.

"Some professions, such as those of private detectives and real estate, asked for licensing to keep racketeers out. But it is doubtful if any good was accomplished—you can't legislate honesty.

"Licensing may keep quacks out of certain professions—such as medicine, dentistry, and chiropody, but there doesn't seem to be any reason for licensing occupations like architecture and horseshoeing. In cases where licensing is needed, the fees should be lowered so that they cover only the cost of giving the examinations and keeping records."

Mr. Barnard said that licensing is not necessary in the occupations of architect, barber, funeral director and embalmer, horseshoer, and land surveyor, and expressed doubt that it is required for detectives, plumbers, and public accountants.

"And in the other trades and professions the fees for applicants should be materially reduced," he said. "There is no justification for the state exacting a profit from people who want to work."

60 on Clerical Forces.

The department of registration and education has sixty employés on its clerical forces in Chicago and Springfield and has thirty-three investigators throughout the state. Most of these employés are under civil service. The examinations are prepared by boards made up of members of the various occupations. The board members are paid on a per diem and mileage basis.

John J. Hallihan, director of the department, receives a $6,000 annual salary. His assistant, C. P. Bliss, is paid $4,300. The appointments are made by the governor.

Preliminary Chicagoland Music Festival auditions for 261 vocalists from the south and west sides of Chicago and Cook county will begin tonight at 7 o'clock in the Chicago Woman's Club theater at 72 East 11th street. The contests will continue for four consecutive evenings.

Gladys Zeiher [top] Raymond Anderson.

Tenors, contraltos, and baritones of the west section will be heard tonight. Sopranos, mezzos, and basses will sing tomorrow evening. The same classification schedule will follow on Thursday and Friday evenings for the entrants living on the south side.

Contest Judges Named.

The judges will be Carl Craven, Kathryn Witwer, and Richard De Young tonight; Nelli Gardini, Thomas MacBurney, and Ralph Niehaus tomorrow; Zerline Muhlmann Metzer, Franklin Hathaway, and Anna Kruetgen Thursday, and Harry Walsh, Inez H. Hicks, and Frank Bennett Friday. An admission fee of 25 cents will be charged the public.

One of the youngest contraltos in the contest tonight is Miss Gladys Zeiher, 16 years old, of 4424 Manor avenue. She attends Amundsen High school. This spring she won second place in her voice classification in the Chicago high school vocal competition.

Young Tenors to Compete.

Among the tenors registered are Raymond Anderson, 25, of 5457 Wellington avenue; Alfred John Anton, 25, of 5148 Barry avenue, and George Bihun, 30, of 1621 Division street.

Eight of the winners will be presented at two sectional music festivals which are to be held in Chicago Saturday and Sunday nights. The winners from the south side auditions will be featured Saturday night at the first annual Great South Side festival to be held at the Jackson park band shell at 63d street. The four west side victors will be heard at the second annual Greater West Side Fine Arts association festival concert Sunday at 7:30 p. m. from the Garfield park band shell.

The latter concert is the opening event of the Chicagoland Music Festival week in Chicago. The week will end in the major concert in Soldiers' field Saturday night, Aug. 19.

SEEK TO TRACE SALE OF RIFLE IN RIVER SLAYING

Unexplained Money Also Viewed as Clew.

Lake county authorities searched last night for the merchant who sold the gun with which John Haeuschen Jr. was mysteriously shot to death.

They also sought to learn where he had obtained $9.10, which was found in his pocket. His father said he doubted that the young man had more than $1 when he left the family home at 6456 North Newland avenue last Friday. His body was found Sunday along the Des Plaines river a mile northeast of Libertyville.

Authorities said they also are trying to learn the identity of a man in a blue shirt now believed to have been riding with Haeuschen soon after the young man left home.

Coroner John L. Taylor opened an inquest into the death last evening in the funeral chapel at 120 West Park avenue, Libertyville. He continued it indefinitly at the suggestion of the jurors to enable investigators to determine the source of the gun.

Deputy Sherif Stanley Christian testified that the only finger prints found on the .22 caliber rifle that lay across Haeuschen's chest were those of the slain youth. It has not been established that the bullet which pierced his head and killed him was fired from this gun. Powder marks showed that the fatal weapon had been held close to the head. His father's bullet-riddled automobile was nearby.

Father Tells of Mystery Man.

The father, who testified at the inquest, told of the man in the blue shirt. The elder Haeuschen said he learned of this man from Olaf Gunnufsen, 22 years old, of 5727 North Mulligan avenue. Gunnufsen is a brother of George Gunnufsen, husband of the victim's sister, Muriel. The story was this:

Olaf saw a car he thought to be Haeuschen's about 3:30 p. m. Friday beside a filling station at Harlem and Avondale avenues. Olaf's view of the driver was blocked by the man in the blue shirt, who was slumped beside the driver. Confident that young Haeuschen was in the car, Olaf rapped on the door, but the car sped off.

It was about 3:30 p. m. Friday, the father said, that Haeuschen left home to get his mother at the George Gunnufsen home, 4638 North Albany avenue. Haeuschen never arrived there. His family reported him missing on Saturday.

Denies Dispute with Son.

The elder Haeuschen denied, in response to a question, that there had been a dispute between him and his son over mowing the lawn the day young Haeuschen disappeared.

The Haeuschen family scoffed at the suggestion that young Haeuschen, who was 23 years old and a graduate of Carl Schurz High school, might have committed suicide. Lake county authorities doubted that if he had been murdered the killer would have risked giving an alarm by firing so many times.

They were unable, however, to explain why a man planning suicide would first fire bullets into his father's car.

3 Chicago Youths Escape from Dixon State Hospital

The detective bureau was notified last night to be on the lookout for three Chicago youths who escaped yesterday from the Dixon state hospital at Dixon. They are Alex Koehler, 20 years old, 3057 Elbridge avenue; Edward Krammitzer, 18, of 8144 Kenwood avenue, and Francis Oldsby, 15, colored, of 3149 South Park way.

ANNENBERG JURY TAKES RECESS IN MONOPOLY QUIZ

The federal grand jury investigating alleged monopoly phases of the activities of Moses L. Annenberg, wealthy Philadelphia publisher and New Deal critic, recessed yesterday until next Monday. John V. Hayes, assistant United States attorney general in charge of the case, left last night for Washington, D. C. Hayes would not comment, but it was reported he went there to confer with Attorney General Frank Murphy.

Another grand jury is investigating Annenberg's income and income tax payments. United States District Attorney William J. Campbell said he expected this jury to conclude its investigation this week.

With the completion of this case the government will present evidence concerning the income tax affairs of William R. [Billy] Skidmore, reputed overlord of Chicago gambling.

bills here in November, 1936, "as his share of the illicit gains and profits of the said conspiracy," keeping a like sum for himself.

United States Attorney General Frank Murphy, together with J. Edgar Hoover, head of the federal bureau of investigation, were Leche's guests at a reception at the governor's mansion only two months ago when Murphy stopped in Baton Rouge to deliver the commencement address at Louisiana State university and accept an honorary degree bestowed by Dr. Smith, who now faces a total of forty state and federal indictments.

Cleanup, Murphy's Warning.

Murphy, in a press conference, warned that the federal government was determined and had the legal instruments necessary to step into corrupt city and state political situations and clean them up if the communities themselves refused to act.

Leche then was being considered for the federal judgeship of the eastern Louisiana district. Following his resignation, Murphy announced the name had been withdrawn.

Leche headed Louisiana's delegation to the 1936 Democratic national convention, and still is Democratic national committeeman for the state.

COURT ENJOINS MOVING GRAVES FROM LAKE BED

Marion, Ill., Aug. 7 [Special].—Circuit Judge Lloyd M. Bradley of Carbondale in Williamson county Circuit court this afternoon granted a temporary injunction preventing removal of graves from rural cemeteries in the federal government's 2 million dollar Crab Orchard lake project along the Williamson-Jackson county line.

The injunction was directed against Secretary of Agriculture Wallace and Charles Hamilton of Carbondale, project manager. G. R. Schwarz of Jerseyville, attorney representing the government, said he would petition for removal of the case to the federal court at East St. Louis.

The injunction was asked by Attorney George Dowell of Du Quoin on behalf of fifty-five land owners and relatives of 1,867 persons buried in twenty-two cemeteries in the area.

A law passed by congress two weeks ago authorizing removal of the graves was introduced at the hearing today. Judge Bradley cited a clause in new measure, however, which renders the law inoperative until a new cemetery is established to which the graves can be removed.

BEGIN CHANGING NAME OF AIRPORT —A $20,000 JOB

New Orleans, La., Aug. 7 [Special].—Workmen were ordered today to begin chiseling the name of Abe L. Shushan, former political aid to the late Huey Long, from fixtures at the municipal airport. The order followed the levee board's decision to change the name of the base from Shushan airport to New Orleans airport.

Shushan, who was president of the board when the airport was constructed, once boasted it would cost $20,000 to change the name of the airport. He said he had his name and initials in more than 1,000 places at the airport, including doorknobs, terrazzo work, and fixtures.

The levee board's action followed Shushan's failure to appear before it for a discussion of a $496,000 bond refunding fee the board had to pay after Shushan quit in 1935. Just before his resignation Shushan was acquitted of income tax evasion charges based on government allegations that he received graft from levee board contracts.

A BABY BUGGY THIEF GETS 12 MONTHS IN JAIL

Judge Eugene L. McGarry yesterday sentenced a perambulator thief to the Bridewell for twelve months. He is Raymond Johnson, 29 years old, of 1542 Edgewater avenue. Johnson admitted he had stolen a dozen baby buggies.

The prices he got for the buggies were as small as the passengers they were designed to carry. He said he sold one $75 vehicle for 75 cents.

HOOSIER ROMEO CALLED BIGAMIST WITH THIRD WIFE

Bride No. 4 and Mother Sign Fraud Charge.

Howard L. Shaw's romantic past began turning up more trouble yesterday for the Hoosier Romeo, already accused by his fourth wife of being a swindler. An attorney for Shaw's third wife, a comely blonde, accused him of being a bigamist.

She is Mrs. Mary Comstock Shaw, 26 years old, formerly of Wabash, Ind., and now of Lakewood, O., a Cleveland suburb. Her attorney, Raymond Brooks of North Manchester, Ind., revealed she never had been divorced from Shaw.

Shaw, who is 34 and comes from Lafayette, Ind., is being held at the Shakespeare avenue station on the complaint of his latest bride, Janina La Boda, 27, of 2851 North Talman avenue, a night club singer. They were married last January after a speedy courtship.

Two Sign Fraud Complaints.

Miss La Boda and her mother, Mrs. Gertrude Anderson, signed formal complaints charging Shaw with obtaining money under false pretenses. An examination of Shaw's marriage and divorce record was begun when police were asked to find wife No. 3 in Ohio, wife No. 2, Myrtle Flynn, in Baltimore, Md., and wife No. 1, Jane Booth, in Indianapolis, Ind.

Mrs. Shaw No. 4, who never knew of her predecessors until after her marriage, charged that Shaw pawned more than $10,000 worth of her jewelry and other possessions. She said he also duped her mother into lending him $2,300, supposedly so he could fight for a $100,000 estate. Police say that several loop restaurants also accuse Shaw of passing fraudulent checks.

Paints Glowing Picture.

As he did with Miss La Boda, said the Indiana lawyer, Shaw posed as the son of a wealthy contractor and painted a glowing picture of what he would do for Miss Comstock. She sued for divorce in December, 1936, two months after their marriage, and Shaw disappeared.

The divorce decree never has been made final, the former Miss Comstock said last night in her Lakewood, O., home.

Attorney Brooks said he and his client would decide what to do about Shaw after disposal of the charges here.

Bandit Suspects

Gerald Montague. Walter Smith.

Kankakee, Ill., Aug. 7 [Special].—Two fugitive convicts, betrayed by the squawks of four chickens they had stolen for a midnight feast, were in jail here today. Law officers sought to link them with an attempted $75,000 pay roll holdup of an Illinois Central train July 31.

The convicts are Gerald Montague, 21 years old, of Kankakee and Walter Smith, 22, of Cincinnati. They were among seven federal prisoners who escaped from guards July 26 near Thornburg, W. Va., when they were being transported by bus from Atlanta, Ga., penitentiary to the federal prison at Lewisburg, W. Va.

Montague and Smith were seized early today in a tourist cabin at Momence, twelve miles east of Kankakee. They were asleep and had no chance to reach for a revolver on a chair in the cabin.

O'HARE IS DENIED WRIT TO PROTECT PRIZE DRAWINGS

Anderson [Husk] O'Hare, 3035 Washington boulevard, orchestra leader and booking agent, yesterday was denied a temporary injunction to restrain police from banning "Husk" O'Hare's Music club as a lottery. Judge Charles A. Williams referred O'Hare's request for a permanent injunction to Master in Chancery Charles C. Stilwell.

The club planned to charge taverns and night clubs $4.50 a week for the privilege of distributing ballots free to patrons. Customers were to vote on the most popular song of the week. Those selecting the winning song were eligible for prizes in a drawing.

O'Hare's attorney, Archie Coburn, contended that the scheme was not a lottery in that it cost the participants nothing to play. Charles P. Horan, assistant corporation counsel, argued that the plan violated the anti-lottery law.

EARLE'S EX-AID IS NAMED IN $5,000 EXTORTION PLOT

Harrisburg, Pa., Aug. 7 [Special].—David L. Lawrence, Democratic state chairman and former secretary of the commonwealth in the administration of Gov. George Earle, was accused today of extorting $5,000 from the Pioneer Materials company of Kittanning.

The charge is embodied in a bill of particulars filed against Lawrence by District Attorney Carl B. Shelley of Dauphin county in response to a demand by the chairman's attorneys.

It came as three men, charged with conspiracy to monopolize the state's bonding business with road contractors, pleaded not guilty in Dauphin county court at the opening of the second of the series of graft and corruption trials growing out of last year's gubernatorial campaign. The defendants are H. H. Temple, dismissed as chief highways engineer as a result of the scandal over purchase of gravel in Erie, and James P. Kirk and Victor Skok, Pittsburgh insurance men.

ST. CHARLES GRAD AND PAL TO FACE CHARGES ON CAR

Two young men, one a parolee from St. Charles School for Boys, who were seized in a stolen car Saturday after policemen had chased them along the Outer drive and through Lincoln park, will face court today on charges of larceny of an automobile. They are Roy Bybee of 1318 East 73d street, who was released from the St. Charles school last April after serving a year for robbery, and Thomas Burke, 6646 Stony Island avenue. Both are 17 years old.

They were captured near Melrose street and Lake Shore drive when their automobile crashed against one of the pursuing squad cars. Bybee told police that he and Burke had planned to buy a revolver to use in robberies. James Terry, 1015 East 52d street, who police said had attempted to se a gun to the two, will be arraigned with them on a charge of carrying a concealed weapon.

CASHIER GETS 1 TO 10 YEARS IN THEFT OF $49,000

Joseph Hadley Cammick, 37 years old, was sentenced to 1 to 10 years in Joliet penitentiary by Judge Michael Feinberg in the Criminal court yesterday on a charge of embezzling $49,998 from the Continental Can company.

Cammick, who was cashier and chief clerk of the can company, disappeared in 1932. He was found recently in Burbank, Cal. After agreeing to a bench trial Cammick took the stand and said he took the money after he had lost $15,000 of his own in the stock market.

Assistant State's Attorney Richard Austin, who prosecuted the case, said the state would not press possible bigamy charges against Cammick. He married again in California after divorcing his first wife by fraud. Wife No. 1 has moved to Oklahoma with their son, now in his teens. Neither of the wives was in court.

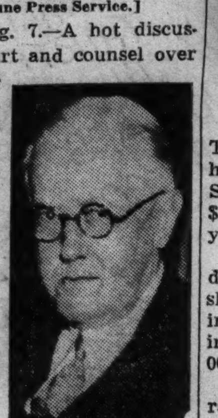
COURT DEBATES POINT OF ETHICS WITH ATTORNEY

Questions Propriety of Loan to Manton.

BY WILLIAM FULTON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 7.—A hot discussion between court and counsel over ethics of the legal profession today enlivened oral arguments in the case of two prominent New York attorneys facing disbarment action as a result of dealings involving Ex-Judge Martin T. Manton. Manton was recently convicted of conspiracy to sell justice.



John W. Davis.

The colloquy was between Judge John C. Knox, senior judge of the Federal District court, and John W. Davis, former president of the American Bar association and the Democratic candidate for President in 1924. Davis was representing Louis S. Levy, attorney and patron of the arts.

Loan Preceded Judge's Verdict.

Levy and his co-defendant, Paul M. Hahn, are alleged to have helped negotiate a $250,000 loan which found its way into Manton's business ventures at a time when Levy had litigation pending before the federal jurist. The money was paid to the late James J. Sullivan, Manton's business associate. Four months later Manton wrote an opinion upholding Levy's side of the case at issue.

According to Manton's version of the story, he suggested the loan be made to Sullivan while walking downtown with Levy one day in 1932. Refusing to admit Manton's veracity on this point, Defense Counsel Davis declared that even though the incident had occurred it did not follow the judge could have been influenced.

Davis Quizzed by Judge.

"I know of no canon of conduct wherein a lawyer is guilty of misconduct if he is walking with a judge and the latter suggests a loan for a friend of his," declared Davis.

"What do you think if a lawyer has a case pending before the judge?" asked Judge Knox.

"Well, Levy gave the explanation on the witness stand," replied Davis. "He said if a judge was worthy of his office, appointed by the President and certified by the senate as Judge Manton was, the lawyer has no warant to suspect the judge."

"Don't you think that when Judge Manton suggested to this attorney, with a case before him, that he might like to arrange a loan for a friend, that then and there the judge and lawyer should have come to an understanding and the judge would have disqualified himself?" Judge Knox inquired.

"The Safe Position."

"That would have been the safe position to take," admitted Davis.

"The ethical position to take?" went on the judge.

"Well, I'm not so sure," returned Davis. "The average lawyer would think that an occasion like that was only casual."

The $250,000 loan was made by Lord & Thomas, advertising firm, through its former head, Albert D. Lasker. Lord & Thomas and Lasker both were absolved of blame by the government.

New Bribe Charges.

Cleveland, O., Aug. 7 (AP).—S. Harold Smith of the Smith Incubator company, Cleveland, filed suit in federal court here today asking $2,500,000 damages from Almon B. Hall and L. C. Hall, operating the Hall Brothers Hatchery, Inc., of Wallingford, Conn., and John L. Robbins and the Robbins Incubator company of Denver, Colo.

Smith charged the defendants paid a total of $65,000 to former Judge Martin T. Manton, who on April 6, 1936, found that the Connecticut firm had not infringed on a forcing draft poultry incubator invented by Smith.

PAROLE REFUSED EX-RED IN PRISON IN STRIKE KILLING

Raleigh, N. C., Aug. 7 (AP).—Gov. Clyde Hoey declined today to pardon or parole Fred Erwin Beal, former communist labor organizer who is serving 17 to 20 years in prison for conspiracy in the slaying of a police chief in the Gastonia textile strike riots of 1929.

Beal is now at the Caledonia prison farm. He entered prison Feb. 16, 1938. After his conviction nine years ago he posted bond and escaped to Russia.

After remaining in Russia several years he became disappointed with communism, returned to this country, and was arrested for the North Carolina authorities early last year.

Wins $25,000 a Year

LEMMA IZZET PASHA.

New York, Aug. 7 (AP).—A dark-eyed Turkish beauty who fled from a harem at the age of 17 established in Supreme court today her right to $25,000 a year from the Fleischmann yeast millions.

The former Lemma Izzet Pasha, daughter of a grand vizier of Turkey, she married Carl Fleischmann Holmes in 1933, and when they were divorced in 1935 he made a settlement of $25,000 a year.

Recently he tried to annul the arrangement on the ground she was already married to a Hindu, Jarmani Dass, when she married him. Her lawyers traveled half way around the world, collecting evidence in New York, France, Belgium, England, Egypt, and India which satisfied the court in her behalf.

Holmes' lawyers issued a statement for him saying his action had been in good faith and that "subsequent investigation had satisfied him that there was no foundation for the same and that Mr. Holmes deeply regretted that he had been misled into making such a charge."

BRIDGES LISTED AS COMMUNIST IN LEGION FILE

Research Chief on Stand at Alien's Trial.

San Francisco, Cal., Aug. 7 (AP).—Harry Bridges heard himself referred to today as the outstanding name in the files of the American Legion's radical research committee in California.

The statement was made at the C. I. O. labor leader's deportation hearing by Harper Knowles, chairman of the Legion's committee.

Knowles, a San Francisco business man and a former investigator of subversive activities for the associated farmers of California, last fall identified before the Dies congressional committee in Washington many Californians he said were communists or communist sympathizers.

Adverse Witness Called.

Knowles was called by Bridges' defense as an adverse witness in an attempt to prove improper inducements were made to government witnesses.

He denied shippers and other employers—as charged by Bridges—were behind his committee or that he played a part in an alleged conspiracy with immigration officials at Portland and Seattle to bring about the union leader's deportation.

The defense sought to show the case against Bridges was prepared by other than government officials as part of the alleged conspiracy.

Knowles testified he attended meetings in San Francisco at which Ivan Cox, a former secretary treasurer of the longshoremen's union, discussed and finally gave an affidavit against Bridges.

500 Called Communist.

Cox, in a suit subsequently withdrawn, also named Bridges and 500 other persons as communist conspirators seeking to dominate the Pacific coast. The suit asked $5,100,000 damages.

Knowles denied any hand in preparation of the suit and said he gave $10 to Cox after it was filed.

He said those at the San Francisco meetings were Stanley Doyle, former head of the American Legion's 40 and 9 society and a former special prosecutor in an anti-radical case in Oregon; J. W. Barker, representing the San Francisco Industrial association, and Raphael B. Bonham, immigration bureau director at Seattle.

Doyle, now in Minnesota and named by Bridges' counsel as the key figure in the reputed conspiracy, has been subpenaed.

ELOPEMENT FAILS; AMERICAN YOUTH TAKES GIRL HOME

LONDON, Aug. 7 (AP).—A young undergraduate couple who eloped from Oxford to France last May only to find that they could not be married without their parents' consent, returned tonight hoping to get the matter straightened out.

Samuel Mercer, 19 years old, son of Dr. Nelson Mercer of Omaha, Neb., and Lucy Joad, 20, daughter of the author, C. E. M. Joad, returned to his mother's flat after visiting in a French village until their money ran out. Mrs. Mercer is abroad convalescing from a breakdown.

Friends said the boy and girl were "more than ever in love" and hoping their families would make it possible for them to marry.

KENTUCKY GIVES CIO FOE A WIDER LEAD IN PRIMARY

Judge King Swope leads in G. O. P. primary.

The tabulation of votes was suspended over Sunday by state law. Ballot boxes were held under guard from midnight Saturday until this morning.

Johnson had a lead of 25,375 votes in the governorship race over former Congressman John Young Brown, who had the active backing of the C. I. O. and of Senate Majority Leader Alben Barkley. Brown also laid claim to White House support.

Over Half of Votes Counted.

With 2,573 of Kentucky's 4,307 precincts reported, Johnson's vote was 176,643, against 151,268 for Brown. Local newspapers estimated Johnson's final margin in excess of 35,000. Two others seeking the Democratic nomination were out of the running.

Brown is an attorney for the United Mine Workers of America in Kentucky, a C. I. O. affiliate. Johnson criticized Brown for championing the cause of John L. Lewis, telling his listeners that a vote for Brown would be a vote for the C. I. O. leader. He termed the C. I. O. communistic and charged that Lewis had coerced and intimidated members of the U. M. W. A.

Backed by Labor Federation.

The Kentucky Federation of Labor, an affiliate of the American Federation of Labor, gave Johnson its full endorsement.

In the Republican column of the gubernatorial primary, Circuit Judge King Swope of Lexington had a lead of 18,000 votes over John Sherman Cooper, Somerset attorney. Swope, a veteran campaigner, was defeated by Gov. A. B. Chandler in 1935.

Nominations for numerous other state, district, and local offices remained in doubt.

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES

This Old Treatment Often Brings Happy Relief

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. Most people pass about 3 pints a day or about 3 pounds of waste.

Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning shows there may be something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

An excess of acids or poisons in your blood, when due to functional kidney disorders, may be the cause of nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

UNDECLARED CIVIL WAR.

The recent riots in Cleveland at the Fisher Body plant of General Motors corporation shed more light on the military character of the C. I. O. tactics and revealed the true meaning of picketing. Although the agreement with General Motors was regarded at the time as John Lewis' first big success, labor relations have been kept in almost constant disorder by attacks upon various plants. In Cleveland the C. I. O. threw 6,000 pickets, so-called, against the Fisher plant, attacking police and the nonstriking workers. Forty-six persons were injured.

The pickets in fact were storm troopers. They had a commander who gave orders through a loud speaker. Many of them had helmets. They had gas bombs with which to reply to the police bombs. They formed a military organization. Picketing means warfare. The phrase "peaceful picketing" doesn't mean anything. The two words contradict each other. When the C. I. O. resorts to force the purpose is to drive off the police and carry the day by preventing the enforcement of law.

Frequently the employers can do very little to prevent the trouble because the controversy is between factions and the attack is Lewis' method of asserting his authority over the workers. In Cleveland the authorities were able to restore order after the first day, but Lewis probably regarded the maneuver as successful because it gave his troopers a workout and satisfied him of his ability to strike quickly and hard wherever he might choose to make a diversion.

The military character of the C. I. O. storm trooper units was revealed as soon as Lewis undertook to control the steel and motor industries. He has been well aided by the La Follette investigating committee, which threw all the responsibility for violence upon the companies and condemned them for defending their plants and their nonstriking employés when attacked, and by the National Labor board, which has been used to repay Lewis' contributions of political funds.

The distorted propaganda regarding the attack upon the South Chicago plant of the Republic Steel company sought to conceal the fact that the rioters planned the fight and started it. Their purpose was to break through the police lines, gain possession of the plants, and assault the workers within it. They'd even prepared for the casualties they anticipated by providing themselves with a first aid outfit.

The communist influence in Lewis' movement is nowhere more plainly revealed than in the organization of its mobile fighting forces. The parallel suggested is that of the armed proletarians of Vyborg, marching into Petrograd under bolshevist captains in the early days of the Russian revolution. These revolutionaries, numerically a very small percentage of the people even in the industrial centers where they were concentrated, were able by their organized movements to dominate the moderates, destroy all opposition, and take over the country.

It is time that these undeclared civil wars be recognized and treated for what they are.

ENGLAND AND ITS HOLIDAYS.

The people of England have been advised by their newspapers, undoubtedly at the suggestion or the advice of their government, to get their minds off war and go about their accustomed August pleasure seeking. They were told to take their vacations and enjoy their holidays. Then if a crisis comes they will be in better spirits and better health for it. The summer resorts may have been complaining that all these war scares were ruining their business.

For nearly a year now Mr. Chamberlain and his ministers have been working upon the imaginations of the people. The preparations for the next crisis have extended to nearly every individual. It may be difficult to draw the line between prudence and policy in all this. The state of mind created by the campaign to prepare Britain for the much publicized air raids has been of great political aid to Mr. Chamberlain.

The people have been living in a state of preparation which is almost a state of war itself. The schools are organized for evacuation of the children with their teachers. Preparations have been made for the removal of mothers with children under school age. Sir Ralph Wedgwood, chairman of the formation committee of the Air Raid Defense league, says that nevertheless 70 per cent of the population, including women and children above school age, will be left in the target areas, exposed to the full force of enemy attack.

Steel shelters are being provided for every one in the danger zones who has an income of less than 250 pounds. Sir Ralph regrets that only 750,000 of the shelters have been delivered. Local authorities are making a survey of basements which should be strengthened, but the supplies of materials for that fall far short of the needs. They are available for only one basement to 500 of the population. It may be prudent for the government to assume that the air raids would be worse than experience has proved them to be in other wars and take the precautions which anticipate the worst imaginable destructiveness, but it is quite apparent how this strengthens Mr. Chamberlain's position, particularly when he tries appeasement as well as defiance.

Who will say that he is wrong if he thinks that the crowning achievement of his statesmanship would be to prevent a general war? If to do so he must keep the British public opinion saturated with the realization of what war might be, he might say that that was one of the best purposes to which propaganda could be put. Whether or not it is to help out the resort keepers or to impress the world with the fact that the British populace is not frightened, the holiday makers are told to get themselves to the resorts and have a good time.

FORGOTTEN YOUTH.

The University of Illinois is engaged in a survey of high school graduates, a work undertaken after a sampling by a business college had revealed that 70 per cent of this year's high school graduates have no job and no hope of getting one. The university seeks information which might provide intelligent aid toward the solution of our youth problem.

Statistics of the American Youth commission indicate that four million American youths between the ages of 16 and 24 are neither in school nor have jobs. This is one-fifth of the total persons in the age group. The average graduate, according to the commission, must expect one to five years of unemployment after leaving school. The commission believes that 800,000 marriages have been delayed because these youths are unable to obtain jobs.

The loss to our country because young men and women are unable to find useful places in our society is painful to contemplate. Thousands of them, trained in our schools, fresh in mind and body, eager for opportunity to work and fit into the life for which they have been prepared, are discarded without even a test. Nothing that must be charged to our leadership in recent years is more damning than this. The graduating class in the west which adopted as its slogan "WPA, Here We Come!" penned a satire more trenchant than anything Swift ever contemplated.

The young people are not alone in their misfortune, of course. The entire country is staggering with its burden of restrictions, taxes, and debt. Six years ago the New Deal began telling us it was all fixed. Six years ago we were given a "new idea." We would give thousands of persons jobs regulating and restricting business. We would give other thousands work at semi-useless tasks whether or not we could afford it. We would prime the pump, even as we were drying up the business well.

We did all this. The various government pay rolls have risen to 3,800,000 persons, a peace time high. We have an additional 2,918,000 persons on emergency labor. Besides this we primed the pump and boosted the national debt by billions. Yet in July there were 11,500,000 unemployed in the country, and 70 per cent of the high school graduates had "no job and no hope of one."

The New Deal still will not admit that it is uneconomic to pay out money and increase the debt without gaining some good in return. We employ thousands of burocrats to hamstring business and then levy taxes on business to pay for the burocrats. We buy emergency labor and engage it on projects that are often completely useless and more often luxuries we cannot and should not afford for at least fifty years.

None of this worries the New Deal, of course, since our national debt can be dismissed with a wave of the hand. "We owe it to ourselves." Who is meant by ourselves? Surely it is not the forgotten man, nor yet forgotten youth.

In 1928 75 per cent of new capital was available for investment in private business and the creation of jobs and goods. Twenty-five per cent was sufficient for the government. Now the government commandeers an estimated 80 per cent of new capital, and 20 per cent remains for private business. Even when this money is invested, taxes, red tape, and fear burden new enterprise to the end that few people dare offer new goods or venture into the labor market to produce it.

It's no wonder the well has run dry while we primed the pump. No wonder more and more of our youth face the future helpless and hopeless. No wonder the country got its first breath of confidence when congress, pressed by an aroused people, finally, last week, called a halt to this insane, planned method of bleeding health to an anemic economic system.

Youth may take hope in the defeat of the latest schemes for the continuance of the New Deal's vicious cycle. The action has not come too late for the people as a whole, even though countless individuals have been beaten and crushed in the intervening years. But the tide of irrational brain trusting has been stemmed. The day of jobs and production for the general good may be not far off. Youth will yet have its chance.

Editorial of the Day

RADIO FOR OR AGAINST WHALES.

[Christian Science Monitor.]

Radio may be accounted a bane or a blessing. Depending upon whether you are a whale fisherman or not. Dr. Helmuth Husserl, Viennese natural scientist and authority on whaling, has decided that disturbances in the ether caused by broadcasting may account for the present scarcity of whales in usually rich whaling grounds. On days when aerial trafic is light he finds that three times as many whales are caught.

As is so often the case with startling discoveries, Dr. Husserl leaves the rest to the reader's imagination. Why do whales refuse to get caught on days when broadcasting is heavy? Are they busy tuning in on a swing rendition of "Three Little Fishies"? Or, by any chance, are they hiding in some dark, dismal portion of the sea floor engaged in a fishy boycott of radio?

But if it should be discovered that whales enjoy water music the sad whale fisherman's problem is simple. This is an age of competition. Every fishing boat can be equipped with a broadcasting unit. It may be a short time till vacationers along the quays will hear an old salt say: "I got most of my catch on 'Swing It, Mr. Bach.' Didn't have much luck with 'Reverie.'"

SAFETY FIRST.

"You don't think my guests would walk off with my umbrellas and sticks?" said an English gentleman on observing his Scottish butler, previous to a dinner party, removing the contents of the hall stand to a quiet corner.

"No, sir, but they might recognize them," the butler replied.—Atlanta Constitution.

HOW TO SLAY A DRAGON.

After hearing how Daniel, the Old Testament detective, solved the Mystery of the Gluttonous Idol and the Case of Seductive Susanna [Aug. 5], perhaps you would like to hear how he abolished the Dragon of Babylon. This was one of his minor achievements, but it pleases us greatly, for it suggests that the prophet knew something of modern science and if he lived today might be a mastermind in chemistry.

There was a dragon in Babylon that was worshiped as a god—a real, fire-breathing dragon of standard specifications. After Daniel's successful crusade against brass idols the king called his attention to this dragon and said: "Wilt thou also say that this is of brass? Lo, he liveth, and eateth, and drinketh; thou canst not say that he is no living god; therefore worship him."

Whereupon Daniel offered to slay this dragon "without sword or staff," and the king gave permission.

"Then Daniel took pitch, and fat, and hair, and did seethe them together, and made lumps thereof; this he put in the dragon's mouth, and so the dragon burst asunder."

[Bel and the Dragon, in the Apocrypha, 23-27.]

This implies that Daniel, knowing that all dragons had fires in their gizzards, fed this one an explosive compound with results that were vastly surprising to the king, the assembled Babylonians, and the dragon itself. The picture of the exploding dragon, with Daniel standing by saying to the king, "Elementary, my dear Watson," has always tickled our fancy. Of all the dragon-slayers of legend, and they are many, he was the most ingenious.

SONNET TO HAPPY ENDINGS.

When in the fairy tale I read to you
The lovely princess was in desperate plight,
You said, "But, Mother, it will end all right;
I know it will, for stories always do."
And at your reassurance gravely spoken
I smiled and held you closer in my arms,
While I read on of good and evil charms,
Of princess rescued and enchantments broken.

But when the tale was done and you were fast
Asleep I took your words and made a prayer:
"Behold my princess, Lord, so small and fair.
Let her be certain to the very last
That woe untangles; let her faith hold true

In a Writer's Workshop.

Is Fort Dearborn, apparently reprieved but still under death sentence, a replica, a reproduction or a facsimile?

If it were an object in the field of the fine arts it could not be a replica, for here the definition is narrowed to mean a copy by the maker of the original. This is the first meaning of "replica" given in Webster. The second definition, however, is "a facsimile or very close copy."

Webster is not helpful about the shades of meaning of "reconstruction," but in the field of architecture we take it to mean a copy on the original site, using part, perhaps only the foundation space, of the older structure. Thus Fort Dearborn is not a reconstruction.

"Facsimile," says Webster, "is a copy of anything, to give every part and detail." You may use it for Fort Dearborn if you wish, but we ourself apply it only to much smaller objects.

A Memory of the Great Northern.

In the holiday season of 1903 we wanted to entertain relatives from South Dakota at a matinée. We tried a theater on Randolph street where Eddie Foy was playing, but found it sold out. Then we went to see Ward and Vokes in "A Pair of Pinks," at the Great Northern. When we came out into the street after the show, newsboys were shouting, "Iroquois burns; many lives lost!" The theater from which we had been turned away!

Harsh Words About the Barnyard Drama.

After inspecting a performance at a summer theater on the Atlantic seaboard—one of the top-notch ones, too—Eugene Burr, drama critic, wrote in the Billboard:

"The theater, if it wants to survive as anything but an esoteric cult self-consciously favored by the little group of literary souls who hang around Broadway, must spread itself out over the country. But it is possible to conceive certain forms of theater that are even worse—for the stage as a whole, for the people concerned and for the long suffering spectators—than no theater at all.

"It's not only possible to conceive such forms; it's possible to witness them. I did."

Mystery of a Corner Stone.

When the corner stone of the old Masonic Temple was being laid, passersby were invited to drop their visiting cards into it. Hundreds of such cards should have been found when the building was razed, but I've read nothing about it. Mine should have been there: a piece of mica with the name scratched by a nail.

Alliteration's Artful Aid.

Pity my predicament! I prefer not to puncture your propaganda, and I hate to appear picayunish, but my passion for perfect accuracy impels me to point out that that popular adjective, "streamlined" [Aug. 1], did appear in the Line a few weeks past in a poem [re garden pests] pilfered from a garden periodical. It reads in part:

. . . .

"O, the bugs on the aster move faster,
It's because they are streamlined, I s'pose."

OVERSTRETCHED AIR SACS FROM COUGHING.

YEARS ago it was thought that glass blowers and cornet players particularly were prone to develop a malady known as emphysema. Later, to this list were added singers, preachers, and auctioneers—in fact, all who were vociferous. None of these occupations now is considered significant, as the resistance involved in blowing a wind instrument, for example, is not sufficient to cause damage. Many a promising young trombone player may have been warned by the family physician not to continue his practicing because of the supposed hazard.

Nevertheless, a good deal of wheezing is occasioned by the condition. The air sacs—delicate bits of elastic membrane—may stretch like rubber bands to a point where they no longer are able to contract. What are some of the causes?

Probably we inflict about as much damage to the breathing apparatus by explosive coughing as in any other manner. No one, normally, should be conscious of a sense of pressure within the chest, because the to-and-fro flow of air proceeds quietly. But what happens when we cough? We close the intake tube at the glottis, compress the lungs firmly with the diaphragm and the chest muscles, and then suddenly release the valve with a loud bark. This raises the pressure within the thousands of flimsy films of lung tissue.

Assuming that it is repeated over and over again daily for years, we can understand the effect of such a disorder as chronic bronchitis, which robs the parts of their natural resiliency. All of which means that no one should form the coughing habit. Butlers take warning!

When we inspire we increase the capacity of the thorax and as a result air rushes in. Decreasing the space, as we expire, forces it out. With abnormally stretched sacs we are likely to develop the typical barrel chest—fairly flat in the region of the collar bones but rounding out in all directions a little below their level. This is nature's way of making room for the overexpanded bellows.

Sooner or later some change in the circulation will be observed. Blood will pass less readily through these distended regions, inasmuch as many of the capillaries have been torn or destroyed, requiring more power to maintain flow. In turn, this demands more work of the right ventricle of the heart [the pumping chamber so far as the lungs are concerned], and in consequence this portion may enlarge.

What to do?

First, we must make every effort to sidestep colds, especially persistent bronchial inflammation. Many of us complain that on arising we cough for ten or fifteen minutes. This paroxysm seems necessary to empty the airways of the mucus accumulations of the night. In some instances we may find a low-grade infection. Remedies for bronchitis are numerous, but none is more helpful than the inhalation of vapor from boiling water to which has been added a small amount of compound tincture of benzoin. This may be practiced for ten minutes morning and evening.

A mechanical appliance is offered, in a firm abdominal binder which will raise the diaphragm and prevent enlargement of the fragile air compartments. Some persons will be obliged to wear this constantly; others may remove it on retiring. Too much must not be expected from the device, as such regions, having lost the ability to rebound, will not return to normal. It will aid substantially in preventing further trouble, however, and many physicians advise all sufferers from chronic bronchitis to employ such a girdle.

Although residence in a warm, equable climate is impossible for many, we can protect the skin from sudden changes in temperature and avoid irritating dust, smoke, etc., thus reducing the number of violent seizures. Many will find that a semi-sitting position during sleep is helpful—the head and shoulders raised at an angle of 30 degrees. At intervals it may be of value to try postural drainage, notably when secretions are profuse. This is accomplished by lifting the foot of the bed twelve to eighteen inches, facilitating the downhill outflow of phlegm. Often potassium iodide is a useful drug—just why we do not know; it should be employed only on the advice of a physician.

While many of these patients are long lived, they are uncomfortable—short-winded, puffing at the slightest exertion. Emphysema is a handicap which we should avoid if possible.

HAS LITTLE NUTRITIVE VALUE.

Miss G. B. writes: 1. What food value has cucumber? 2. Is it true that it is hard to digest?

REPLY.

1. Very little. It requires a pound to equal one egg.
2. Not particularly, if well chewed. Some individuals, however, find that the vegetable does not agree with them.

CATCHES COLD SWIMMING.

A. D. writes: Why do I take cold every time I go swimming?

REPLY.

Lolling around in a wet bathing suit, or plunging into water that is too cold for comfort, may be responsible. If the beach is overcrowded, cold germs are likely to invade the nose and throat. No swimmer can avoid taking in a little water.

USUALLY FOUR TO SIX WEEKS.

H. J. M. writes: How soon after an appendectomy is it safe to resume household duties—cooking, washing, ironing, scrubbing floors, etc.?

REPLY.

In from four to six weeks, if there are no complications. Your own physician can advise best. Occasionally it is well to wear a firm abdominal binder.

PERSISTENCE REQUIRED.

Mrs. W. W. writes: Please tell me how I can rid my child's head of lice and the small crystal-like eggs from which they hatch?

REPLY.

Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for directions. Persistence and great thoroughness are required.

THEY SHOULD BE REMOVED.

Mrs. F. T. writes: Can tonsils be so badly infected as to demand tonsillectomy although no symptom—such as susceptibility to colds—is present?

REPLY.

Yes. If pus can be squeezed from the crypts removal is advised. Otherwise trouble will come sooner or later.

WHAT IS "CONTROVERSIAL"?

Chicago, July 29.—In your columns recently C. H. G. said the plans of the National Association of Broadcasters to prohibit use of paid radio time for presentation of "controversial issues" is democratic.

Who will be the judge, deciding whether or not a proposed broadcast is controversial? Who will issue permits for free radio time? Will the length of time given be equal to all whether the speaker be the President or an obscure citizen?

If the broadcasters in general are as democratic as Elliott Roosevelt, who made most un-American and undemocratic remarks recently in referring to this matter, revealing the real reason for the "code of ethics," free speech on the air will be as effectively crushed in America as it now is in "democratic" Britain, which recently cut off a broadcast of the speech of former King Edward to his people.

FLOWERS AND A KNOCK.

Chicago, Aug. 3.—It seems the word traffic is continually getting tangled up in an accident and losing one of its f's before it appears in print in your paper. At any rate any dictionary I have ever read spells it with two f's.

Now for the flowers, I particularly liked the writeup about the kind charity party which Mrs. Herbert Drew of 707 Sheridan road, Evanston, gave last week for settlement children and orphans. It is a pleasure to read of acts which prove there is much goodness in the hearts of many people.

Good wishes to you and your paper.

ESTHER E. SCHLEMMER.

A GOOD NEIGHBOR DOESN'T PAY.

Chicago, Aug. 3.—I heartily agree with "E. A. R." on Our Sucker Nation. Last fall Brazil boldly declared no more payments on foreign obligations; that instead they would use the money for a building expansion program. Despite that their representative comes to Washington and sails back with 120 millions of our good dollars regardless of the Johnson act; again telling the gullible public they would resume payments on unpaid loans on July 1. I hold approximately $1,200 unpaid Brazil interest coupons—how do you think I feel about Our Good Neighbors to the south?

HUSBANDS AND WIVES AGAIN.

Chicago, Aug. 3.—I worked for years in the city hall. And husbands and wives in many departments both held big salaried jobs under civil service and through politics. Unless the husband is ill or unable to work, it is a crime to hold down two jobs. This is what causes the continuation of the depression.

The writer is not a "sour apple," but likes to have every one be entitled to justice in good old America.

MRS. NAIN M. RITCHIE.

OTHER SIDE OF THE STORY.

Chicago, Aug. 3.—Whenever my American born, D. A. R. wife [whose two grandpappys fought for the north] tells me about England siding with the south during the civil war I take it and say nothing. But when the editor of your paper says so, as he did at Notre Dame university last Saturday, I feel the urge to present the other side of the story, and here it is: It was only a few Tories who sympathized with the south. Among them were the authorities of the port of Liverpool, who allowed the confederate ship Alabama to sail.

The majority of the people of England were with the north, particularly the cotton spinners of Manchester, who suffered industrial martyrdom by refusing to handle cotton from slave owning states. For that contribution to the Union they were thanked by President Lincoln in his letter, "To the Workingmen of Manchester," Jan. 19, 1863.

"It is a curious circumstance," says the author of "The Adams Family," "that we nurse every grudge against England, while we readily forget every wrong done us by every other nation. Throughout the civil war the British government was far more friendly than the French, and had it not been for England Europe unquestionably would have recognized the confederacy. As it was, France committed that overt act of armed hostility, the seizure of Mexico, but she somehow has managed to remain in popular feeling the traditional friend."

I would like to offer my thoughts on two other subjects touched on by Col. McCormick—the Hay-Pauncefote treaty, and what the colonel called the "annexation" of Texas, California, Nevada, Utah, Arizona, and New Mexico—but I haven't time. I'm going away in a little while on a choo-choo to Hot Springs, Ark.

"TALKING IT UP," A PEP PHRASE.

Chicago, Aug. 4.—I am always interested in a point of grammar or English, so I must take issue with S. G., whose protest against the phrase "talking it up" appears in these columns today. It is obvious from S. G.'s simple substitution, "talking it over" that he [or she] does not fully understand the meaning of "talking it up." To real baseball fans this phrase does not indicate a consultation, but merely the encouraging chatter of the team on the field to pep up each other or bolster the morale of their pitcher.

For example, if S. G. were attending a baseball game and were to see players in fielding position suddenly start to slap their fists against their mitts, and crack out such well known slang phrases as "Come on, guys," "Attaboy, Diz," "Let's get this mug out," he [or she] would be witnessing a perfect example of "talking it up." Whew!

FROM A BARBER'S WIFE.

Chicago, Aug. 3.—In answer to WPA Worker. No, it is not the barbers cutting their own throats. I am a barber's wife and since the prices have been raised my husband has had one and one-half days' work a week. Just think of trying to exist on that! The barbers would gladly bring down the price to 50 cents, but we are controled by our union. Food and rents should come down also; then Chicago people could live and there would be less crime.

A BARBER'S WIFE.

GARBAGE. WHAT'S WRONG?

Chicago, July 31.—On a recent trip to New York and Cleveland I was amazed at the difference in the appearance of their streets and alleys from those of my native city, Chicago, especially noting the modern equipment used and the system of garbage removal, which is so far superior to that used in our city. I am almost ashamed to say that I come from Chicago.

What is wrong? MRS. F. B.

ESTATE SETTLEMENT.

Chicago, Aug. 3 [Legal Friend of the People].—An uncle by marriage died nearly a year ago in Wisconsin leaving my sister and I his estate after bequests were paid.

1. What fee can the attorney and administrator charge under Wisconsin law? They have told us this would be settled by July 1, but if they wait longer can we get the Probate court to bring pressure on them. I need the money.

2. Are they not supposed to give us an itemized list of securities, etc., even though some are worthless?

3. The lawyers do not attend the hearings and do not report to any one. I have asked for letters and a copy of the will, but they ignore same.

4. Do I have to employ an attorney to get my letters and copy of the will returned? G. R.

1. There is no definite statutory figure. What is reasonable would depend on the surrounding circumstances. You can try submitting the matter to the probate judge.

2. The personal representative should present to the court a complete inventory of assets. In general he is not obliged to report separately to the heirs.

3. If you have employed lawyers they are in a better position to advise you than we are. Even if they are refusing to report we can hardly supply the deficiency.

4. No, you can obtain a copy from the clerk of the court by paying him.

ESTATE DISPOSAL.

Chicago, Aug. 2 [Legal Friend of the People].—My mother died in August, 1935, leaving a will. There were six heirs, two sons and four daughters. In 1937 a daughter died [1] leaving a copy of the will to her son. The daughter's husband is remarried. We would like to sell the house because the insurance was not sufficient to pay all expenses.

2. Must the estate be probated before it is to be sold?

If so [3] what is the cost and [4] when must it be paid? Must it be probated [5] again on account of the daughter's death?

6. Does the daughter's husband share in the estate? A. P.

1. We do not understand what you mean by this statement. There would be no significance to the daughter's giving to one of her children a copy of the will, if that is what you mean to ask.

2. If the mother's will was so worded as to leave a part of her estate to the daughter who died, then presumably probate of both estates would be necessary in order to produce a readily salable title.

3. Depends on the attorney whom you employ.

4. Same.

5. This word implies that one of the estates has already been probated, but you have given us no such information.

6. He would share in his wife's estate.

HOLC WHITTLES 8 BY 20 FOOT SLICE OFF HOME

Moves In on Property After Foreclosure.

Four workmen yesterday began shearing a chunk about eight feet wide and twenty feet long from Charles Behning's modest dwelling at 5308 Winona avenue.

When the job is completed, the cottage will measure ten feet wide and twenty feet long, about two feet narrower than the average one car garage.

The shearing is the result of litigation between Behning and the Home Owners' Loan corporation. In 1934 Behning, his wife, Minnie, and their daughters, Minerva, 21 years old, and Beatrice, 14, lived in a larger house with thirty-seven and one-half feet of frontage at 5310 Winona avenue. Behning contracted with the HOLC to pay off a $1,639 mortgage. Two years later, with the Behnings twenty-two months in arrears, the HOLC foreclosed.

Family Moves Into Garage.

Adjoining the property at No. 5310 is a twelve and a half foot strip of land in Mrs. Behning's maiden name. On the rear of this strip is a small building which had been a garage. Part of this building—exactly seven feet ten inches of it—extended into the Behning property at No. 5310.

After the HOLC foreclosed the Behnings eventually moved into the former garage, part of it on the property at 5308, part on the lot at No. 5310.

Last year the HOLC began legal proceedings for formal possession of the larger property at No. 5310. Mrs. Behning said they couldn't legally take that lot because part of the Behnings' new home—the 7 feet 10 inches of it—extended into the lot at No. 5310.

HOLC agents offered to buy the 12½ foot strip of land adjoining their newly acquired property. Mrs. Behning refused to sell.

"My daughters begged me not to," she explained yesterday. "They cried."

Judge Upholds HOLC.

A few weeks ago Judge Mason Sullivan in Renters' court ruled that the HOLC had a right to claim its property. The Behnings agreed to sign away the portion of the house which juts into the other lot.

Included in the portion which is to be sheared off is part of the kitchen, a hallway, and all toilet facilities. All that will be left is a large bedroom and the other part of the kitchen. The HOLC has agreed to move the chimney past the imaginary dividing line and also to build a wall over the exposed portion.

Behning's pretty angry about it all. He hinted yesterday, as he stared at a pear tree which stands between the two properties, that whoever buys his old property from the HOLC won't get the fruits of his labors.

"I'm thinking of cutting off those overlapping branches," he said.

TWICE A MOTHER AT 14, SHE SIGHS ONLY FOR A DOLL

Pennsboro, W. Va., Aug. 7 (AP).—A 14 year old mother cuddled her new born second child today at her hill cabin home near here, but sighed wistfully for a doll because she has never had one.

The blonde, blue-eyed wife of John Stackhouse, 23 years old, gave birth to an 8 pound daughter last Thursday, with only her mother attending her. Her first child, a boy, was born in July, 1938, but died a month later.

She and her husband live in a three room cabin on her father's farm, where she has spent all her life except for a trip into Pennsboro to be married to Stackhouse when she was 13. She proudly exhibited her daughter to visitors but expressed hope that some day she might have a doll, too.

It seems her daughter, Geraldine Delores, received her name in a roundabout way. "She was named for my grandmother's brother's wife's sister's girl," the mother solemnly explained.

A SILVER BRIGHT IDEA WINS $250 IN JOB CONTEST

Marven Treiber, 19 years old, 4640 North avenue, was awarded $250 yesterday as the first prize in the Chicago division of the Illinois National Youth administration's contest for job creating ideas. Treiber suggested a laundry and polishing service for restaurant and home silverware.

A one year scholarship at De Paul university went to Pauline Phillips, 18, of 5021 North California avenue. She suggested a central secretarial office where telephone subscribers could get messages telephoned to the office while the subscribers were away from their homes.

Finals in the job creation contest, with the prize winning ideas from the eight NYA districts in the state, will be held at the state fair in Springfield next Saturday.

Chicago Settlers

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Valentine Breier, age 91, who came to Chicago in 1877, and Mrs. Marie Dartscht, 90, who has been in Chicago since 1870, as they attended picnic of old settlers of Chicago at Harms park yesterday.

CITY'S OLDSTERS PUT FATHER TIME TO ROUT FOR DAY

Hundreds Frolic at Settlers' Picnic.

A man who has lived in the same house eighty-three years, a woman who has ten children, twenty-seven grandchildren, and seven great-grandchildren, and a couple whose combined ages total 161 years were among guests yesterday at one of Chicago's liveliest gatherings.

It was the sixty-fifth annual picnic of the old settlers of Chicago, sponsored by the Chicago Turn Gemeinde, in Harms park, Western and Berteau avenues.

More than 5,000 persons attended, hundreds of them white haired representatives of older generations. Mere 70 year olders were looked upon condescendingly by the 80 and 90 year olders.

Recall Days of Long Ago.

Most of the old settlers remembered Chicago when some of its sidewalks were on stilts. They remembered the cholera plague of 1866, the fire of 1871, the ravages of smallpox that followed, and three or four major depressions—panics they called them.

"Looking at it all today, I'd say our worries are pretty much the same," said Michael Ross, 81, of 5033 North Western avenue.

The picnic committee went around searching for the old timers who had established records of some sort. They came across Stephen J. Kelly, who was born Jan. 6, 1856, in a house at 2933 Archer avenue and has lived there since—more than eighty-three years. They gave him a medal.

Couple Wins Medal.

They also gave a medal to Mrs. Christina Warmann, 2046 Addison street, for being the picnicker present with the greatest family—ten children, twenty-seven grandchildren, and seven great-grandchildren. Another medal went to Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Maerke, 2036 Berwyn avenue, whose combined ages, 80 and 81, respectively, made the greatest total of any couple present.

Medals went also to those who had lived longest in Chicago. J. W. Trainoir, 5232 Monroe street, with eighty-five years here, got the first one. Others, all with more than eighty years' residence, were: Mary L. Hatheway, 1846 North Mulligan avenue; Joseph Stalzer, 5947 Justine street; Rosa Rieck, 2257 Irving Park road; C. F. Bilhorn, 4140 North Hermitage avenue, and Anna Bach, 1618 North Harding avenue. Charles E. Jennings, 3855 North Pulaski road, received a medal for having been employed longest—fifty-four years—in one place. Fred W. Merton, 4307 Irving Park road, received a medal for being the oldest pensioned employé.

VOTE OFFICIALS TO CITE LACK OF WOMEN JURORS

Fourteen election officials of two precincts in the 24th ward will attack the legality of indictments accusing them of conspiring to tamper with ballots in the April, 1938, primary.

The fight was foreshadowed yesterday when they were arraigned before Chief Justice Michael McKinley of the Criminal court. Attorneys for the defendants indicated they would base their fight on the fact that no women sat on the grand juries which returned the indictments, although women jurors were authorized by state law effective July 1.

Justice McKinley said it would have been impossible to have women on grand and petit juries in July and August because the jury commissioners have not yet prepared jury lists which include women. He continued the case to Sept. 10, when it will come up for assignment before Judge John Prystalski, who becomes chief justice on Labor day.

EXPECT DECISION TODAY ON GRADE A ICE CREAM LAW

Seek Showdown on Move to Relax Restrictions.

The fate of a proposed amendment to the city milk ordinance which would permit the use of cream other than the grade A variety in ice cream, will be decided today.

Ald. Joseph C. Ross [40th], chairman of the city council health committee, yesterday was authorized to confer with city officials as to the advisability of relaxing the present provisions in case of a cream shortage before the end of the summer. If immediate action is deemed necessary, the proposed amendment will be introduced in the council this afternoon. Otherwise the measure will be shelved for this year.

Council to Adjourn Today.

The council is expected to adjourn after today's meeting until September. If there is a shortage in cream it will occur before the end of August, according to health authorities. Ald. Ross, the only physician in the council, said he will ask the board of health and Barnet Hodes, corporation counsel, what can be done to meet a possible shortage and still provide adequate safeguards for citizens.

Chicago now permits only grade A milk and cream to be sold for fluid consumption or ice cream. Grade A dairy products differ from other grades in being tested twice, once at the producing plant and again upon arrival in Chicago. The grade A ordinance also requires that the plants undergo regular inspections.

Calls One Test Sufficient.

Milk and cream outside the grade A classification receive only the test in Chicago. But Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, president of the health board, has said public health would be safeguarded by the usual tests for bacteria and butter fat upon arrival here.

Removal of the grade A restriction from cream intended for ice cream has been recommended by the United States Public Health service, which drafted the original grade A ordinance.

"This is a serious question," said Ald. Ross. "Children eat ice cream, the same as they drink milk. If it was right to require grade A cream in ice cream in the first place it is right now."

Clash Over Price Effect.

The meeting of the health committee was enlivened by a verbal clash between Ald. Ross and Ald. H. Douglas [5th], economics professor at the University of Chicago. Ald. Douglas made several efforts to discuss possible effects on the price of cream. Ald. Ross retorted: "We're interested in health, not prices.

The effect the proposed amendment would have on the price of milk has been the subject of study. The estimate was that the wholesale price would be forced down as much as 14 cents a hundred pounds.

ST. LOUIS MILK PRICE IS INCREASED 2 CENTS TO 12 CENTS A QUART

St. Louis, Mo., Aug 7 (AP).—Dairies today raised the price of all standard grades of milk 2 cents a quart, partly offsetting a 3 cent reduction nearly two months ago. "Grade A" milk now costs 12 cents a quart delivered to homes or to retail stores. It went down to a dime June 12. At the time of the June price cut the dairies and union milk wagon drivers and inside workers were negotiating on a requested wage increase of $2 weekly. Negotiations ended July 19 with employés accepting a $1 a week increase.

REFUGEE SEEKS HOMELAND REST FOR ASHES OF 3

10,000 Attend Services for Leap Victims.

One hope remained last night with Karel Langer. It was that the ashes of his wife and their two small sons might be returned to rest in Czecho-Slovakia, their homeland.

Langer expressed this wish after funeral services were held yesterday for his family. His wife, Adela, carried her sons, Karel Tommy, 6 years old, and Jan Misha, 4, to death with her last Thursday in a leap from a loop hotel room. Her tragic act was attributed to despondency after the family left Prague with other refugees following the German entry. Langer was a wealthy textile mill operator in Prague.

10,000 Strangers Weep.

Ten thousand persons from among the Czech and Slovak peoples of Chicago attended the services in the Bohemian National cemetery, where the bodies were cremated. The crowd wept openly in the hot sun. A funeral cortège from the loop, where it was watched by other sorrowing thousands, bore the three coffins to the cemetery. Old people and children from the Bohemian Old People's Home and Orphan asylum joined the cortège.

The throng stood silently in the cemetery, grouped about Albin Polashek's statue, "The Mother," before which the coffins lay on a catafalque. The statue, an heroic figure, is of a mother, the folds of her clothing encircling two small children in a protective mantle.

Ceremony Is Simple.

The ceremony was simple. Legionnaires from two Czecho-Slovak posts and members of the American-Jewish congress were pallbearers. There was no religious ritual. Vojta Benes, brother of Eduard Benes, last president of the Czecho-Slovak republic, was the only speaker.

"I stand here another refugee from Czecho-Slovakia," he said. "I stand here in the name of our tortured nation to bid you, its latest martyrs, farewell.

Cites Spirit of Oppressed.

"There may be some among you who question my presence with the words: 'Why should I bid you farewell, you daughter of the hunted Jews?' But her heart and soul, and her children's hearts and souls—those were our own proudly beating hearts and souls."

Throughout the ceremony, Langer sat alone in an anteroom of the chapel, beyond the sound of Benes' voice, and gazed through a window at the throng. When the crowd had filtered out he arose and left the cemetery, a solitary figure.

HERBERT MILES FUNERAL TO BE HELD IN MADISON

Madison, Wis., Aug. 7 [Special].—Funeral services for Herbert E. Miles, a director of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States and an early advocate of vocational education in Wisconsin, will be held here at noon Wednesday. Burial will be in Racine.

FATHER AND SON DROWN; MOTHER UNABLE TO HELP

Clintonville, Wis., Aug. 7 (AP).—A father and his 3 year old son drowned today in Pine lake as the mother helplessly watched. The victims were Edward G. Billmeyer, 41 years old, manager of a chain store here, and his son Kenneth. With Mrs. Billmeyer, they had rowed about 100 yards from shore to an anchored raft. The father and son climbed onto the raft while Mrs. Billmeyer stayed in the boat. Kenneth slipped from the raft and the father dived in after him.

Boy Drowns in Auto.

Clinton, Ia., Aug. 7 (AP).—Leonard Webber, 7 years old, of Bryant, Ia., was drowned in a creek eight miles west of here tonight when the automobile in which he and his mother were riding was swept into the flooded stream. The mother, Mrs. Leo Webber, 27, drove onto an approach to a bridge that had been washed out and the swirling waters carried the car into the channel. She escaped.

GRANDFATHER, 67, DROWNS DESPITE HEROISM OF BOY

Martin Bachanz of Plymouth, Wis., a contractor, and his wife, Clara, spent Sunday at a family reunion with their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Luther Henry, in the latter's cottage at Third lake, five miles north of Grayslake, Lake county. In all there were four Bachanz children and six grandchildren.

Yesterday Bachanz, who is 67 years old, and the Henrys sons, Martin, 8, and David, 4, went out fishing in a rowboat. Five hundred feet from shore, Buchanz reached over the stern for a can of bait and fell into the water. He could not swim.

The accident almost overturned the boat. Martin Henry managed to keep it on an even keel and grabbed his grandfather's hand, but Bachanz slipped out of the boy's grasp and drowned. The boys' father is factory superintendent of the Fansteel Metallurgical corporation in North Chicago.

To Check Constipation Get at Its Cause!

If constipation has you down so you feel heavy, tired and dopey, it's time you did something about it. And something more than just taking a physic! You should get at the cause of the trouble.

If you eat the super-refined food most people eat, the chances are the difficulty is simple—you don't get enough "bulk." And "bulk" doesn't mean heavy food. It's a kind of food that isn't consumed in the body, but leaves a soft "bulky" mass in the intestines.

If this common form of constipation is your trouble, eat Kellogg's All-Bran for breakfast every day and drink plenty of water. All-Bran isn't a medicine—it's a crunchy, toasted, nutritious cereal. And it will help you not only to get regular but to keep regular, day after day. Made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek. Sold by every grocer.

Corn Plants Measured

Aug. 7, 1939.

WORKERS at the Fox River farm recently have been going through the cornfields with rulers, taking accurate measurements of the big corn plants. Yet there is not a figure or a word in their pocket notebooks about the tallest stalk on the farm.

The men explained that they were not pursuing that age old hobby of the corn belt—looking for the tallest cornstalk. Instead, they have collected figures on the length and width of the corn blades and the number of blades and ears on each stalk. This is important because the object is to find which of the ten strains of hybrid corn growing there this year is best suited for silage. Heavy foliage on silage corn is desirable because it tends to increase the yield per acre of silage material.

The hybrid strain that now shows greatest promise as a silage corn is No. G-161, a strain developed for use either as silage or as grain. There are thirty acres of this strain. This is the first year it has been grown at the farm.

Stalks Average 10 Feet.

The G-161 was planted May 24. The stalks now average about ten feet tall and are quite uniform in height, number of ears, and amount of foliage. There are twelve or fourteen blades on each stalk. The blades are three to four feet long and many of them are six inches wide near the middle. The plants are green from the ground up and still are growing.

The ears are filling and there are two ears on virtually every stalk. The hills are three feet six inches apart each way. Since the corn was planted for silage and a heavy tonnage of corn plants was desired, a planter plate was used that dropped three and four kernels to the hill. Some hills have five stalks, with a total of nine and ten ears.

Overlapping of the broad blades between the rows gives the field the appearance of a jungle. It is difficult to see more than a few feet in any direction when walking through the field.

Only Hybrid Strains Grown.

Only hybrid strains of corn are being grown on the farm this year. This is the first year there has not been at least a few acres of open pollinated corn.

There are approximately 330 acres of corn on the farm, and the managers say it looks like one of the best crops they ever have raised. None of the corn has fired, indicating that there has been no lack of moisture. All the hybrid strains are quite uniform except that the G-161 has heavier foliage than the rest. Blades on the other strains are mostly 4½ to 5 inches wide.

Approximately fifty acres of the corn will be used for silage. An additional twenty acres likely will be cut green, run through the ensilage cutter, and fed to beef cattle. This will leave 260 acres to harvest for grain.

Small Parties Fill In Season for Debutantes

BY JUDITH CASS.

THE little parties that round out the debutante season and fill in the gaps between big teas and dances are like the icing on a cake, and often turn out to be the gayest part of a young woman's first season "out."

The afternoon of Sept. 9, for instance, has a number of debut teas and several weddings already marked upon the calendar. A party planned for the evening is a dinner-dance Miss Roxanne McKenzie and Miss Alice Blair will give at the Indian Hill club, following their debut teas. That is the night Mrs. Alanson Donald and Mrs. Russell T. Foster have selected to give a dinner-dance for their sister, Miss Joan Reid, at the Shoreacres, so the Winnetka and the Lake Forest buds, and their Chicago friends, all may expect to be invited to one party or the other.

Mrs. Robert W. Buckley of New York is inviting all of the season's buds to a luncheon and swimming party at the Knollwood club on Aug. 17. The especial guest will be Mrs. Buckley's debutante sister, Miss Madeline Hedly.

The Winnetka buds who are especial friends of Miss Patsy Blackett will receive invitations to dinner and dancing at the South Shore Country club on Aug. 26. The hosts will be Miss Blackett's godparents, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph G. Johnson.

Following Miss Blackett's debut tea on Sept. 14, her parents, the Hill Blacketts, will take their daughter, her assistants, and their escorts to the Pump room in the Ambassador East hotel for dinner and dancing.

With Miss Barbara Bennett's decision to return to Sarah Lawrence college this fall, her parents, the James E. Bennetts, are postponing her debut from September to the Christmas holidays. It will be a tea-dance or dinner-dance.

Both Plains and Sea Calling Chicagoans.

Chicagoans seem to be divided in responding to the call of the sea and the call of the west. The C. Pardee Erdmans [Eleanor Donnelley] are enjoying the plains. Mrs. Erdman's brother, Thorne Donnelley, and his wife and their children are planning a cruise.

The Erdmans, who live in Pasadena, Cal., have closed their lovely red brick house on Avondale road and now are at their ranch in the Big Horn mountains, not far from Sheridan, Wyo. Their children, Pardee Jr., Laura, Carol, and Donnelley, are with them, and so are the Frank H. Halls and their son and daughter, Frank Jr. and Marion.

The Donnelleys have been planning to cruise off the coast of Maine in Mr. Donnelley's Mako. The Mako was flagship in a tuna fishing tournament in the Bahamas last winter.

The John Wentworths, who have been deep sea fishing in their speedy boat, the Cavu, off the coast of Florida, are expected at home by the end of the week. They went south to supervise the building of their new home in Biscayne bay.

The James B. Forgans and their daughter and son-in-law, the junior Robert B. Uphams, are leaving next weekend for a ten day cruise around Cape Cod in a boat which they have chartered. They will return to Lake Forest the middle of September after spending a few weeks at their Vermont farm.

Other Chicagoans Enjoy Ranch Life.

The Rev. and Mrs. Samuel D. Harkness of Winnetka are at the L Bar T ranch near Cooke City, Mont. When they return early in September they will go east for the marriage on Sept. 9 of their son, Samuel D. Harkness II., and Miss Jane Margaret Morin. The wedding will take place in Brooklyn, N. Y., the home of the bride's father, Ferdinand A. Morin.

The Edgar Stantons are paying their annual visit to the H F Bar ranch at Saddlestring, Wyo. At the same ranch are the James S. Hardys and their grandchildren, Jeanne and William Caldwell Jr.

One by one the Edward H. Bennett family is deserting Lake Forest for New Mexico. Mr. Bennett, whose chief diversion is painting, left a week ago for his ranch armed with paints and easels. Miss Betty Mead, Mrs. Bennett's daughter, has joined him, and it may be that her mother will make the trip out before Miss Mead returns at the end of the month.

The junior Ralph H. Pooles, who have been spending the week with his parents in Lake Bluff, are leaving today for a two weeks' camping trip in Canada.

Miss Narcissa Swift Returns from Phoenix.

Miss Narcissa Swift has returned from Phoenix, Ariz., where she visited the Lester Sanborns, the former Idamay Minotto, her cousin. She will spend about two weeks in Lake Forest with her mother, Mrs. Alden B. Swift, before going on to New York.

The Logan McMenemys have gone east to visit the Robinson shipyards at the mouth of the Ipswich river, and then to cruise on John Alden's

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

[TRIBUNE Studio Photo.]

A high fashion color, not yet two weeks old, is "Robin Hood" green. To show you how devotedly beauty follows fashion—and how quickly—there is already a "Robin Hood" makeup, keyed to a superbly rich, true red.

A high fashion color for the coming fall was presented officially to fashion society one day last week in Paris. It was a green, a Robin Hood green, dark and rich and interesting.

And just to show you that Beauty is fashion's devoted handmaiden, we already have a makeup to complement the very new color! A makeup keyed to a rare, rich, true red, like the splash of scarlet that Robin's cape made in the deep Sherwood forest.

It's a beautiful makeup—and unlike most makeups created for the greater honor and glory of one new color—it will be equally stunning with many another shade. It has the richness and drama that make it give life to the face when worn with black or brown or navy. A true red is a friend indeed to the woman whose wardrobe and beauty budget are conservative.

The lipstick is a satiny texture—fittingly rich for such a royal red. There is a rouge in the same shade and an eye shadow that is almost exactly the color of the newborn green. This shadow tine gives the eyes a not-too-smoky softness and is far more interesting on the lids than it appears in the container. There is also a specially blended powder to harmonize with the lovely new red.

The creators of this new makeup have done more than show enterprise in following fashion. They've created two small kits for it that you'll be pretty crazy about. One is a flat little bag to tuck into your purse—one of those invaluable little bags that help keep your pocketbook tidy and your makeup aids readily accessible. It's Robin Hood green silk, bound and lined in the Robin Hood red, containing a puff, a lipstick, a powder container and rouge.

The other kit is like Robin's money bag—a pouch of the Sherwood green, also lined in the red, with red silk draw strings. You can swing this from your wrist or tuck it into a capacious bag. Inside are the new lipstick, rouge, and powder compact and a small flacon of perfume. And there's space for the few extra gadgets, like hairpins, that every woman totes.

Don't miss the new makeup. It's elegant.

Harp Soloist Wins Audience at Grant Park

BY EDWARD BARRY.

A little Welsh melody made of mist and sadness held thousands of Grant parkers enthralled last night when Joseph Vito, harp soloist at this thirty-ninth of the lake front concerts, played "The Minstrel's Adieu" as an encore. The lone harp singing ruefully away under the wide and windy sky achieved a musical beauty which for delicacy and for fitness of means to an end is not excelled twice in the best of seasons.

Tonight's Program at Grant Park

Chicago Symphony orchestra
Hans Lange, conducting

Overture to "Rienzi"	Wagner
Symphony No. 4, E-flat	Glazounoff
St. Paul's Suite, for string orchestra	Holst
Suite for orchestra, opus 19	Dohnányi
Overture to "William Tell"	Rossini

Shortly before Mr. Vito had played the Thomé "Légende" with the Chicago Symphony orchestra under Hans Lange's direction. Audience appreciation of the cleanness of the performance made it necessary to add first a concert waltz of Alberstotter, then the Welsh melody.

With Mr. Lange and his men in their best form, Beethoven's fourth symphony yielded its secret without a struggle. That secret, in the opinion of this writer, lies in the fusion of a remote, almost architectural loveliness with warm romantic feeling. In the performance long lines and exquisite textures, far from turning the piece into a mere study in architectonics, became part of the devices by which the symphony was revealed in its character of a joyful human testament.

The concert also offered the "Merry Wives of Windsor" overture, Mozart's "Kleine Nachtmusik," and the Tschaikowsky "Romeo and Juliet."

DON'T SAND-BLAST YOUR HAIR!
Keep It Soft, Alluring, Manageable with Cas-O-Lan Shampoo
If women worked in coal mines or dug ditches, they would need shampoos with powerful scouring chemical action to remove the abnormal amounts of impurities they would get in their hair and scalp—but, at the same time, such shampoos kill and take out the natural protective and beautifying oils from the hair. But, how many women do you know who work in coal mines or dig ditches? The problem of removing foreign accumulations and loose dandruff from the average woman's head between shampoos is fairly simple, but protecting and retaining the beauty-giving natural oils is another matter. That is why we say

YOU CAN'T HAVE ALLURING, MANAGEABLE HAIR
if you use shampoos or soaps that contain harsh, too-powerful chemicals that clean your hair . . . but leave it dry, brittle and WILD.
GOOD-BYE TO WILD HAIR
USE CAS-O-LAN SHAMPOO
Contains Lanolin—Olive Oil—Castor Oil
The gentle, safe hair-glamourizer and cleaner that contains nature's wonder oils, whose protective and cleansing properties are known and recommended by beauty operators and hair specialists. The makers of Cas-O-Lan have perfected a method of emulsifying these oils that produces a rich, creamy lather . . . having just the right amount of cleansing action . . . yet leaving the natural oils that make your hair soft, high-lighted and enticing. Don't confuse Cas-O-Lan with any other oil shampoo. Cas-O-Lan is different.
CAS-O-LAN SHAMPOO LEAVES NO DULLING FILM, NO GREASY, GUMMY DEPOSITS . . . NO BROKEN ENDS
There is no mystery about Cas-O-Lan . . . no new experimental chemicals . . . no caustic alkalis . . . no alcohol. We tell you exactly what it contains and invite you to ask your beauty operator or hair specialist if there is anything finer for your hair than Lanolin, Olive Oil and Castor Oil. Cas-O-Lan is equally effective for normal, oily, dyed, bleached, dry or permanent-waved hair.
FOR GORGEOUS HAIR EVERY MINUTE OF THE DAY USE CAS-O-LAN HAIR CREME BETWEEN CAS-O-LAN SHAMPOOS.

Thinks Cagney, Raft Film Little Short on Plot

Directed by William Keighley.
From novel by Jerome Odlum.
Presented at the Chicago theater.

THE CAST.

Frank Ross	James Cagney
"Hood" Stacey	George Raft
Joyce	Jane Bryan
John Armstrong	George Bancroft
Meuller	Stanley Ridges
Carlisle	Alan Baxter
Grayce	Victor Jory
Pete Kassock	John Wray
Dale	Edward Pawley
Lang	Willard Robertson
Mrs. Ross	Emma Dunn
Garsky	Paul Hurst
Lassiter	Louis Jean Heydt
"Limpy" Julien	Joe Dunning
Hanley	Thurston Hall
Bill Mason	William Davidson
Stacey's Attorney	Clay Clement
Judge	Charles Trowbridge
Temple	Harry Cording

BY ANNA NANGLE.

If the plot were as good as the title this might have been a better movie.

The co-stars are tough guys once more as the result of completely different forms of social injustice. Mr. Raft was never given a break throughout a childhood of poverty, and so learned to make his own; Mr. Cagney enjoys his work as a reporter because of his zeal in fighting crime by revealing it. The latter reveals the wrong people and is deftly railroaded into the penitentiary where he meets the former.

The institution is rife with stoolpigeoning and brutality, and Reporter Ross and Gangster Stacey come to appreciate each other as "square guys."

I thought the plot pretty flimsy. Mr. Raft and Mr. Cagney are both excellent in their rôles, and some of the prison incidents are exciting in a grisly fashion. George Bancroft, older and heavier, does a good job as the warden, who warns his men against brutality, but doesn't seem to do much about it. Jane Bryan provides the love interest as a faithful girl reporter. The newspaper angles are silly and overdone.

"TELL NO TALES."
Produced by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer.
Directed by Leslie Fenton.
Presented at the State-Lake theater.

THE CAST.

Michael Cassidy	Melvyn Douglas
Ellen Frazier	Louise Platt
Arno	Gene Lockhart
Matt Cooper	Douglas Dumbrille
Lorna Travers	Florence George
Doctor Lovelake	Halliwell Hobbes
Miss Mary	Zeffie Tilbury
Davie Bryant	Harlan Briggs
Miss Brendan	Sara Haden
Charlie Daggett	Hobart Cavanagh
Sam O'Neil	Oscar O'Shea
Ruby	Theresa Harris
Mrs. Lovelake	Jean Fenwick
Mrs. Haskins	Esther Dale
Chalmers	Joseph Crehan

Here we have another nosey newspaper man, but in this opus he's not in custody, merely on the lam.

Matt Cooper owns two papers, a scandal sheet and a reputable paper. Just as he decides to discontinue publication of the latter the editor, Michael Cassidy, locates the first bill of a sum of ransom money paid in a recent kidnapping. He refuses to accept a job on or give his information to the other sheet, but goes off on his own little hunt. In tracing the bill he fools the police, gangsters, gamblers, falls in love with a school teacher who was a witness to the crime, and finally puts the officially defunct paper out almost single handed, all of which results in a happy ending.

The film has a lot of rather involved action. Mr. Douglas is competent and rather likable in his rôle. Other members of the cast are adequate.

ENGAGEMENT

Miss Freda Zimmerman of Oak Park announces the engagement of her niece, Miss Caroline Marschall to Edward Marshall of De Kalb, Ill. Miss Marschall is the daughter of the late Baron and Baroness Ernst Marschall von Bieberstein. Both young people were graduated from the De Kalb Teachers' college.

Looking at Hollywood

By Ed Sullivan

Closeups.

Hollywood, Cal., Aug. 7.—Charles Boyer, considered by many femme movie fans as the No. 1 romancer of the screen, never saved a dime from his French stage salary until he broke himself of a terrific passion for roulette. For ten years Boyer lost every franc he earned. He reached the point where he actually resented audiences, because they kept him from the roulette wheel. It was a struggle to give up gambling, but he succeeded in licking himself and today he is successful on the screen, has years of earning power ahead, and money in the bank.

Joan Blondell, when she wants to diet, doesn't trust herself. So the Blondell goes to Santa Barbara, lives in a hotel, and has all her meals at the Santa Barbara hospital. She knows the nurses won't let her have dessert. She took her mother with her the last time. Ma Blondell liked the dieting so much that she took off eighty pounds in six months.

Greta Garbo is the best whistler of the glamor girl contingent. Her dressing room is next to the MGM sound department, and so Garbo hears musical numbers over and over again because the sound men play the tracks endlessly while scoring. Long before a song has reached the hit parade Garbo can whistle it backward, forward, and on the bias. She is prouder of her whistling than of her acting.

Herbert Marshall is the favorite actor of local publicity men, and studio publicity men have few illusions about actors. Marshall not only will get up at ungodly hours to go down to the airport or railroad stations to pose with some incoming half celeb, so that the publicity men can plant the picture, but he is always pleasant about it. Some people will do a favor and then take all the good out of it by grousing. Marshall does a favor charmingly.

Jackie Coogan, who has had a series of ups and downs ever since he grew up, is proof of the old adage that you can't be successful at a job you don't enjoy. Hollywood insists on making Coogan an actor. Coogan himself has a talent for mechanics and is happy only when he's puttering around engines and machines. Henry Ford has taken a lot of talented youngsters into his employ. He'd find Coogan right.

When Orson Welles came to Hollywood, the intellectuals of the colony were all ready to lionize him. Welles ducked the intellectuals and the social crowd in favor of Benny Rubin, dialect comedian. Orson and Benny became pals through a cover charge. Two friends of Welles went to the Victor Hugo restaurant, which Rubin manages, and as they arrived after midnight, Rubin told the waiter not to assess cover charges. Welles was so impressed that he hunted up Rubin and they have been inseparable pals ever since.

Brian Donlevy, who clicked big as the sergeant in "Beau Geste," is the only actor in Hollywood who can say truthfully that he played in the original Broadway company of "What Price Glory." The late Louis Wolheim, who helped so many young actors, got him the job.

Wolheim taught Joel McCrea quite a bit about acting, a fact which McCrea always is eager to attest. But Adolphe Menjou knew Wolheim better than any one else. Menjou, while he was a student at Cornell, had Wolheim for a professor and one day decided to play a practical joke on him. Prof. Wolheim hit him on the chin and knocked him down a flight of Cornell stairs.

The Marx brothers spent quite a lot of time and money in attempting to develop a heavyweight fighter. He got flattened so often that the brothers named him Canvasback Cohen. So disappointing was the experience that they withdrew as fight managers. A Pittsburgh fighter wrote to Chico and asked him to arrange a fight for him in Hollywood, the fighter expressing confidence that he could "sell" himself. Chico turned down the offer. The fighter was Billy Conn, one of the greatest scrappers to come up within the last ten years.

Most actors love to be associated with athletes. Jolson and George Raft bankrolled Henry Armstrong. Dick Powell has a scrapper named Suess. Randolph Scott is a pal of Slammin' Sam Snead. Joe E. Brown is the No. 1 rooter of U. C. L. A. football teams. Songwriter Walter Donaldson and William Anthony McGuire are the coast pappes of Notre Dame. Bing Crosby sponsored John Montague. I guess the association with athletes makes the actors feel muscular.

David Niven, on his last trip to England, felt pretty chipper about his success in Hollywood and had a sneaking notion that Londoners would serve the famed calf. Trying hard to act nonchalant, David strolled into his club. An old general looked up from his armchair. "Hello, Niven," he drawled. "It's nice to be home again," said Dave. "Have you been away?" asked the old general. Niven slunk out of the place.

The Housewife

One of the best of the liquid floor waxes comes in a convenient box with a can of paint cleaner. It's a sort of get-acquainted package and a good way to try out these products.

The wax is the type that is applied to the linoleum with a cloth or applicator and does not require rubbing. When it dries it becomes glossy. The paint cleaner is fine for woodwork and for the painted surfaces in the kitchen.

Every Tourist Will Have Use for Smart Suit

BY RHEA SEEGER.

PARIS [By Mail].—Travel clothes are smartly styled, wrinkleproof, and warm without being bulky. A topcoat fulfilling all these qualities is a must.

Slicker and umbrella often are left behind because of some rather fantastic idea that showers are not allowed during vacation periods. Those canny souls who pessimistically pack for any trip and include such a rainproof outfit are the unruffled tourists who have fun no matter what the weather.

If you leave our country to barge about England and other seashore countries you can realy use a suit—a wool suit of skirt and jacket. And since wearable suits of soft, thin wool are not only abundant but unusually crisp, young, and smart, you can live in them from dawn till dark.

Turbans, and more turbans, and small hats assure successful travel expeditions. They look smart on the head, keep the coiffure smooth, present a well groomed silhouette and park in microscopic apertures in the most overstuffed luggage. These days of fashion, turbans are suavely draped in dramatic folds to frame the headlines. Scarcely a dull affair is obtainable.

Fabric gloves and plenty of hosiery complete the must list for the travel wardrobe.

Hosiery in practical all-purpose shades are the safest buy. Select one street shade to complement every outfit you pack. Pack as many as you can buy. Choose any other shade for dress parade clothes or party or dinner dresses and also buy these in sufficient quanities so that one stocking left in a pair that snagged will match another "extra" that may survive.

To the Stars

SYNOPSIS.

Lee Reynolds, promoter of children's acts in the days before motion pictures, is attracted to the tenement flat of the Lichts' by the Christmas carols sung by their little daughter, Josefa.

INSTALMENT II.

A BUDDING STARLET.

When the children had said goodnight and removed themselves from the scene, Lee Reynolds resumed his proposition at the point of its interruption.

He stood ready to pay into the hands of Josefa's father on the Saturday of each and every week for fifty-two weeks the sum of $25.

To Papa and Mama Licht this was an enormous sum of money. Mama Licht pushed down her bosom to have another unobstructed view of the would-be benefactor. He looked honest and he looked kind. But she came of shrewd, stubborn peasant stock, and was not to be stampeded by pleasant and alluring words. So she pinched her husband in the tenderest part of his arm and told him to tell Mr. Reynolds that they thanked him for his flattering offer and would give it serious consideration. Mr. Reynolds took the temporary setback in good part.

"Tomorrow with permission," he said, "I you again once more see shall." And he added, "The little boy also a sweet voice has, but——" He shook his head sadly.

Tears came into the eyes of Mama Licht and then into those of her husband. Little August was a hunchback.

The next morning at 11 o'clock Lee Reynolds called upon the Lichts for the second time and, being a business man, brought credentials with him. One of these was the German Consul General in person. The other was Mrs. Lee Reynolds. The Consul General was plump, perfumed and exuberant. Lottie Reynolds was plump, pleasantly scented, and matter of fact. She wore a mink toque and cloak, and a bunch of purple violets.

Mama Licht and Lottie Reynolds looked into each other's eyes and each saw in the other an honest, able woman.

The Consul General had his practical side. Together with his compliments he presented Herr Licht with two bottles of Liebfraumilch. Wine was poured and the adults drank to each other and to success. The Christmas tree and the gifts which the children had received were admired. But the fortunate children were to receive other gifts—mechanical toys, puzzles, books with gigantic letters and colored pictures, a two pound box of chocolate and vanilla caramels.

While the gentlemen talked business, the ladies exchanged preferences, recipes, notions of discipline, and favorite cures for head colds.

Cross legged on the floor, August, who was of a mechanical turn, showed Josefa how to key wind a mechanical toy and set it going.

This went on until all at once the gentlemen began to laugh and shake hands and to wish each other a happy New Year. Papa Licht refilled the wineglasses.

The day after New Year's day Lottie Reynolds, she preferred to be called Dot, came to take Josefa away in a hansom cab. But before she was taken away, Josefa was told to be a good little girl always, now and hereafter, and to love Papa and Mama and Brother Hans, and to do just what Mr. and Mrs. Reynolds told her to do, just as if they had been Papa and Mama.

Josefa was too young to understand what went on. She was amiable and sweet tempered to the point of incredibility. It never entered her head not to do as she was told.

The Reynoldses lived in an old fashioned house in East 28th street. Richard Harding Davis had rooms in the house next door. Just around the corner on Fifth avenue was the most fashionable hotel in New York. Sometimes a coach drawn by four beautiful horses stopped in front of the Holland house to take on passengers. The driver was a slim dark man in a high gray hat. His name was Mr. Alfred Vanderbilt. The man who blew the horn was stout and nobody remembers his name.

Around the corner again on Broadway was the Gilsey house, a great hang-out for theatrical people who had to count their pennies.

That first day of Josefa's new life, after she had been outfitted from head to toe, she was taken to the Gilsey house for a glass of milk and a bite of toast while Mrs. Reynolds drank a cup of orange pekoe tea with a dash of rum in it.

At a nearby table a beautiful young lady and two beautiful young men howled with laughter at each other's wise cracks and imitations of the most notable ham actors of the period. On the way to her own table Mrs. Reynolds had exchanged friendly greetings with the three. Josefa had a good memory. And she always remembered that the names of the three were Ethel, Lionel, and Jack. She even remembered it in after years when Ethel had retired from the stage, when Lionel was playing old men's parts in motion pictures, and when Jack had changed his name to Caliban.

Mr. Reynolds had knocked some partitions out of the top floor of his house and made a big bare room with a stage at one end with a row of reflectors and electric lights and a pair of curtains that could be pulled apart or together and at one side facing the stage a grand piano. There were also several rows of kitchen chairs facing the stage.

The place was heated by two hot air registers and when you stood over one of them it made your legs very warm and your dress and petticoats puffed up and out until Mrs. Reynolds said that you looked like a little civil war girl in a hoopskirt.

Here Mr. Reynolds rehearsed his child performers, trained them, tried out prospects, and on occasion entertained his friends. Josefa was one of those children who at the moment was living with Mr. and Mrs. Reynolds. The other two were named Eddie and Lena.

In Josefa's eyes Eddie seemed almost a grown man. He was 13 years old and had white teeth and a dent in his chin. Of all the children Mr. Reynolds had trained Eddie was the favorite. He had a beautiful soprano voice, and could make people laugh, and could dance so fast that it must have been hard for the music to keep up with him.

He was always very gentle and understanding with little children and animals. Lena looked the way Lillian Russell must have looked when she was 11 years old. She had golden hair and a classic face. She and Eddie did a beautiful waltz together, and a fancy dance in which they were dressed to look like a Chinese couple in beautiful loose silk clothes embroidered with flowers and bridges and butterflies and pop-eyed dogs.

These two sophisticated and accomplished children were very friendly with Josefa right from the start. She was very friendly with them and with the entire household. Josefa's feelings at this time were neither deep nor poignant. Young puppies do not die upon their masters' graves. And the kindness and tenderness of Mr. and Mrs. Reynolds nipped a vague tendency toward homesickness in the bud. And before she had lived in the Reynolds house twenty-four hours she had her first dancing lesson.

Lee Reynolds knew how to make the beginnings of this difficult art easy and gamesome. And Josefa had rhythm in her blood. Even in the days when she was still living on mother's milk with an occasional swig of beer and a pretzel to cut her teeth on, she would crow and gurgle and wave her arms whenever music passed in the street. But as Lee Reynolds explained ruefully to his wife: "She's so young that she's still drunk on her feet. I can't seem to teach her which leg is which.

"So she gets them all mixed up and then down she goes. She's the greatest little faller-downer I ever saw. You'd think she'd hurt herself. But she always manages to land on her plump little behind or on her plump little breadbasket and she seems to think it's just the funniest thing and gets up laughing all over. But, by God, she's cute! That little face!"

Josefa shared a room with Lena. But it was a real double room. They had a bed apiece and a bureau apiece. Each had a special chair to lay her clothes on, her special laundry bag, and her own towels. But in Josefa's case toys took the place of nicknacks and keepsakes. Lena on the other hand had a drawer full of cigaret pictures of contemporary actors and several of cabinet size which were autographed in enormous handwritings. "To Lena from her fellow artist," "To the most beautiful blonde in the world from the oldest." And so forth.

Many distinguished persons believed that Lena had a great career ahead of her. If she did not get to be the best dancer in the world she might easily be the most beautiful. But Lee Reynolds had his doubts. He sometimes wondered if Lena's smile was really sweet and enticing or if it wasn't just the least shade mechanical.

Fatigue Is Beauty Enemy, So Find Means to Avoid It

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Copyright: 1939: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Fatigue brings lines and wrinkles, but how can a working girl avoid weariness? She can't entirely, but she can eliminate a lot of it.

We don't necessarily have to work less in order to avoid fatigue. It isn't always a question of getting more sleep. Fatigue can be avoided by a change of occupation, a change of activity, even a mere change of posture that sends the blood circulating and reviving tired muscles. A few minutes of relaxation will enable you to work more efficiently.

If typing becomes a strain, do a little filing for a while. If dictation reaches the exhausting stage, shift to the telephoning you must do. If interviewing people is making your throat dry, take time off to read those reports that need checking.

A housewife needn't sweep every room in the house all at once. Let her break away from her broom and shell some peas. When she returns to cleaning, she'll get it done that much more quickly.

When weariness is slowing you up, do some other task for a change. Let the overworked muscles in one part of your body have a chance to catch up with rest. Often fatigue is caused by lack of circulation. Certain nerves and muscles merely need more nourishment. A change of position will make your blood circulate more freely. Sometimes merely leaning over and letting the blood go to your head will take away the feeling of strain.

A tired girl isn't able to be charming. So it is up to her to avoid fatigue.

On the House

The flat roofs of some of our modern houses boast simple cooling systems individual to the type of house. With such a house it is possible to keep a few inches of water on the roof, on hot days and nights. There is nothing new in the principle of cooling by evaporation. But it is new, as applied to residence construction: new and interesting.

Hurry Up Type of Motoring No Fun for Child

[Copyright: 1939: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Each way of traveling has its points, especially when your children are part of the cavalcade, for cavalcade or safari or caravan it certainly seems like to me at times, when besides the small and larger human beings that are going along, the paraphernalia is lined up, too. Boats have some advantages, trains others, cars others, and air travel still others. Among these, I've never spoken specially of traveling by car.

Most people who have a car and children know what the conveniences and inconveniences are of this way of journeying. It is not these things I want to talk about today. What I do want to do is to come down hard on the nonstop flight type of driving!

Of course, your husband or you, if you do the chauffering, may not belong in that class. But if your experience is anything like mine and that of my friends and relatives it's as much as your life is worth to get a man to stop when he's at the wheel, unless he needs smokes.

"O how lovely!" you may exclaim. "Let's stop and look at those far off mountains and these marvelous wheat fields." But before the sentence is finished you've whizzed past and your husband has said vaguely, "Mountains? Where? O, we're too far past now."

Or you may have noticed that the road you're on lies through old Revolutionary landmarks and you see a tablet ahead. "Jim!" you call out from the back seat, where you're guarding the twins, "Stop! please stop here. I've always wanted the children to read that tablet." But you might as well have spoken to the wind that catches your words, because Jim wants to make East Liberty Corners by twelve sharp.

Now, I know as well as anyone that there are times when you have to cover certain ground within a certain time limit. But this is not by any means always the case when you're traveling by car with the children, or when you're out on a long pleasure drive with no fixed time and destination.

These nonstop drives are not necessary most of the time. And when they're not you should let the interest aroused in your children by aspects of country or towns, or passing sights or points of special note be enjoyed by the children. There's a great deal worth stopping for that not only breaks the physical tedium of car travel for the children, but that feeds their mind and spirit.

Aug. 8, 1939.

A 2-day calls for coöperation and tact. It isn't a day to make rapid progress but to oil the wheels so that more speed will be possible another day.

If this is your birthday this advice is doubly important for you to follow. This year is favorable for marriage and for making partnerships and friendships. If you are single, your romance may be just around the corner, and if married, make the bonds tighter by thoughtful consideration of your mate. Play ball with those around you, it will smooth out your path.

BY MARY MEADE.

[Copyright: 1939: By The Chicago Tribune.]

There should be sandwiches to accompany those cream of vegetable soups so often served at lunch. Soup, sandwiches and simple dessert make an every day meal easy to get and satisfying.

There must be sandwiches for every picnic, too, hale and hearty ones as well as plain ones. What would summer be without sandwiches!

Here are a few sandwich specials for picnic, porch or dining room. And many more are to be found in our booklet, "The New Sandwich Maker," which is yours for 5 cents in stamps.

SUMMER SANDWICHES.

[White, whole wheat, rye or other bread.]

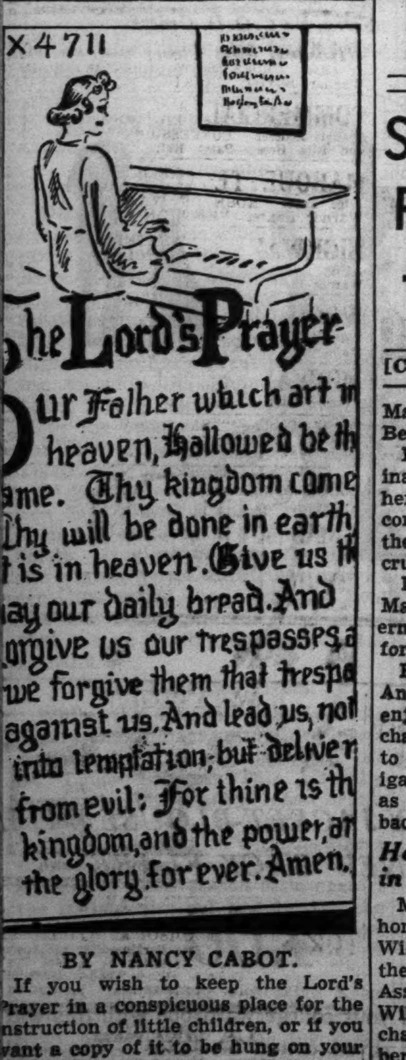
1. Cream cheese and watercress.
2. Sliced radishes lettuce and mayonnaise.
3. Thinly sliced beef or ham, lettuce, sliced cucumber and mayonnaise.
4. Chopped egg, minced chives, finely cut celery, mixed with mayonnaise and lettuce.
5. Canned salmon, finely cut celery, pickle relish, mayonnaise.
6. Sliced chicken, thinly sliced tomato, lettuce and mayonnaise. Needs a sprinkle of salt.
7. Minced onion with finely chopped cucumber, cream cheese, and mayonnaise.
8. Thinly sliced ham and Swiss cheese, lettuce, mayonnaise seasoned with mustard. Or use mustard alone.
9. Canned braunschweiger, meat paste or pâté de fois gras, with sliced radishes or cucumbers, lettuce and dressing.
10. Prepared cheese spread, thinly sliced dill pickle, lettuce.
11. Chopped deviled egg, ground carrot, and pickle.
12. Marmalade and chopped nuts. Or marmalade and cream cheese on nut bread.
13. Chopped or sliced beef tongue, lettuce leaf, with horseradish, mustard or chili sauce, or with chopped green onion and mayonnaise.
14. Sliced tomato, bacon or ham and cucumber, lettuce and dressing.
15. Sliced banana, cucumber and cream cheese, mayonnaise.

Spread butter all the way to the crusts when preparing sliced bread for sandwiches. And don't trim the crusts for picnic or lunch sandwiches, only for the party kind.

If the sandwich filling is moist, spread the butter quite thickly to prevent soaking, if the sandwiches must wait for a while. Most sandwiches may be wrapped in wax paper or in a slightly damp cloth and stored in the refrigerator for several hours before serving, with no loss of flavor or character.

Going on a picnic? For what-to-eat suggestions see Mary Meade's booklets, "Let's Have a Picnic" and "The New Sandwich Maker." Pick them up for 3 cents at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower lobby; or they will be mailed for 5 cents in stamps.

Transfer Pattern Is Lovely Version of Lord's Prayer



BY NANCY CABOT.

If you wish to keep the Lord's Prayer in a conspicuous place for the instruction of little children, or if you want a copy of it to be hung on your bedroom wall, make a wall hanging yourself with the aid of this transfer pattern. The letters may be embroidered in either black or colors. If the small letters are done in brown and the capitals alternating in dull blue and gold, the ultimate effects will be that of an old parchment. A narrow blue frame would be impressive.

For the hot iron transfer pattern of the Lord's Prayer, No. X-4711, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue, New York City.

HAROLD TEEN—TRUCK TUCKS AWAY THE GROCERIES

For "Career" Girls and Co-eds

MISS' TWO PIECE DRESS.

"Career" girls and those who are headed for campuses around the country this fall will be especially fond of this frock. Busy women in other walks of life will like it, too, since it may be worn to so many different kinds of occasions.

The dress may be as tailored or as dressy as you choose. The larger sketch shows treatment that styles the dress for afternoon and "date" wear. The blouse, with its high round neckline and snugly fitted, buttoned lines, is of white rough crêpe, while the black crêpe skirt is a plain model that flares. The short puffed sleeves are pretty and feminine, and if you wish you may have a corsage, either real or artificial, at the shoulder. All types of silks, including satin, make up well in this model.

At the right, a version in tweed and plain woolen, united for harmony. A slide fastener is used down the front, from the high V neckline to the upcurved hem. The sleeves are puffed at the shoulders, but are snug below the elbow.

Style No. 3145 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, and 20. Size 16 requires 1⅝ yards of 39 inch material for the jacket, with 2 yards of 39 inch material for the skirt.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central station, NEW YORK CITY, including 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred—wrap it carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! Be sure to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired, and write your name and address plainly.

Small Parties Fill In Season for Debutantes

Malabar XII. off Newport or New Bedford.

Following the yacht race to Mackinac, Mrs. Henry B. Babson joined her husband in the Maruffa, and, accompanied by the Clyde Shoreys and their three children, the Babsons are cruising in Georgian bay.

Enloe Wilkinson, Robert Badger, Andrew Payne, and Robert Hogue are enjoying a two weeks' cruise on a chartered schooner. Their plans were to go up the west side of Lake Michigan and come down the east side as far as Saugatuck before cruising back to Chicago.

Hold Exchange Sale in Lake Geneva Today.

Mrs. Robert Tarrant will open her home, Buena Vista, in Lake Geneva, Wis., today for a sale of goods from the Woman's Exchange of Chicago. Assisting Mrs. Tarrant will be Mrs. William Spencer, president of the exchange's board of directors; Mrs. Albert F. Madlener Jr., Mrs. Sangston Hettler, Mrs. Bartholomay Osborne, and Mrs. Philip Wrigley.

The engagement of Miss Charlotte O'Brien to Daniel J. Lawlor has been broken by mutual consent. Miss O'Brien is a daughter of the Michael J. O'Briens of Highland Park.

Mrs. Martin Kent Northam has returned to Evanston following a month's trip to California and Oregon

The Ridge Service Guild auxiliary is planning its third annual Monte Carlo ball to be held Nov. 4 in the Boulevard room of the Stevens hotel. Proceeds will be used for the support of the Morgan Park Home for Dependent Children and for other charities. Mrs. John R. Thompson is general chairman of the dance.

South Shore Club.

The South Shore Country club will hold a gala fiesta party on Aug. 19. Mexican entertainers will give the program.

WEDDINGS

The marriage of Miss Ruth Renata Bell, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Lewis Barclay Bell of Chicago, to Donald Raymond Horn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward O. Horn of La Grange, will take place at 8:30 o'clock Saturday evening at the Hope Evangelical Lutheran church. A reception will be held at the Windermere East hotel. Mr. Horn and his bride are graduates of Northwestern university.

The marriage of Miss Mary Kay Harger, daughter of the late Mrs. D. C. Harger of Evanston, to Charles H. Gohde, son of Mr. and Mrs. William C. Gohde of 5135 Montrose avenue, took place on July 15. Mr. Gohde and his bride are at home in Evanston.

Miss Eula B. Butzerin of 5427 University avenue announces the marriage on July 29 of her niece, Miss Margaret Hazel Bisbee, to Ronald Burton Welch, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Welch of Winchendon, Mass. The wedding took place in the Graham Taylor chapel and was followed by a wedding breakfast at the Windermere East hotel. Mr. Welch and his bride will make their home in Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. John Riley announce the marriage of their daughter, Mrs. Florence Meagher, to Dr. Edward McNamara, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward McNamara of Chicago. The ceremony took place on Saturday at Holy Name cathedral. The Rev. Msgr. Joseph P. Morrison officiated. He was assisted by the bridegroom's cousin, the Rev. William Muckle of Toronto. Dr. McNamara is a graduate of Loyola university.

ChicagoChurch Directory Tells Story of Unity

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Closer working relations between nineteen denominations with 1,060 churches is shown in the fourteenth annual edition of the directory of the Chicago Church federation. Issuance of the directory was announced yesterday by the Rev. Dr. Ralph Wakefield of Irving Park Methodist church, president of the federation.

Dr. Wakefield said the 1939 book shows that Chicago churches are keeping pace with world trends toward deeper fellowship and closer coöperation between branches of the Christian faith, and that the federation's membership is no longer exclusively Protestant, in view of the admission of the Polish National Catholic church to membership last year.

In the new book more than ever before pastors list their Christian names instead of using initials.

"This is an important development," said Dr. Wakefield, "because the Christian name, given in Christian baptism, is a symbol of individual human worth, for which the Christian religion stands. During past decades industry and government have been numbering people as economic units instead of as persons. This in turn has tended to reduce the importance of persons to the point where alphabetical symbols or numerals are all that is necessary to distinguish between components of some sort of a common herd. It makes a difference whether a person has a Christian name or is merely tagged with a numerical or alphabetical license plate like a motor car. I am glad the pastors are seeing this distinction."

Radio Players to Perform at Sally's Party

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

[Activities of the Sally Joy Brown department are sponsored by Tribune Charities, Inc.]

Knowing that you boys and girls are pretty ardent radio fans and never miss your favorite programs if you can help it, I'm sure that you're all going to like our theater party on Aug. 17, because you'll have an opportunity to meet many of the boys and girls who take important parts in many regular programs.

Nearly all of the most popular programs which feature children include one or more of the Jack and Jill players, and frequently, those youngsters have several parts in different shows. You'll see all of them and have a chance to watch them perform in their own little theater, which is just the right size for children, if you get busy and write your letter requesting an invitation to that party.

You have until Thursday to tell me why you'd like to come to this party, and if you write a good, convincing letter, maybe you'll see your name in the list of winners which will be printed in next Sunday's TRIBUNE.

There are three little things you must remember to include in your letter. I must know your full name, your address, and your age.

The address is just Sally Joy Brown, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, Chicago.

Judge Lewe to Be Guest at Law Fraternity Outing

The Delta Theta Phi law fraternity will have Judge John C. Lewe, one of its leading members, as the special guest at a party and golf tournament Thursday at the White Pines Golf club near Bensenville.

Girls, Learn the Masculine Point of View

BY DORIS BLAKE.

[Copyright: 1939: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Even the most popular girl has intervals when the telephone doesn't ring. But a party, a cruise, an introduction to a new man or two will put her in the swim again.

But there are many girls, nice, wholesome, pretty girls, too, who are chronically dateless. Meeting men doesn't help them. They don't understand the masculine point of view. They may have been brought up by a widowed mother in a home with no brothers. Sometimes they are graduates of women's colleges or boarding schools. Often an adolescent shyness has kept them from gaining social experience with boys when they were growing up.

Girls who associate entirely with women acquire a womanish point of view. They will have to get rid of it before they will make headway with the other sex. At a party, they talk art when the man is interested in baseball or politics. A man may seek an introduction to the smartly dressed girl who's crazy about clothes. But if she talks Paris fashions to him, she'll only frighten him away.

If you want to make a hit with men, learn their point of view. Go where they go. Learn what they like. Avoid tearooms. Eat mutton chops in a masculine restaurant. Attend a few baseball and football games. Join a political club. When you select your vacation, don't pick a cruise or resort where dressing is all important. You don't want to be masculine yourself, but you must understand the masculine slant. Acquire an intelligent listener's interest in their activities.

Front Views and Profiles

By June Provines

Warning! Child Story!

A little lad named Kelly was at a party and his mother asked him if he knew Mrs. Blank, sitting behind him. As he turned, his uncle, as a witticism, said loud enough for Mrs. Blank to hear: "The funny looking lady right behind you." Kelly turned. "I see two funny looking ladies, but I still don't know which one Mrs. Blank is," he answered.

Hot Weather Message.

Waitress' Retort.

The brother of a Chicagoan, Miss Sally Rigler, is an oil man in Louisiana and in his travels is forced to patronize some rather primitive restaurants. One morning as he was served a particularly archaic egg, he asked the waitress:

"What's the matter with this egg?"

"I don't know," she flashed back. "I only laid the table!"

Appraisal.

The drama critic of a New York newspaper writes glowingly of Mme. Nazimova's performance in Ghosts in summer stock in the east, and a picture flashes into mind—Nazimova standing in front of a record producing machine listening to her own voice for the first time, repeating a scene from the Ibsen play. We had played for her some amusing records made at home, one of Judith Anderson doing a bit from O'Neill's Mourning Becomes Electra, in which, after a dramatic declamation, Close the shutters. . . . Throw out the flowers. . . . I'll not go as mother and Oren went, Miss Anderson goes off into peals of laughter and the voices of the others in the room are heard clearly saying, "Go on, Judy, go on." Another of Otto Krueger doing his amazing imitation of Belasco, and one of Dorothy Day doing the switchboard scene from Counselor at Law.

Mme. Nazimova had never made a record, so we put on a blank disc, set up the mike, and she went through some of Mrs. Alving's lines from the second act of Ghosts.

Ghosts! . . . But I almost think we are all of us ghosts, Pastor Manders. . . . We played it back for her immediately, and she stood there before the machine, a frail, intent figure, listening attentively to herself. When the record had finished playing she spoke reflectively, impersonally.

"Not bad," she said slowly. "Not bad."

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1939: By Ely Culbertson.]

It goes without saying that I like to present good hands in this column, but sometimes a hand can be a little too good—to be true. Experts who are undoubtedly clever in the play of the cards are not supermen, and certain plays, nonchalantly described [after the fact] by this or that bridge writer are just a little too wonderful to be executed in the throes of competiton. Such a hand, I fear, is the one shown below, which was included in a recent "par contest" held in England. I hereby admit that the official and winning defense was very beautiful, but I question whether any one would think of the play unless he were forewarned that he was expected to do something sensational.

West	North	East	South
1 club	1 diamond	1 spade	2 no trump
Pass	3 no trump	Pass	Pass
Pass

The committee admitted that this would be rather forceful bidding on the parts of North-South, but it is not so far out of line that we should have any difficulty in accepting it. In par contests such as this the opening lead, as well as the final contract, is directed by the committee, and in this case West is told to lead the ace and six of spades. [From that point on all players are on their own.] East wins the second spade trick and, seeing little to be gained by a shift to his partner's club suit, continues with a third round of spades, hoping eventually to get on lead with the diamond queen in order to run the established spades. It is at this point that poor West is called upon to make a stupendous play. He must throw away the diamond ace! Notice the huge monkey wrench that this throws into the enemy's machinery. Now declarer cannot run the diamond suit without giving East the lead, nor can he make nine tricks without establishing diamonds. It is, as I have said, a truly beautiful defensive play—if any one makes it! It must be observed that if West fails to discard his diamond ace [even as you or I] declarer has an easy guess for his contract. On winning with the spade queen, he leads a diamond toward dummy, and he will have to be very obtuse to play the wrong card. All he need do is think of our original club bid to realize that we are marked with the spade and diamond aces, hence his one thought being to keep East off lead; if we duck, he goes right up with the diamond king and continues with the jack. Now, when we are forced to take our ace, there is no play we can make that will obtain a trick, and declarer actually makes his contract with an overtrick.

I have intimated that for West to discard his diamond ace is virtually "double dummy," but I think I had better backwater a little. Actually, if West is smart enough to think about such a play, it becomes completely logical. On the bidding declarer is marked with the missing aces, hence the only conceivable card of entry that East can have is the diamond queen. If West holds onto his ace, and East has only one guard for his diamond queen, and if declarer guesses the situation as he should, the queen cannot become an entry, whereas if West "gets out of the way" it will. Thus I cannot seriously say that the recommended play is absurd or out of the question; I am merely skeptical of the exact sequence of events [the bidding, opening lead, the spade continuation by East] that make this the vital play, and equally skeptical that any flesh-and-bones player would rise to the occasion.

LEAGUE LEADERS TEST CHICAGO'S PENNANT HOPES

Hartnett Picks Lee, French to Pitch.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

If the Cubs have any secret formula for climbing in the National league percentage column the time has arrived to reveal the trick. Cincinnati's Reds are here—two games today, another pair tomorrow and one on Thursday—and unless somebody starts to catch them immediately they'll not be caught.

At the moment there is a ten and one-half game interval between the pacemaking Reds and the third place Cubs. In between these two so-called contenders are the St. Louis Cardinals, a somewhat rough and tumble outfit which in the long run may prove the only entry sufficiently skilled to give the Reds at least a scare. The Cubs, even though the optimists keep talking about that long winning streak which is going to start any time now, must be discounted until their hitting and fielding improves.

It's Worse than It Looks.

The Reds' present ten and one-half lap edge over the faded champions actually amounts to more than that. The Cubs have played three more games than the leaders and stand charged with twelve more defeats. To even up this side of the percentage ledger the Reds would have to lose twelve more decisions than the Cubs between now and the finish. And the Cubs would have to win nine more than the leaders to even up the winning side.

Manager Gabby Hartnett's plans for today are to feed the Reds a little right handed as well as some left handed pitching. Bill Lee, seeking his thirteenth victory, will perform in the first game, and for an opponent probably will draw Bucky Walters, the graduate third baseman who has compiled nineteen victories thus far in the Reds' pennant march. Larry French, who hasn't started a game since early in July, will handle the second battle against either Johnny Vander Meer or Lee Grissom.

Augie Galan May Return.

Augie Galan, who didn't report for work Saturday and Sunday as the result of a pre-game beaning from a thrown ball, will be back in left field today unless Hartnett plays a hunch that Carl Reynolds, who subbed for the beaning victim, is in one of his periodical hitting streaks. And, of course, Rookie Bill Nicholson, who in his five big league games has set a terrific hitting pace for himself, will be in right.

Dizzy Dean is completely out of the picture for the time being. Diz says his arm is sore and apparently will be let alone until he decides he's ready to resume work.

RIGNEY OPENS FOR SOX

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 7.—The White Sox are here to see what can be done about retaining third place in the American league standings, a spot that will pay a dividend of almost $25,000 if the Sox can hold it at the finish of the 1939 season. John D. Rigney, who did a great job of pitching to whip the Philadelphia Athletics, 2 to 1, his last time out, will pitch the opener of the three game Sox-Tiger series here tomorrow. The Tigers will use Buck Newsom.

So far this year the Tigers and the Sox have played a dozen games and each has achieved a half dozen victories. It must be said the Tigers were much hotter during the eastern trip just ended than were the Sox, but Mr. Dykes and his boys argue that has no bearing on the business at hand.

Must Beat the Tigers.

While the Sox are battling the Tigers the Indians, also third place menaces, will be engaged with the St. Louis Browns. This virtually means the only safety measure for the Sox is to beat the Tigers.

After the Sox finish with the Tigers they will head eastward again to Cleveland. Their season ratio against the Indians also is 6 and 6. And the Tigers will be playing the Browns while the Sox are on the shores of Lake Erie.

Football Giants Receive Widseth's Signed Contract

New York, Aug. 7 [Special.]—The signed contract of Ed Widseth, all-national league tackle and former Minnesota star, was received today by the New York football Giants. Widseth was the last of the Giants' veterans to sign. He said he would report Thursday to training camp in Superior, Wis., to prepare for the all-star game to be played in Soldiers' field, Chicago, Aug. 30, under the sponsorship of Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.

All-Star Coach Settles Right Down to Work.

Musicians!

MEMBERS of college and high school bands residing in the Chicago district are invited to join the College All-Star band which will play between halves of the game between the College All-Americans and the New York Giants in Soldiers' field Aug. 30. All musicians desiring to participate should write to Glen Cliffe Bainum, band director, Northwestern university,

Notre Dame, Ind., Aug. 7 [Special]. —Elmer F. Layden, Notre Dame's director of athletics and football coach, never let the grass grow under his flying feet when he was full back for the late Knute Rockne's famous Four Horsemen.

He ran true to form today when informed of his election to the post of head coach of the Chicago Tribune All-Star squad. He took time only to dictate a statement of appreciation to the hundreds of thousands of fans whose votes gave him more than five million points in the poll to pick the coaching staff, then started diagramming plays, setting up a system of signals, and otherwise carrying out his standard motto: "There's a lot of work to be done."

Speaks on Radio Tonight.

Layden will go to Chicago tomorrow to appear on radio station W-G-N. He will return again Saturday to confer with his assistants and to start work with his All-Star squad for the game with the New York Giants Aug. 30 at Soldiers' field.

"The confidence vested in me through the vote of the fans is personally appreciated and cherished," said Layden.

"It would appear from the selection of the fans that they are up on their football, for they exercised keen judgment in selecting a fine squad," he continued. "This judgment is also reflected in the selection of Harry Stuhldreher, Maj. Bob Neyland, Carl Snavely, and Slip Madigan as coaches of this All-Star squad."

May Rely on Balanced Offense.

While past All-Star squads have relied largely on forward passing attacks, Layden indicated that the picture may be slightly different this year when he said: "The information we have on the Giants and on our own squad is only general now. It appears, though, that we'll have to have a balanced offense, and we'll sift the squad with that purpose in mind. I hope to take care of the particular talents of all the boys elected and I hope that we can get each member of the squad into the game."

Layden declared that there is no question in his mind that the Giants will give the All-Stars more opposition than they've had in the past. "They are younger than the average professional club," he said, "and they have a squad of 48 men, most of whom have worked together in the past."

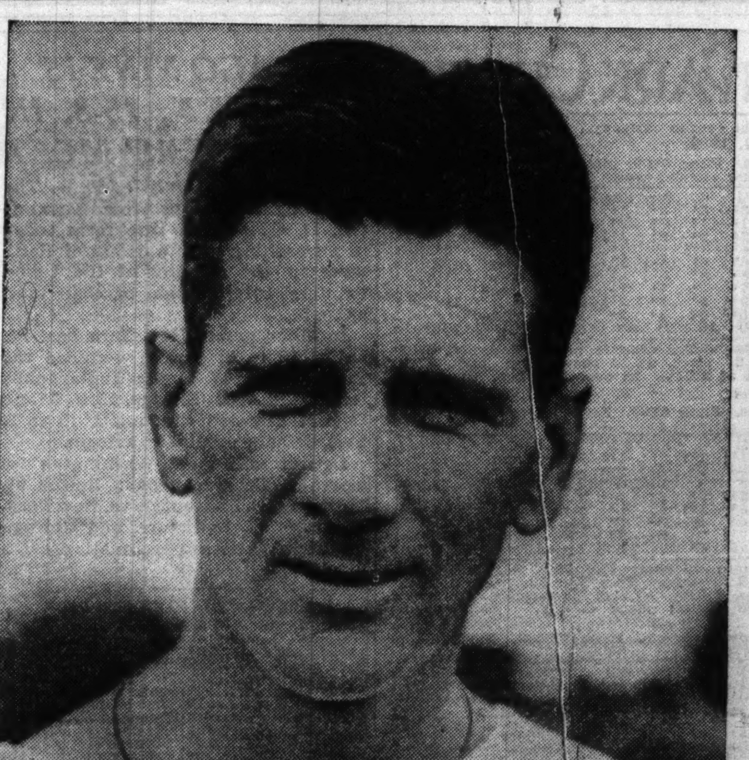
All-Stars Respond Well.

"My experience as an assistant in the past has given me the knowledge that the All-Stars respond each year in grand style to the problems confronting them. What the problems will be this year is a question that can be answered only generally. True knowledge will come only in the practice sessions previous to the game."

Edwin Harlan, Princeton Quarterback of 1907, Dies

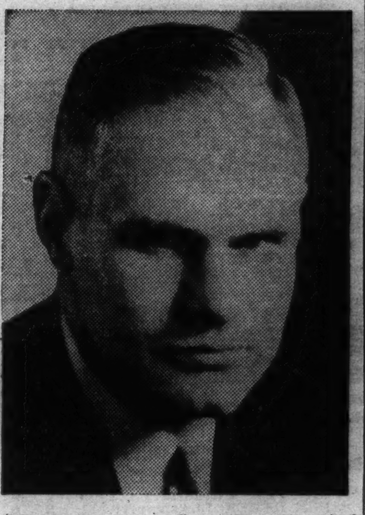
Belair, Md., Aug. 7 [Special].—Edwin H. W. Harlan, 53, who won all-American honors as a Princeton quarter back in 1907, died today at his home after a lengthy illness. Mr. Harlan entered Princeton in 1904. Besides being a football star, he was captain of the university's baseball team.

The Winners—and Your All-American Coaches!



Elmer Layden, head coach and athletic director at the University of Notre Dame, who received 1,247,916 votes in the nation-wide poll to lead all coaches of the country, thus becoming head coach of the College All-Star squad which meets the New York Giants in Soldiers' field on Aug. 30.

Harry Stuhldreher, Wisconsin, who will represent the Big Ten on the All-Star coaching staff.



Carl Snavely, Cornell, who led the field in the eastern sector.

Maj. Bob Neyland, Tennessee, the southern coach on Layden's board of strategy.

Street Scene [Summer 1939].

Down Main street trots the girl in slacks,
Unmindful of the weight she packs.
No thought gives she to bulging rear,
Convinced she looks "a little dear."

Or struts in shorts that show her limbs,
Mosquito bitten—seldom slim,
With kerchief 'round her torso tied
Exposing lavishly her hide.

A lovely lady when in town,
Well girdled 'neath a smooth, smart gown,
But in the sticks—why what the deuce,
Discard the corsets—let's go loose.

The hefty gals, no longer lassies,
Who simply must display their chassis
In shorts too short and slacks too slack,
Are broad of beam and broiled of back.

Dead are the days of city slickers,
Dead, too, the days when gals in "knickers"
Dared not to walk the street abroad
They walk today—and are they BROAD!

Reading Pa., Aug. 7 (AP).—Playing on his home course, Byron Nelson, National Open champion, shot a 5 under par 137 today to win the Central Pennsylvania Open golf crown. Nelson shot a 68, 3 under par, in the morning and added a 69 in the afternoon. Sam Byrd, Philadelphia, was second with 71—69—140.

STUHLDREHER BIG 10 WINNER IN EXCITING RACE

Madigan, Neyland, Snavely Other Aids.

Coaches on Air

ELMER LAYDEN of Notre Dame, winner of the All-Star coaches poll, and his assistants, Harry Stuhldreher of Wisconsin, Maj. Robert Neyland of Tennessee, Carl Snavely of Cornell, and Slip Madigan of St. Mary's, will announce their acceptances in a coast to coast broadcast tonight. The program, which will originate in the studio of W-G-N, will be carried over the Mutual Broadcasting system network from 8 to 8:15 o'clock, Chicago time. Layden and Stuhldreher will speak from W-G-N, Snavely from WOR, New York, and Madigan from KFRC, San Francisco. Neyland's voice will be heard by electrical transcription.

BY ARCH WARD.

Elmer Layden of Notre Dame will lead the College All-Stars against the New York Giants, champions of the National Professional league, in Chicago's sixth annual charity football game in Soldiers' field the night of Aug. 30.

Layden won the coast to coast poll, conducted by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE and 334 associated newspapers and radio stations, by an overwhelming vote. His assistants will be Harry Stuhldreher of Wisconsin, who won the Big Ten division; Carl Snavely of Cornell, winner in the eastern section; Maj. Robert Neyland of Tennessee, leader in the south, and Edward P. [Slip] Madigan of St. Mary's, who beat out all other far western candidates.

It was apparent from the early days of balloting that Layden was the fans' choice. He took a lead of 2 to 1 over the field a few days after the voting began and maintained it to the finish. He was supported enthusiastically by Notre Dame alumni, real and synthetic, throughout the country.

Elward Presses Stuhldreher.

There were 6,023,207 first place votes cast in the poll, of which Layden received 1,247,916. He picked up enough second and third place votes to give him a point total of 5,127,888.

The more spirited competition developed in the Big Ten conference. The lead had alternated among Mal Elward of Purdue, Lynn Waldorf of Northwestern, and Stuhldreher. Yesterday morning it appeared that Elward had won out. He received more than 300,000 first place votes late Sunday in final reports from Lafayette, Indianapolis, Terre Haute, Vincennes, Brazil, and other centers where he was the favorite. His lead was wiped out, however, by the returns from Madison, which came in shortly before the deadline.

Waldorf had almost the unanimous backing of the north shore, but his area didn't have the numerical strength to compete with the states of Wisconsin and Indiana in the stretch drive.

Coaches to Report Saturday.

All five coaches will be in Evanston Saturday morning to greet the squad of 69 All-Stars, who also were chosen by the fans of the nation.

Big Ten	2,401,292
Midwest [outside Big Ten]	1,901,972
Far west	615,684
South	611,464
East	492,795

Layden's election is an aftermath to the most successful season he has enjoyed at Notre Dame. His team last year won eight games and lost one through a schedule that pitted the Fighting Irish against several of the nation's outstanding elevens.

Layden entered Notre Dame in 1921

AL AU FEU RUNS HARD AT FINISH; WINS MARQUETTE

Defeats Prince Derek by Length at Washington.

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Al Au Feu, a veteran campaigner owned by A. C. Ernst, won the Marquette claiming handicap, a dash of a mile and seventy yards, which headed yesterday's program at Washington Park. After racing with the trailers on the way out of the chute and down the back stretch, Al Au Feu improved his position on the turn, went fairly wide into the stretch and took after the leaders. Getting to the front at midstretch he went on to beat Prince Derek by a length, though he bore over so badly that he cost Jockey Willie Garner a $50 fine for failing to keep him straight.

Prince Derek, restrained during the early stages, raced widest of all into the stretch and came on to beat the pace setter Show Up by nearly a length for second place. Al Au Feu was the 6 to 1 third choice in the betting, paying $15.80, $6, and $4.20.

The ladies' day crowd of 15,000 cast 21,586 ballots in the handicapping contest. Six survived at the end of the fifth race in their efforts to name seven consecutive winners. All six went out in the sixth race, which was won by an odds-on favorite, Jest Once.

Valdina Stable Scores 5th Time.

The Valdina Farm stable, which had shown considerable strength last week, put over its fifth winner of the meeting in the Calumet purse, a five and a half furlong event for 2 year olds.

Valdina Quest beat Joseph E. Widener's Town Boy by a head after running close to the pace for half a mile and getting to the front in the last furlong. Potranco, the 3 to 1 second choice, was third, his rider being forced to spend most of the stretch drive in an effort at keeping him straight. Valdina Quest, coupled in the betting with Valdina Bess, was the 5 to 2 favorite. His mutuel prices were $7.60, $2.80 and $2.20.

The form players got away to a good start when Maebrille, one of the standouts of the program, won the first race, a sprint for 2 year olds. She had to hustle, however, to catch the early pace-setters. After going wide on the stretch turn, Maebrille continued to drift out while closing on Irish Soap and Bino. She got to the front in the last sixteenth and drew clear a few yards from the finish.

Maebrille Justifies Backing.

Though she had raced only once since the Lincoln Fields meeting, Maebrille gave such a good performance in running second to All Lizzie last Thursday that she went to the post as the odds on favorite yesterday. She returned $3.60, $2.80 and $2.40. She is owned and trained by A. G. Tarn.

Hunter Lyon's Red War then won the second race to complete a daily double worth $17.60. Trainer Bob Ramsey brought this 3 year old gelding up to his best form and then dropped him into the right spot for the first winning effort of his career. After disposing of Sis Ormont in the first quarter Red War was taken over to the rail. Under mild urging he dominated the race thereafter, withstanding Ovid's bid and winning by more than two lengths. He returned $11.20, $5, and $2.80.

Gus Simone's Busy Lutrecia, which had shown rim in several good races in recent weeks, got to the post at the surprising odds of 25 to 1 in the third event. After making the pace to the stretch she accepted the challenge of the Woolford farm's Playmay, lost the lead for a few strides, then regained it and won by a head. She paid off at $54, $24, and $10.40.

Illinois Towns Need a Pied Piper for Blackbirds

BY BOB BECKER.

Many towns in Illinois are confronted with the problem of how to get rid of large flocks of starlings and blackbirds. The birds come in from the fields where they feed during the day, roost in trees in the town, and thus become a big nuisance, for these large flocks not only are extremely noisy but also dirty. Aledo, Ill., has so many of these birds that members of the city council are asking for suggestions on how to get rid of the birds. Bells, shotguns, skyrockets, and poison baits have been tried in Aledo with only moderate success. Galva is another town that is having its troubles with a large roost of birds. The shotguns have been roaring and residents have been beating on pans to drive the birds from Wiley park in Galva.

The experiences of these two towns with large flocks of starlings and blackbirds, which commonly are increased by sparrows and cowbirds, is being repeated in many parts of the state. The starling has been increasing rapidly in the middle west, and is invading our cities. The problem will become more severe unless states and communities set up a practical program of control.

We suggest that towns or cities which are playing host to large flocks of these birds get a copy of Farmer's Bulletin No. 1,571, published by the department of agriculture in Washington. It is entitled "The European Starling." This bulletin describes the habits of the starling and also gives several practical tips on control measures.

Five or six nights of attack are recommended against a big roost with thousands of birds in it. The point is to start shooting early in the evening, the idea being to frighten the birds while there is still daylight, and make them move on. When there still is enough daylight they'll fly some distance whereas later in the evening they will move but a few yards.

CHICAGO NINE IS BEATEN, 15-8, IN PRINTERS' MEET

Baltimore, Md., July 7 (AP). — The defending champions from Washington, D. C., showed title form today in a smashing 18 to 6 defeat of Baltimore in the opening of the Union Printers' International baseball tournament.

In other games New York beat St. Louis, 16 to 6; Boston whipped the Twin Cities, 17 to 11; Indianapolis triumphed over Chicago, 15 to 8, and Detroit defeated Cincinnati, 19 to 8. Two defeats eliminate a team.

Detroit will meet Washington tomorrow. Other pairings: Boston vs. Indianapolis, Pittsburgh vs. New York, St. Louis vs. Baltimore, and Chicago vs. Twin Cities. Cincinnati drew a bye.

MARION MILEY'S 74 TAKES MEDAL IN WOMEN'S GOLF

Miss Dudley Places 2d in Western Trial.

Birmingham, Mich., Aug. 7 [Special].—Establishing a new tournament record and beating par by 4 strokes over the Oakland Hills course, Marion Miley of Lexington, Ky., won the medal here today in the qualifying round of the thirty-ninth closed tournament of the Women's Western Golf association.

Daughter of a professional and twice winner of the tourney title as well as being a member of the Curtis cup team three times, Miss Miley toured the 6,610 yard, par 78 course, in 74 strokes, which is only 2 more than men's regulation on the long layout.

Eight One-Putt Greens.

Strangely enough, Miss Miley scrambled all over the fairways with her tee shots, but was deadly with her irons. Once on the greens she couldn't miss. Her first nine card shows a 37, 2 under par. It included three birdies, five pars, and a 6 on the par 5 ninth. She holed one chip shot and had eight one-putt greens for the eighteen holes.

Miss Miley carded an eagle on the 405 yard, par 5, eleventh. She was in the rough off the tee, but a five iron placed her ball ten feet from the cup and she holed out. Men's par is 4. Marion went over par only once on the last nine, at the fourteenth, and carded another 37.

Mrs. Opal Hill of Kansas City, now a professional, held the former qualifying record of 75, established in St. Paul in 1937.

Eleanor Dudley Cards 79.

Five strokes back of Miss Miley was Eleanor Dudley of the Ridge Country club, Chicago, who won the Illinois title in 1938. Miss Dudley carded 37—42—79.

Beatrice Barrett of Minneapolis, winner of the western open at Colorado Springs last year, was third with 37—43—80. The 81 bracket included Mrs. Lucille Robinson Mann, Milwaukee, and Dorothy Traung, San Francisco, both former champions. Edith Estabrooks, Dubuque, Ia., who was runner-up to Patty Berg in the finals last year, posted 82. Miss Berg, convalescing from an appendectomy, was unable to defend her title.

Chicago entered twenty-five golfers, but only five qualified. Besides Miss Dudley and Miss Williams, they were Mrs. Lillian Zech, Tam o' Shanter, 86; Mrs. H. E. Seehausen, Sunset Ridge, 88, and Mrs. Tim Lowry, Sunset Valley, 89. Mrs. Donald Weiss, Flint, the Michigan champion, and Margaret Russell, former state titlist, failed to pass the qualifying mark.

Qualifying Limit 91.

The qualifying limit was 91 and four were tied at those figures with only three places open. The winners in a playoff were Mrs. M. J. Joyce, Mrs. Mary Harris, and Irene Dill, all of Detroit. Mrs. E. T. Hall, Detroit, was the loser.

Scores of nonqualifiers from the Chicago district were: Mildred Hackl, 93; Gladys Sines, 96; Helen Peterson, 97; Terese Rew, 100; Mrs. Lester Cohn, 101; Mrs. E. P. Hammond, 101; Mrs. Don Hamilton, 101; Mrs. L. I. Oakes, 102; Natalie Barnes, 103; Mrs. Hunter Dickson, 102; Mrs. Lester E. Mee, 103; Mrs. L. A. Mincer, 104.

Friends of Hagen

Byron Nelson High on List of Golf's Great Money Players

[This is the first of a series of sketches on the fifteen golf professionals who will join with Walter Hagen in the veteran's twenty-fifth anniversary tournament, to be played on Aug. 24, 25, 26, and 27 at the Midlothian Country club.]

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Byron Nelson, national and western open champion and runnerup for the national professional title, was born in Fort Worth, Tex., on Feb. 4, 1912. He began his golfing career as a caddy, and became a professional in 1933, when he made his tournament debut in the California winter circuit. Currently, he registers from the Reading, Pa. Country club, but on next April 1, will report to a new post—the Inverness club in Toledo, O.

Byron Nelson.

Nelson's interest in golf as a professional was fired while watching Hagen during a Texas match. By's earlier promise was not realized until the 1937 season, when he won the Masters' tournament by finishing with a final nine of 32. In that year he also captured the $12,000 Belmont match play tournament; finished fifth in the British open, and was one of the stars of America's first Ryder cup victory on British soil.

This year, he came within one stroke of completing a sweep no professional has scored, that of winning the national and western opens, and the national P. G. A. in the same year. He took the national after a two-day, three-man playoff in Philadelphia, then went 37 holes in the P. G. A. final before losing to Henry Picard. Then he came to Chicago and won the western open with 281. He has a pair of the ablest hands in golf, his forte being long iron shots.

Nelson has won $7,628 since the first of the year, and is a leading contender for the Vardon trophy, No. 1 P. G. A. performance prize. By will have Dick Metz of Chicago as his partner during the Hagen tournament at Midlothian.

STARTING GATE AT GOSHEN MEET IS SUCCESSFUL

Goshen, N. Y., Aug. 7 [Special].—For the first time in the history of light harness racing in the east a starting barrier was used today in the opening day's racing of the annual Grand Circuit meeting at Good Time park. The meeting will continue through Friday, with the Hambletonian stake to be contested Wednesday.

The tentative heats in which the barrier was used today were successful; so much so that the whole first day's program of four races was run through employing the new device.

Featuring the afternoon racing was the Langhorne purse for two-year-old pacers. Seven were entered and it was won in two heats by the chestnut colt Martin Patch, owned by B. A. Milliken of Youngstown, O., and driven by Sep Palin. The Hanover Shoe farms' bay filly Countess Hanover, Henry Thomas up and the opening choice, finished second in both heats. The Middletown purse for twenty-four class trotters was won by the Hanover Shoe farms' chestnut mare Elsie Hanover in three straight heats.

PLAY DOUBLE-HEADER.

The Salerno Cookies will meet the John Walters and the Touhys are scheduled with the Happy Jacks in Windy City Softball league games tonight in St. Phillip stadium, Kedzie and Van Buren streets.

Fight Decisions

At Springfield, Mass.—Fred Apostoli stopped Mohammed Fahmy [3].

Chairman Joe Triner and Commissioners Shelden Clark and James R. Fitzpatrick of the Illinois boxing board yesterday took steps to stop the wave of unsatisfactory bouts held in recent weeks.

The action followed recent unimpressive knockouts scored by Billy Marquart, Winnipeg, Man., lightweight, over Johnny Rinaldi of New York in Marigold Gardens, and Willie Joyce, Gary 135 pounder, over Maxie Fisher, Newark, N. J., in White City.

In a statement released after a closed session the board announced drafting of a rule which it hopes will tend to discourage poor fights. The rule provides that hereafter out of town boxers who appear in windups must report to the commission inspector three and a half days prior to contests. Failure to abide by this regulation will bring cancelation of the boxer's match. He also will face suspension.

Made Responsible for Gambling.

Promoters also will be held responsible for enforcement of the gambling law. Failure to prevent professional betting will cause revocation of the promoter's card, the board said.

The commissioners also indicated that any promoter, second, matchmaker, contestant, or official who has a part in a spurious contest will have his card revoked.

"Clean It Up—Or Else."

"It's up to the promoter to see that the law is enforced," the chairman said. "It is not the commission's business. There are betting pools in existence and these will be corrected. If you promoters can't stop it then your licenses will be revoked."

Schoenwald said there is professional gambling at all sports and the situation is difficult to control.

"There'll always be gambling," Commissioner Fitzpatrick admitted. "We know that. But promoters can deter it more than any one else and they're going to do it or we'll do without any boxing."

Riggs Wins 1st Match in Rye Tennis Meet

Rye, N. Y., July 7 (AP).—Bobby Riggs of Chicago started defense of his eastern grass court championship in his usual indifferent fashion today, dropping his preliminary set before overcoming Leonard Hartman of New York, 4-6, 6-3, 6-3, at the Westchester Country club.

The other seeded players also advanced to the second round. Frankie Parker of Kansas City defeated Bob Kerdasha of Woodcliffe, N. J., 6-0, 6-4, and Don McNeill of Oklahoma City, Parker's latest doubles mate, turned back J. Norman Anderson of New York, 6-1, 6-1.

Others who gained the second round were Gardner Mulloy of Miami, Henry Prusoff of Seattle, Ladislav Hecht of Czecho-Slovakia, Hal Surface of Kansas City, and John Doeg of Rumson, N. J.

The women began the process of catching up with Alice Marble, defending champion, who yesterday marched into the third round. Mrs. Sarah Palfrey Fabyan defeated Charlotte McNeill of Bound Brook, N. J., 6-1, 6-0.

Kay Stammers of England, top-seeded foreigner, made her debut and with the aid of a first round bye and a 6-1, 6-1 triumph over Baba Madden of Jamaica Plains, Mass.

Gardner Larned advanced to the fourth round in the third annual invitational tennis tournament, sponsored by the River Forest Tennis club in the junior division yesterday.

Larned defeated Judd Braude, Chicago, 6-1, 6-2 in the opening round, and then beat Bob Randall, River Forest, 6-0, 6-0, and Jack Evert, Chicago, 6-4, 7-5.

Rain Stops Pro on Trail of Two Aces at 2,643 Shots

Cyril Wagner, Elmgate golf club pro, was forced to halt his hole-in-one swinging shortly before midnight last night because of rain. He will resume early this morning if the weather clears. Wagner had failed to register an ace when he stopped after 2,643 shots.

MOON MULLINS—A BLUE OUTLOOK

Nation's Fans Name Layden All-Star Coach

at the age of 18 after a brilliant athletic career at Davenport, Ia., High school. He eventually became the full back in the most famous back field intercollegiate football has developed, the Four Horsemen of 1924. The quarter back of that combination was Stuhldreher, who will be taking orders from his old full back during the eighteen days the All-Star squad is in training at Evanston.

Upon his graduation from Notre Dame in 1925 Layden became football coach at Columbia college [now Loras] of Dubuque, Ia., where his teams won eight games, lost five, and tied two in 1925 and 1926. He passed the Iowa bar examination in 1926 and entered a Dubuque firm.

Maj. Neyland Old Army Star.

Layden moved to Duquesne university, Pittsburgh, in 1927, and in his seven years as head coach there his teams won forty-eight, lost sixteen, and tied six. His 1933 squad won ten out of eleven, losing only to Pittsburgh, 7 to 0. He was invited to return to his alma mater in 1934 as successor to Heartly Anderson. The Irish have won thirty-three games, lost nine, and tied three under his leadership.

Layden ran second in the 1936 All-Star poll, third in 1937, and fourth in 1938. He is married and the father of four children, Joan, 13; Elmer Jr., 10; Michael, 2, and Patrick, 4 months.

Maj. Neyland, southern representative on the All-Star coaching board, is a West Point product. He played end on the Army elevens of 1914 and 1915, was heavyweight boxing champion of the cadet corps for three years, and compiled a record as a baseball pitcher that never has been equaled at the academy. His list of 35 victories in 40 games included a string of 20 in a row. He won all four games that he pitched against the Navy.

After serving in France during the world war Maj. Neyland returned to the military academy as assistant football coach. In 1925 he was appointed commandant of the Reserve Officers' Training corps at the University of Tennessee and was named assistant football coach. He was made head coach in 1926 and immediately the Volunteers began to rise in national gridiron prestige.

Football Wins Over Army.

His 1926 team lost only to Vanderbilt and his 1927, 1928, and 1929 elevens were undefeated. Tennessee lost only to Alabama in 1930 and was undefeated in 1931 and 1932. It dropped three games in 1933 and two in 1934. Neyland was transferred to the Panama Canal Zone in 1935, but football was in his blood and he retired from the army to accept a five year contract at Tennessee. His team lost two games in 1936 and three in 1937, but last year the Volunteers swept through a ten game schedule undefeated and untied.

Carl Snavely, whose Cornell team last fall won the eastern championship, was born in Omaha, Neb., July 31, 1893, the son of a Virginia minister. He played football, basketball, and baseball at Lebanon Valley college and began his coaching career at Kiski preparatory school. He began to attract national attention as a gridiron instructor at Bucknell, where his teams won 42 games, lost 16 and tied 8 in seven years. From there he went to North Carolina university. He lost only one game in 1934 and one in 1935. He succeeded Gil Dobie as coach at Cornell in 1936.

Stuhldreher Pulls Up Badgers.

Stuhldreher was engaged by Villanova after his graduation from Notre Dame in 1925 and in his eleven year régime the school won 65 games and lost 24. He went to Wisconsin in the spring of 1936 as head football coach and athletic director, combining the jobs previously held by Dr. C. W. Spears and Dr. Walter E. Meanwell, respectively. Under his leadership all sports at Wisconsin have flourished.

Madigan, one of the lightest linemen in Notre Dame's history, went to Columbia university at Portland, Ore., as coach after his graduation in 1920. The next year he transferred to St. Mary's college, Oakland, Cal., and has remained there as football coach and athletic director. He is now the oldest coach in point of service on the Pacific Coast. He has made St. Mary's, a neighborhood institution twenty years ago, one of the most widely known schools in intercollegiate football.

INDIANS BUY PETERS FROM ATLANTA CLUB

Cleveland, O., Aug 7 (AP).—The Cleveland Indians have purchased Shortstop Russ Peters from the Southern association's Atlanta Crackers, vice president C. C. Slapnicka announced tonight. An undisclosed amount of cash was paid and Atlanta will receive a pitcher next year. Peters will report at the end of the Southern association season.

Purchase of Peters will not upset present plans to install Lou Boudreau and Ray Mack, withdrawn last week from Buffalo, as the Indians' keystone combination, Slapnicka said.

Three All-Stars Meet a Fourth

Goldberg, Pitt Star, Will Play with Cardinals

BY GEORGE STRICKLER.

Marshall Goldberg, for three years one of the outstanding backs in football as a member of the University of Pittsburgh juggernaut and elected to a starting position on THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE'S All-Star game on Aug. 30, yesterday came to an agreement with Owner Charles Bidwill and signed a Chicago Cardinal contract.

Bidwill declined to discuss terms of the contract beyond stating it was for one year and contains a bonus clause through which Goldberg can double his salary provided he leads the National Football league in yards gained and the Cardinals win the league championship.

Goldberg came to Chicago from Camp Mac Hagon in Maine, where he was a camp director, and left with the Cardinal contingent for training camp in Duluth last night. He will return to report to the All-Star coaches in Evanston on Saturday.

Has Foot Injury.

The quiet, husky half back and full back, who raced through some of the best defenses in college football last year and the season before, wore a sandal and walked in a cast as a result of a basketball accident in camp. The injury has been diagnosed as a fracture of the fifth metatarsal bone and bad sprain of the right foot.

Goldberg did not appear to be inconvenienced or handicapped by the cast and expects to be ready to take an active part in the All-Stars' drill shortly after practice opens Saturday.

Signing of Goldberg gives the Cardinals a complete Pittsburgh backfield. Frank Patrick, full back who was elected to a starting position on the 1938 All-Star team, played with the Cardinals last season. Harold Stebbins, who played half back with Goldberg last year, was signed last spring.

Michelosen, Daddio on Squad.

The quarter back, John Michelosen, who coached last year, was obtained in a deal with the Philadelphia Eagles at the Pittsburgh meeting last month. In addition to the complete 1937 Pitt back field, the Cardinal roster contains Bill Daddio, Pitt end, who will join the squad after the All-Star game.

Goldberg began his career at Pitt as a sophomore sensation, leading the team in yards gained. He continued to break away on long runs throughout his junior year, regardless of the opposition, and again led Pitt in total yardage, establishing himself as one of the best running backs in football. Last fall he was shifted to full back to utilize his blocking ability and power straight ahead and continued to be one of Pitt's chief ground gainers.

He is considered a fair passer, although it was necessary to make him over from a southpaw to a right hand tosser after he arrived at Pitt. Weighing 188 pounds, Goldberg combines exceptional elusiveness with power that is expected to make the Cardinals' attack.

After signing Goldberg went to Soldiers' field to watch the Chicago Bears hold their first workout. There he met Sid Luckman, the former Columbia passer and left half back, and Billy Patterson of Baylor. Both are members of the All-Star squad and will report Saturday after several days' drill with the Bears.

Pros, Seniors Discover It Is Hutchison Day

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Young Jock came in from Rockford to collobrate with Harry W. Bishop of Glenview to win low gross with 34—38—72.

The low net prize, with 50 per cent of the senior's handicap being used, was taken by Jock Sr. and Dr. J. E. Nyman, both of Glenview. They had a 78—8—70.

Forty-two pro-senior twosomes, one of the best fields of the local season, competed. Seven pros did solos. Best of these was Herb Johnson of Butterfield, who scored 35—35—70.

Jock Hutchison Jr., Rockford, and H. W. Bishop, Glen View	72	2	70
Jock Hutchison Sr., and Dr. J. E. Nyman, Glen View	78	8	70
Matt Matteson and R. V. Henry, Ridge	78	6	72
Walter Carr, Knollwood, and Fred Glein, Shoreacres	79	7	72
Byron Harcke, Roselle, and Fred Hill, Skokie	80	8	72
Byron Chamberlain and J. R. Nicholson, Glen Oak	82	10	72
Jim Wilson, Park Ridge, and H. W. Fay, Skokie	87	15	72
Al Huske, Dekalb, and C. C. Hopkins, Lake Geneva	76	3	73
Charles Penna, Medinah, and W. C. Jackson, Indian Hill	79	6	73
Johnny Revolta, Evanston, and John H. Victor, Glen View	76	2	74
Maurie White and R. H. Kidston, La Grange	79	5	74
Ren Smith and J. V. Walker, Oak Park	80	6	74

Westmoreland's Tam O' Shanter; the first day of Edgewater's Hy-Jinx, and Medinah's White Fex day, annual invitation tournament for the west side club's women players, are on today's program.

Tomorrow will include the second and final day of the Edgewater tournament; Olympia Fields' annual Frolic, and the special day with which Southmoor is honoring Harry Hampton. Thursday will be dominated by the Ravisloe Roundup, and Friday and Saturday will see the Chicago District Golf association's annual amateur championship decided in seventy-two holes of medal play.

A Plea for Youth.

The hiccups that my father wore
Were dearly purchased in a store
Whose window this inscription bore:
GOOD BOURBON, SCOTCH, AND RYE;
And when my dad too long would sup
He used to say at each hiccup:
"I didn't mean to bring that up,"
And mother dear would sigh.

The hiccups that my father's son
Are furnishing a lot of fun
To all the boys around;
And yet I think that his technique
Has more politeness, so to speak,
Than Dad's unmanly belch and squeak—
At least it's more profound.

Halas will be interviewed by Quin Ryan at 11:30 a. m. and Patterson, who recently signed to play with the Bears, will appear on Bob Elson's sports review at 6:30 p. m.

Lou Boudreau Stars; Indians Beat Browns

Cleveland, O., Aug. 7 (AP).—Outfielder Roy Weatherly's pinch single in the eighth inning gave the Cleveland Indians a 6 to 5 victory over the St. Louis Browns tonight in a contest marked by the sterling play of Lou Boudreau of Harvey, Ill., Cleveland shortstop playing his first game in a major league uniform this season.

Boudreau and Second Baseman Ray Mack, both recalled last week from Buffalo, scampered over their infield territory like veterans. Boudreau delivered two hits in five times up, one a triple, and was credited with six assists and two putouts, but also was charged with an error.

AMERICANS WIN IN LONDON TRACK BEFORE 60,000

Watson Breaks British Shot Put Mark.

LONDON, Aug. 7 (AP).—America's hand picked athletes followed the figure of Bill Watson and the flying feet of Clyde Jeffrey today to a notable triumph over the track forces of 15 other nations in an Olympic preview in White City stadium.

About 60,000 fans defied the raw weather and rain to see the international meet but they were well rewarded. As the Americans piled up 54 points, 13 of them by Watson and ten by Jeffrey, to Great Britain's 41, three British records were shattered and two equaled.

Crowd Boos Rideout.

The only jarring note was the loud and raucous razz handed America's Blaine Rideout when he swung wide to pass two other runners at the start of the last lap of the mile. It was evident from the stand that Rideout had been forced wide but, probably because he was considered the cause of Sydney Wooderson's downfall at Princeton in June, he was booed just the same.

Whatever it was, the incident had little bearing on the result of the race. Denis Pell, who has been shadowing Wooderson all season, went out like a deer on the backstretch and won comfortably in 4:15.2. Janusz Staniszewski of Poland was second and Rideout fourth.

Britons Take Temporary Lead.

This victory for Britain plus B. F. McCabe's third and C. Cox's fifth put the Britons into the lead—temporarily. But George Varoff captured the pole vault with a disappointing leap of 13 feet 6 inches. Next Watson, who had taken third in the discus, broke the British shot put record with a toss of 52 feet 8 inches, then walked over to the broad jump pit and leaped 24 feet 6 inches for his second victory.

Jeffrey started his sprint double by winning the 100 yard dash in the creditable time of 9.8 seconds over a soggy track. He followed with the 220 that was notable only for the ease with which he won. His time of 21.8 was six-tenths of a second off the British record but he still was two yards in front of Britain's A. W. Sweeney, who also was second in the 100 yard dash.

ARON WINS IN 3D WHEN MELESKI SUFFERS CUT EYE

Mil Aron, Chicago welterweight, was awarded a three round decision over Eddie Meleski of the Catholic Youth Organization in Marigold Gardens' outdoor arena last night. The bout, scheduled for ten rounds, was stopped by Dr. Frank A. Lagorio, chief medical examiner for the Illinois athletic commission, after Meleski suffered a cut eye in the second round. Meleski finished the round, but was not allowed to come out for the third.

Jimmy Reeves, 1939 Chicago Golden Gloves champion, made a successful professional debut by whipping Johnny Trotter, south side light heavyweight, in four rounds. Nick Castiglione, Italo-American Youth organization lightweight, and Earl Gibbs, fought five rounds to a draw.

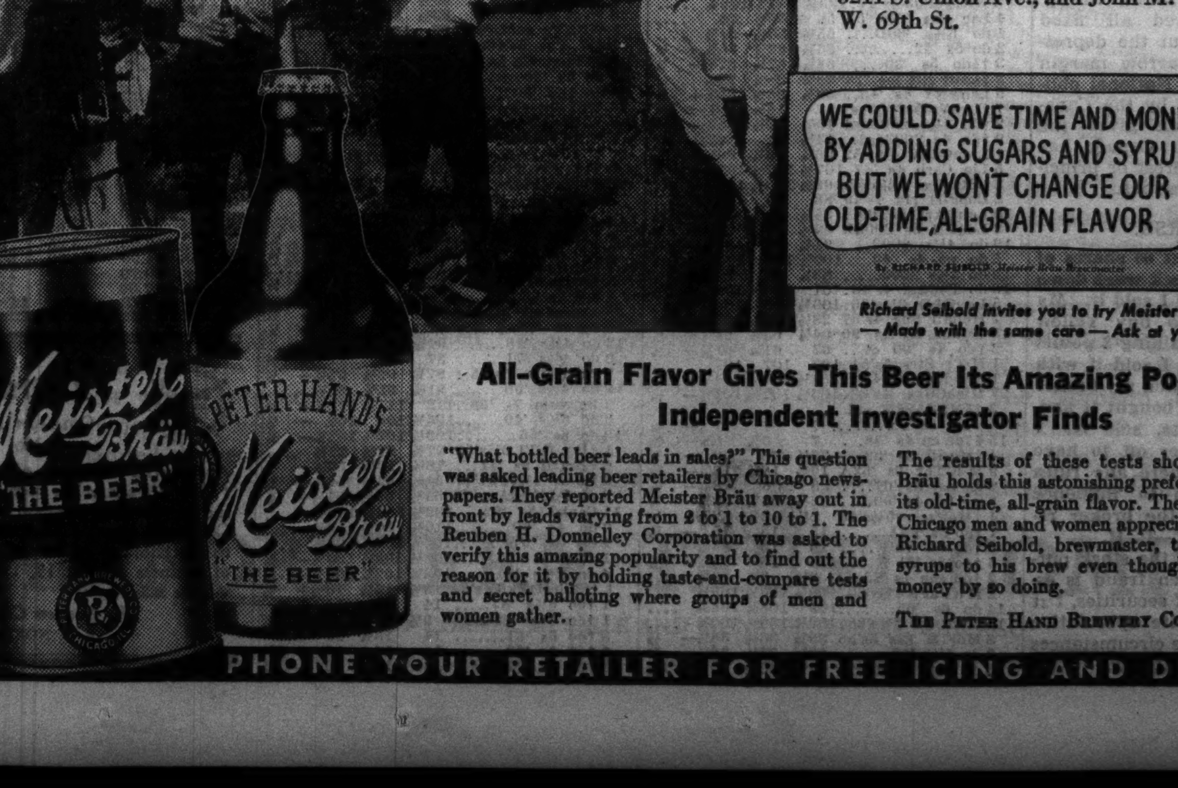
Paychek-Strickland Bout Halted by Rain; Box Tonight

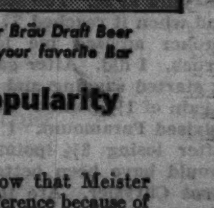
Des Moines, Ia., Aug. 7 (AP).—Rain caused postponement from tonight until tomorrow night of the ten round heavyweight bout between Johnny Paychek of Des Moines and Maurice Strickland of New Zealand.

AT GOLFMOOR COUNTRY CLUB... MEISTER BRÄU WINS LANDSLIDE VOTE—9 to 1

On a weekday afternoon recently, golfers at the picturesque Golfmoor Country Club at 5000 West 79th Street, were asked to taste Meister Bräu Beer, compare its flavor with other beers, and then vote their preference by secret ballot. These outdoor-sports lovers voted Meister Bräu their choice of bottled beers by the amazing majority of 9 to 1.

In the picture is shown W. C. Gorman, Golfmoor professional and owner of Gorman's Practice Course at 5600 W. Ogden Ave., Cicero, giving a demonstration on driving to Edward Zaukas, 3209 S. Union Ave., John J. Galman, 3229 S. Lituanica Crt., Frank Miller, 3211 S. Union Ave., and John M. Zaukas, 2511 W. 69th St.





WE COULD SAVE TIME AND MONEY BY ADDING SUGARS AND SYRUPS BUT WE WON'T CHANGE OUR OLD-TIME, ALL-GRAIN FLAVOR

All-Grain Flavor Gives This Beer Its Amazing Popularity
Independent Investigator Finds

"What bottled beer leads in sales?" This question was asked leading beer retailers by Chicago newspapers. They reported Meister Bräu away out in front by leads varying from 2 to 1 to 10 to 1. The Reuben H. Donnelley Corporation was asked to verify this amazing popularity and to find out the reason for it by holding taste-and-compare tests and secret balloting where groups of men and women gather.

The results of these tests show that Meister Bräu holds this astonishing preference because of its old-time, all-grain flavor. They show also that Chicago men and women appreciate the refusal of Richard Seibold, brewmaster, to add sugars or syrups to his brew even though he could save money by so doing.

FEDERAL GRANTS FORM FIFTH OF STATE REVENUES

Largest Portion Is Social Security Contribution.

The federal treasury last year provided one-fifth of the total revenues of the forty-eight states through grants-in-aid, the federation of tax administrators disclosed yesterday. The federation's conclusion was based on an analysis of federal grants to states prepared by Prof. V. O. Key Jr., of Johns Hopkins university.

The national government in 1938 gave $622,500,000, or 8.2 per cent of its total expenditures of $7,626,000,000, to state governments, the study disclosed. Revenues of the states last year totaled $3,165,000,000.

Social Security Aid Large.

The largest single class of federal grants-in-aid was social security funds, which totaled $266,049,000 in 1938. Highway grants were next with $218,637,000. Combined, these two types of grants represented 78 per cent of the year's total outlay by the federal treasury to the states.

The bite which each state took out of federal revenues increased first with the rapid expansion of the highway grants in the early twenties and then with social security gifts in 1935.

"Because of this [the rapid growth of federal grants]," the federation observed, "it is no longer possible to draw a sharp line between the three traditional levels of American government so far as revenue raising is concerned."

Cities Depend on State.

The three levels to which the federation referred are the federal, state, and municipal governments. The study indicated that local city and town governments depend on state aid and a share of taxes for about one-fifth of their revenues.

Federal grants-in-aid to states, the report said, climbed from $37,600,000 in 1920 to $622,500,000 in 1938. The federation predicted no decline in these expenditures, but said that it has ben estimated old age assistance grants alone will rise to $500,000,000 annually in several years.

Highway systems	218,637,000
Land grant colleges	4,530,000
Agricultural experiment stations	6,229,004
State homes for soldiers and sailors	649,884
National Guard	38,789,797
Forest funds	2,779,932
Agricultural extension work	17,251,954
Vocational education
Vocational rehabilitation	21,220,344
Public health services	8,911,624
Employment offices	37,377,830
State marine schools	75,000

COMMON ABOVE PREFERRED.

Why is it that Bethlehem Steel common is selling above 60, while the 5 per cent preferred is down around 20? Seems to me it should be the other way around.—O. N.

Answer: The dividend rate on Bethlehem Steel 5 per cent preferred, which has a par value of $20 a share, is $1 a share annually. Even in the most prosperous times, that is the total yearly dividend stockholders will receive. The common has no fixed dividend return. When earnings are substantial, the common is likely to pay much larger dividends than the preferred.

In 1937, for example, dividends on the common totaled $5 a share while 5 per cent preferred dividends remained at $1 annually. No dividend has been declared on the common this year, but the present price may be discounting future payments—either this year or in some future year.

Not all preferred stocks have a limited dividend rate. Some may participate in increased earnings, sharing in various proportions with the common stock. One company may agree to pay a fixed rate of $5 a year in dividends on its preferred stock and, in addition, disburse a sum equal to any extra dividends on the common stock over a stated amount.

Other companies have different provisions for sharing of earnings with the preferred stockholders. Preferred stocks which participate in extra dividends are known as "participating preferred."

CANADIAN RAIL BONDS.

How are Canadian Pacific 5s of 1954 rated? What is the reason for the price disparity between these bonds and those of the Canadian National?—K. C.

Answer: Canadian Pacific 5s of 1954 are accorded a sound rating. This road has covered all fixed charges fully throughout the depression, although by a narrow margin in 1932. Most Canadian National obligations are guaranteed by the Canadian government, which gives the bonds a prime rating. Canada has never defaulted on interest or principal on any of her obligations.

NO RECOURSE.

Last October I bought 60 shares of Chrysler at 86. The stock went down and when it reached 77 I sold it. My broker advised me to buy Yellow Truck. I did. After gaining 2 points it started sagging and I sold it with a gain of 1½ points. Then my broker advised Paramount. I bought it and, after losing 3½ points, sold it. I would have been better off to have kept Chrysler. Are there any rules that prohibit brokers to influence clients? Can I hold the broker responsible for my loss?—C. H.

Answer: Laws give the stock purchaser a recourse when fraud is established in the sale of securities, but they do not underwrite speculative adventures. Under the circumstances you have no recourse at law.

COTTON

Cotton prices in American markets held within narrow limits yesterday. A holiday in Liverpool and the fact that a department of agriculture report will be issued today giving an estimate on the prospective crop tended to restrict operations. Buying attributed to mills and foreign interests absorbed hedging sales, and closing trades were at net gains of .03 to .08 cent a pound.

The average guess of seventy-five members of the New York Cotton exchange is for the government report to show a yield of 11,917,000 bales. Seven private estimates made recently showed an average of 11,458,000 bales. Last year's crop aggregated 11,943,000 bales.

A report was current that Germany had signed an agreement with Brazil, whereby the former would purchase 400,000 bales of Brazilian cotton this season.

Spot cotton closed .05 cent higher with New York 9.60 cents; New Orleans, 9.26 cents; Houston, 9.10 cents, and Galveston at 9.07 cents a pound. Prices follow:

STANDARD GAS RETURN TO CITY HINGES ON TAXES

Utility Asks Injunction to Stop Collection.

The outcome of litigation pending in the Superior court will be an important point in plans of the Standard Gas and Electric company to return company headquarters to Chicago, officials indicated yesterday. The way was paved for the return of this company and the Middle West corporation by recent amendments to Illinois personal property tax laws.

Standard Gas, a large holding company, is suing for an injunction to restrain County Treasurer John Toman from collecting $875,000 in taxes for 1937 and $618,000 for 1938.

Charge Taxes Inequitable.

Assessment of these taxes was termed an inequitable burden which forced the company to move its headquarters to New York last April.

Middle West, another big utility holding company, is not involved in personal property tax litigation at present, but the heavy burden of such taxation also was given as the reason for its removal to Wilmington, Del., in April, 1938. Both companies are incorporated in Delaware.

Stocks in the portfolios of such holding companies formerly were subject to assessment under Illinois personal property tax laws. Stocks of companies incorporated in Illinois were exempt.

New Law Modifies Taxes.

Under the amendment which became effective at midnight last Thursday, the assessments against stocks of out-of-state companies held in Illinois were modified. Since the amendments went into effect, both Bernard W. Lynch, president of Standard Gas, and Purcell L. Smith, president of Middle West, have expressed a desire to return their companies' headquarters to Chicago, closer to the center of operations.

Subsidiary companies in the groups furnish electric, gas, water, and other services in many states between the Allegheny and Rocky mountains.

WOOLWORTH HAS ITS SECOND BEST JULY ON RECORD

F. W. Woolworth company yesterday reported that its July sales were $24,340,307, the second largest volume for any July in the company's history. The figure was exceeded only by that of July, 1937, when sales were $24,727,000.

Woolworth sales for the first seven months of this year amounted to $163,089,650, an increase of 4.7 per cent compared with the $155,789,063 reported a year earlier.

BUSINESS DONE BY CHECK GAINS IN MIDDLE WEST

Indicating business was carried on at an accelerated rate, check transactions in the seventh federal reserve district during the week ended Aug. 2 increased sharply, the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago reported yesterday.

Debits to individual deposit accounts of 159 banks in forty-one leading clearing house cities in the district aggregated $1,268,106,000, an increase of 18.6 per cent over the preceding week's total of $1,069,152,000, and a gain of 19.9 per cent over the total of $1,057,725,000 in the corresponding week of 1938.

For Chicago banks alone, the total was $740,851,000, against $632,627,000 a year ago.

URGES FEDERAL BUTTER BUYING ON VAST SCALE

DPMA Recommends 40 Million Pounds.

Directors of the Dairy Products Marketing association, government financed coöperative, yesterday recommended to Secretary of Agriculture Wallace the immediate purchase of 40,000,000 pounds of butter, A. L. Ronneberg, general manager of the DPMA, announced the directors' action. He said they suggested that the purchases be made at present market prices or at somewhat higher levels, if necessary. The DPMA is attempting to bolster butter prices.

The announcement, coming after the close of yesterday's market session, disturbed traders in butter. Some believed the announcement meant that the DPMA desired to buy up the entire butter surplus at once rather than purchase smaller amounts daily to support prices throughout the season.

Cost Above Nine Millions.

Butter men estimated the purchase of 40 million pounds of butter would cost about $9,400,000 at present market prices. They said, however, that such a large purchase, if made in a short time as the announcement seemed to indicate was requested, would undoubtedly disrupt the market and would probably send prices skyrocketing.

Last year and early this year the DPMA bought about 114,000,000 pounds of butter in an attempt to peg the market. A loan of about $33,000,000 from the Commodity Credit corporation made the program possible. It was abandoned in March.

At the end of April the government, through its agencies, held 91.8 per cent of the national supply of butter. By July 1 the holdings had declined to 29 per cent of the supply, and amounted to 38,501,000 pounds.

Supplies Below Year Ago.

Storage figures for Aug. 1 have not been released, but a private estimate placed total supplies at 160,807,000 pounds, compared with 173,257,000 pounds Aug. 1, 1938. The estimate said private interests probably held 128,700,000 pounds. Supplies in Chicago last Saturday totaled 51,502,074 pounds, or 7,000,000 pounds less than a year ago.

An objection to the 40,000,000 pound purchase was raised by butter traders on the grounds that the peak of production was passed in June. The proposed buying, they asserted, would boost prices to the consumer, but would do nothing to aid the farmer in respect to butter he already has sold. Last year the DPMA program was begun earlier, during the season of heavy production.

Ask Dismissal of Suit.

Meanwhile attorneys for the DPMA and creamery coöperatives which are defendants with it in the suit of Frank Girard, 1033 Loyola avenue, filed notice of a motion to dismiss the suit on the grounds that Secretary Wallace and the Commodity Credit corporation have not been named defendants. Federal Judge Michael L. Igoe, acting as an emergency judge, put the motion over until Sept. 25. The suit seeks to halt federal butter buying in Illinois.

In yesterday's butter trading on the Chicago Mercantile exchange, November futures sank 0.05 cent a pound to 23.65 cents. The DPMA bought a total of 418,000 pounds of fresh butter in Chicago and New York, but failed to absorb all the offerings.

October eggs slumped 0.45 cent a dozen at one time to 17.80 cents, the lowest for this time of year since 1933. The price later rallied to close at 17.95 cents a dozen, down 0.30 cent from Friday. The Federal Surplus Commodities corporation bought 132,000 dozens of fresh eggs.

Western Coal Prices Draw 150 Protests

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 7. — One hundred and fifty petitions for relief complaining against the western coal price schedule fixed by the bituminous coal division of the department of interior as discriminatory and unreasonable were filed here today.

The petitions were filed with the department by soft coal producers, coal consumers, cities, and civic associations. Hearing on the petitions will begin on Aug. 15 before a three man board appointed by Secretary of the Interior Ickes.

The principal complaint was that the schedule fixes the price of coal too high and that there is great inequality in the schedules. The amounts the petition would seek to cut from scheduled prices range from 85 cents to $1.50 per ton in various affected areas.

Iowa City Protests Price.

One petition protested against inequality to Davenport, Ia. According to the petition coal under the schedule will cost 85 cents a ton more in Davenport than in Moline, Ill., although the cities are only two miles apart.

Among the producers filing complaints are the Northern Illinois Coal corporation, United Electric Coal company, Truax Traer Coal company, Midland Electric Coal company, Little John Coal company, Pyramid Coal company, Sahara Coal company, Delta Coal company, Central States Carriers, and Binkley Coal Mining company.

Most of the producers' petitions were filed by Attorney Howard Vesey, Washington representative of the Chicago law firm of Kirkland, Fleming, Green, Martin & Ellis, who was instrumental in the upset of the prices fixed by the defunct national bituminous coal commission.

Other Cities File Complaints.

Petitions were filed by the cities of Rock Island, Cedar Rapids, St. Louis, and Davenport. The chambers of commerce of various cities were represented along with numerous consumers.

Thurlow G. Lewis, former attorney for John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers of America in southern Illinois, will preside at the hearing. The other examiners are Herbert Jaffe, formerly with the National Labor Relations board, and Ralph Fowler, former attorney for the Chicago and Eastern Illinois railroad.

NEW ORGANIZATION OF SECURITY DEALERS RECOGNIZED BY SEC

Washington, D. C., Aug. 7 (AP).—The Securities and Exchange commission today granted recognition to the National Association of Securities Dealers, Inc., as a national association of over the counter security brokers and dealers. The association has about 1,500 members.

Jerome Frank lauds organization.

Chairman Jerome N. Frank of the SEC said in a letter to Wallace H. Fulton, director of the association, that the recognition "marks the beginning of a significant attempt by an important segment of a business affected with a marked public interest in regulating its own affairs in coöperation with the government."

The association will be managed by a national board of governors, fourteen district committees, and a number of business conduct committees.

With the granting of the application, Henry H. Egly resigned as chief of the SEC's securities association unit to return to private business. In a letter to Frank he explained that he considered his work completed.

NORTH SHORE RY. PLANS TO APPEAL FEDERAL TAXING

Bernard J. Fallon, executive officer for the receiver of the Chicago, North Shore, and Milwaukee railroad, issued a statement yesterday indicating he would appeal to the federal courts for a final determination of the line's status under federal taxing acts.

The interstate commerce commission last week ruled the electric line was subject to provisions of the railway labor act and the railroad retirement act, which apply to steam railroads operating in interstate commerce. The commission previously had ruled that the North Shore was an interurban line, and it was thus designated in other litigation carried to the United States Supreme court.

Fallon said that while the road "would like to have the employés enjoy the benefits of the retirement act," it cannot concede jurisdiction in this respect without conceding jurisdiction in many other acts affecting steam carriers.

Grant Credit to Spanish in Cotton Deal

Washington, D. C., Aug. 7 (AP).—The Export-Import bank arranged today to finance the sale of 250,000 bales of cotton to Spanish mills at the rate of 25,000 bales a month. The bank will provide 80 per cent of the credit, which probably will total around $10,000,000, and individual shippers will finance the rest, officials said.

The deal with Spain had been pending for some time, but Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau opposed it pending settlement of title to $15,000,000 worth of silver from Spain.

The United States government purchased 35,000,000 ounces of silver from the loyalist Spanish government in 1938, and the Bank of Spain filed suits to recover it on the ground that it belonged to the bank and that the loyalists had no right to sell it.

Bank's Action Dismissed.

On July 14 Federal Judge Vincent L. Leibell in New York dismissed the bank's action. Before this decision, Morgenthau feared that if the cotton were shipped, the present Franco government in Spain might seek to compel the United States to accept the silver as payment.

The Export-Import bank announced today it had assurances from Spain that dollar exchange would be made available to meet all maturities in connection with the cotton deal.

Obligations incurred in the transaction will be repayable in eight quarterly instalments beginning six months after delivery of the cotton. Commercial banks in this country will be authorized as agents.

CCC Holds 11 Million Bales.

The Commodity Credit corporation, a federal agency, holds some 11,000,000 bales of cotton as collateral for $500,000,000 worth of crop loans. The loan is the fourth step taken recently to dispose of surplus cotton. The others were:

A cash sale of 135,000 bales to France and Switzerland was arranged at a discount of $6 a bale.

GOODYEAR TIRE 6 MONTH PROFIT IS 3.6 MILLIONS

Consolidated Cigar Earnings Rise.

Goodyear Tire and Rubber company and subsidiaries yesterday reported much larger earnings for the first six months of this year than in the first half of 1938. Net income totaled $3,610,595, equal after preferred dividend requirements to 96 cents a share on the common stock, compared with $1,669,828, or 2 cents a share, in the corresponding period last year.

In a statement mailed to stockholders along with the earnings report the company, one of the leading tire and rubber products manufacturers, said net sales were $95,756,419, an increase of $17,604,000 over sales for the first six months of 1938.

Cigarmaker Earns More.

Consolidated Cigar corporation and subsidiaries, with headquarters in New York, announced net profit for the quarter ended June 30 totaled $218,895, equal to 27 cents a share. This compared with $197,951, or 16 cents a share, in the June quarter last year.

For the six months ended June 30 Consolidated Cigar's profit rose to $343,360, or 15 cents a share, from $334,684, or 7 cents a share a year earlier.

Illinois Bell Telephone company had net income in June of $1,128,181, against $,62,731 in the 1138 month. Profit in the first half of 1939 increased to $6,596,054 from $4,968,914 in the first half of 1938.

W. B. Jarvis company, ornamental hardware and accessories manufacturer, reported profit of $353,374 in the six months ended June 30, against $95,443 in the 1938 period.

Oil Firm Reports Results.

Mid-Continent Petroleum corporation, Tulsa, Okla., announced decreased earnings for the six months ended June 30, but its earnings in the second quarter of this year were higher than a year ago. In the first half of 1939 profit was $640,836, or 34 cents a share, against $1,042,574, or 56 cents a share, a year earlier. In the June quarter profit climbed to $678,793, or 36 cents a share, from $574,264, or 31 cents a share, in the June quarter of 1938.

Reliance Manufacturing company, Chicago manufacturer of work shirts and overalls, reported June quarter profit of $135,461, equal to 51 cents a

TWA Trims Loss This Year; Chief Air Lines Gain Trafic

Transcontinental & Western Air, Inc., finished the first half of 1939 with a net loss of $355,867, compared with a net loss of $671,051 for the same period in 1938, according to a statement issued yesterday by the air line. Its operations in the second quarter resulted in net profit of $8,974, against net loss of $192,928 during the second quarter of 1938.

The comparisons with last year's figures, the statement said, include an adjustment of air mail compensation granted the line last December.

TWA Passenger Trafic Expands.

Rapid expansion of passenger trafic was the principal factor in the improved results of Transcontinental & Western Air's business so far in 1939, Jack Frye, president of the air line, said. In the second quarter a total of 25,766,813 revenue passenger miles were operated. This was an increase of 37 per cent over the similar period last year.

"We are confident that the steady upward trend in our passenger and express trafic, together with the improved service we are offering the traveling public, will make this the best year for TWA in the history of air transportation," Frye said.

American Airlines, Inc., reported an all-time record in the number of revenue passengers carried in July. Its revenue passengers totaled 51,546, an increase of 72.5 per cent over the corresponding month last year.

Every Route Shows Gain.

Charles A. Rheinstrom, vice president in charge of sales, said the line's revenue passenger miles during the month totaled 19,301,587, an increase of 66.7 per cent over July, 1938. Every route on American's coast to coast system recorded an increase in both revenue passenger miles and revenue passengers carried.

Passengers carried on the Chicago-New York route of American Airlines increased 71.2 per cent and revenue passenger miles climbed 62.8 per cent, according to Rheinstrom. On the transcontinental route between New York and Los Angeles revenue passengers gained 48.8 per cent over July, 1938, and revenue passenger miles jumped 57.9 per cent.

Passengers carried on the Chicago-Fort Worth run increased 77.1 per cent and revenue passenger miles rose 83.8 per cent. On the Chicago-Washington route 71.5 per cent more passengers were carried and revenue passenger miles were up 72.3 per cent.

Braniff Trafic Increases.

July trafic on Braniff Airways was the largest for any month in the line's history, Charles E. Beard, vice president, announced. A total of 1,771,158 passenger miles was flown last month. This was 47 per cent more than in July, 1938.

Northwest Airlines, Inc., had an increase of 58 per cent in the number of passengers carried during July, compared with the similar period last year, according to L. S. Reid, Chicago district trafic manager.

GENERAL MOTORS TO PAY 75 CENTS ON COMMON STOCK

STEEL OUTPUT MAKES SMALL GAIN THIS WEEK

Steel operations this week are scheduled at 60.1 per cent of capacity, the American Iron and Steel Institute reported yesterday. This is a gain of 0.8 point, or 1.3 per cent from last week's rate of 59.3 per cent.

A month ago the rate was 49.7 per cent, showing a rise of 11.2 points from the preceding week, when operations were reduced by the Independence Day holiday. A year ago the rate stood at 39.4 per cent of capacity.

July production of steel ingots totaled 3,288,949 gross tons of open hearth and Bessemer steel, second highest output for the year. The revised June figure was 3,125,288 tons. In March production was 3,405.370 tons.

NEW FINANCING WILL SET 1939 HIGH THIS WEEK

150 Millions Slated; Utility in Market.

With 150 million dollars of new security issues scheduled to reach the investment market this week, representing a new peak for the year, several corporations yesterday made public additional details in connection with their financing plans. The highest total for any previous week of 1939 was that of $114,150,000 in the week ending July 24, which was the largest amount in more than a year.

Offerings scheduled for today include $14,250,000 of Iowa Public Service company first mortgage 3¾ per cent bonds and $2,100,000 of Pacific Western Oil corporation 3½ per cent sinking fund debentures. The Iowa company's issue will be marketed at 101 by a syndicate headed by A. C. Allyn & Co. of Chicago and the proceeds used for refunding purposes. The oil company's issue, to be sold at 100 by an underwriting group headed by Eastman, Dillon & Co. will be used to retire bank loans.

Prices Given on Big Offering.

In an amendment to its registration statement filed with the Securities and Exchange commission, the Pennsylvania Power and Light company made public the prices at which it will offer its new securities. This offering constitutes the largest public utility financing undertaken since establishment of the SEC.

The $95,000,000 of the company's first mortgage 3½ per cent bonds of 1969, which will reach the market tomorrow, will be priced at 105½ by

THE FIRST ADVERTISEMENT of The Northern Trust Company, reproduced above, appeared in Chicago newspapers the day the bank opened for business, on August 12, 1889. It was an unpretentious announcement, but a significant one, since it bespoke a new financial institution organized to transact a general banking business and to act as executor and trustee and in other trust capacities. Its directors were men of substance in the community . . . men whose integrity and business acumen were well known and commanded the respect of all.

In the fifty years since that first advertisement appeared, steady progress has changed The Northern Trust Company in outward form; its facilities have been increased; its methods improved. But close personal relationships with customers still prevail, while a continuing management and an unbroken identity have assisted The Northern Trust Company to perpetuate the sound banking and trust principles upon which the institution was founded.

New York Stocks.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 7.—Renewed selling pushed the stock market to lower ground today to the accompaniment of a reduced volume of trading. Losses ranged from fractions to more than a point. All sections of the market participated in the decline.

Analysts attributed the lower trend as much to lowering or withdrawing of bids as to selling. In the absence of any other reasonable explanation, disquieting reports from abroad over the week-end were blamed for the downturn.

Steel stocks were not helped by the rise of the operating rate of the industry. Some demand for these shares cropped up at the start but dwindled later. United States and Bethlehem lost fractions. National fell a point.

Du Pont led the decline, incurring a loss of 2 points. Rails and utilities followed the example of the industrials. American Telephone took a loss of 1¼ points in the communications group.

Rubbers were soft. United States Rubber gave up 1½ points. Montgomery Ward performed weakly in the mail order group, losing 1½ points. International Harvester improved in the farm implements, but other members of the section eased.

New York Bonds.

New York, Aug 7 (AP).—Scattered industrial, rail, and utility issues bucked a declining trend in the bond market today and closed with small gains, but a majority of active issues finished lower. Dealings at $3,877,800 face value were the smallest for a full session since July 3.

United States government issues showed losses ranging up to 14-32ds of a point.

The New York Stock exchange reported that 1,384 bond issues listed on July 31 had a market value of $49,007,131,070, par value of $52,610,197,427, and average price per $1,000 bonds of $931.50. A month earlier 1,389 issues had a market value of $48,570,781,615, par value of $52,751,311,452, and average price of $920.80.

Chicago Stocks.

The majority of the more active issues on the Chicago Stock exchange closed fractionally lower yesterday. Commonwealth Edison, the volume leader, finished ¼ point below Saturday's final price on a turnover of 1,800 shares.

Chicago corporation advanced a minor fraction, Marshall Field and Jarvis closed unchanged, and Swift, Middle West, Bendix Aviation, and Berghoff Brewing were moderately lower.

Bank Stocks.

The bid price of City National bank shares was 1 point higher at 105 in yesterday's trading in Chicago bank stocks. Other issues were unchanged. Prices follow:

DRY GOODS.

NEW YORK, Aug. 7 (AP).—The ⅛ cent a yard price advances asked for forward delivery last week were not firmly observed by all mills in textile markets today as numerous sales were reported at the old basis. Business on the whole was light while traders awaited the government cotton crop report tomorrow. Rayon turnover continued at a good clip. Woolen goods activity broadened following a lull which reflected between-season hesitancy. Silk fabric markets remained quiet. Burlap markets reported routine trade at unchanged prices despite higher Calcutta prices.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK

A sharp price decline swept through the market for most classes of steers yesterday, bringing many kinds to new 1939 lows. Losses of 25 cents per hundred were general in medium and weighty cattle, and light steers and yearlings were stead to 25 cents lower. Some final sales of long-fed cattle showed 30 to 40 cents loss.

Lamb prices also were under pressure and fell to the lowest levels since October last year. Declines amounted to 10 to 15 cents.

The decline in the market for hogs was halted in face of the losses in other meat animals. Prices were mostly steady to strong compared with the close of last week, with some spots 5 to 10 cents higher.

Commodities

No definite trend was discernible in yesterday's quiet dealings in New York commodity futures. Metals were generally higher and rubber scored small gains. Coffee, domestic sugar, cottonseed oil, and cocoa were lower.

A slump in hides was a feature of the trade, contracts losing as much as 0.27 cent a pound in the wake of Friday's decline of 0.25 to 0.27 cent. Silk and wool tops were irregular.

Spot zinc quotations were advanced 0.15 cent a pound to 4.75 cents at East St. Louis, bringing the price to eastern buyers to ¼ cent a pound over the quotation on foreign zinc imports.

Domestic copper sales over the week-end totaled 1,870 tons, compared with 14,750 tons Thursday when prices were marked up to 10½ cents a pound. August tonnage to date aggregates 22,008 tons, against 26,358 tons in the like period of July.

New York advices said reports to the New York agency of the Bank of London and South America, Ltd., disclosed that coffee brokers in Brazil will ask the government there to reopen the coffee exchange at Santos, which was closed by decree in November, 1937. At that time it was alleged that speculation in futures was detrimental to the trade. The present request, it was said, is based on the trade opinion that reopening of the exchange would make the market there less dependent on New York prices.

OCEAN STEAMER BRINGS CARGO TO CHICAGO FIRMS

Vichy Water and Liquors Among Shipments.

An oceangoing boat, carrying 800 tons of merchandise for several Chicago companies, arrived at 9 o'clock last night from Rotterdam, Holland. The cargo of the ship, the Prins Frederik Hendrik, includes what is believed to be the first shipment of Vichy water ever to arrive here directly by boat.

The Prins Frederik Hendrik docked at the North Pier terminal and will begin to unload at 8 o'clock this morning. The ship, which is 258 feet long, with a crew of twenty-eight commanded by Capt. Andries Johannes Duykers, left Rotterdam on July 11. The distance from Rotterdam to Chicago by water is about 4,200 miles.

Water from French Spa.

The Vichy water consists of 400 cases of fifty quarts each. It comes from the Vichy spa in France and is a naturally alkaline water. The springs from which this water is taken are controled by the French government.

Besides the Vichy water, which totals forty tons, the remainder of the Prins Frederik Hendriks' cargo consists of whisky, champagne, and general merchandise.

The Vichy water, packaged in straw jackets similar to those used for individual bottles of cordials or rums, is consigned to Hinckley & Schmitt, Inc., 420 West Ontario street. The reason the company is shipping the water by boat is that this method will save an estimated 10 per cent over the combined water-rail method formerly employed, according to Fred Norman, vice president.

Reports Growing Demand.

Norman said the company sold about 800 cases of Vichy water last year and, based on present indications, will sell about 1,200 cases this year. He explained that newspaper advertising had built up a substantial interest in Vichy water on the part of the public.

The Prins Frederik Hendrik is operated by the Oranje Line, with headquarters in Rotterdam. According to the Lake Overseas Shipping company of Chicago, United States and Canadian agent for the line, the ship will return to European ports with a cargo made up here.

STANDARD (CAL.) WINS OIL RIGHTS IN SAUDI-ARABIA

[Copyright: 1939: By the New York Times.]

BEIRUT, Syria, Aug. 7 [Special].—A concession for oil covering the whole kingdom of Saudi-Arabia has been granted to the Standard Oil Company of California by King Ibn Saud, it was learned today.

For the concession the king received $1,500,000 in gold. The king is to receive payments annually while the prospecting is going on and as soon as oil production begins in any part of the kingdom he is to receive royalties which will increase with production.

This vast concession granted to an American company is considered of utmost political significance. For years Italy has been trying to get an oil concession in Arabia. Within the last year Germany and Italy also have made attempts. King Saud, however, was said to have expressed distrust of the political aims of all European and far eastern powers.

ROOSEVELT SIGNS 3 BILLS REVISING LAW ON PATENTS

Washington, D. C., Aug. 7 (AP).—Three bills designed to simplify patent procedure were signed today by President Roosevelt.

One shortens and simplifies the contests in the patent office by eliminating one of the two or more appeals previously permitted.

Inventors are required by the second to file their application for patent within one year, instead of two as previously, after they make their invention known to the public.

The third requires that any person who believes himself a prior inventor must file an application within one year and start a contest within one year after a patent is granted. Previously two years were allowed.

New Auto Window Glass Made to Relieve Eyes

Toledo, O., Aug. 7 (AP).—The General Motors corporation and the Libbey-Owens-Ford Glass company announced jointly today development of new "eye glass" windows, for automobiles, designed to combat driving fatigue and visual inefficiency. Dr. Andrew H. Ryan of Chicago, former physiology professor, explaining the development, said an intensive study of the optical properties of glass was vital in the interest of highway safety.

Banks Have Until Feb. 1 to Revamp Directorates

New York, Aug. 7 [Special].—Despite the presidential veto of a bill to extend to 1943 the period in which directors or officers of one bank may hold similar posts in another bank, no changes in interlocking relationships will be forced until Feb. 1, 1940. The federal reserve board, which on Aug. 1 extended the deadline to next Feb. 1, intends to let its order stand, it was learned today.

Morgenthau Visits London; Denies Official Business

LONDON, Aug. 7 (AP).—Henry Morgenthau Jr., United States secretary of the treasury, stopped in London a few hours today en route to Denmark. He said his visit definitly had no connection with official business. Morgenthau said he planned to return to the United States on Sept. 6.

WORLD LISTS NEARLY 44 MILLION MOTOR VEHICLES THIS YEAR

Washington, D. C., Aug. 7 [Special].—The department of commerce today reported that world registrations of passenger cars, trucks, and buses last year increased the total to the record of 43,819,929 vehicles in operation as of Jan. 1, 1939. This was an increase of 741,299 vehicles, over 1.7 per cent, compared with the previous year.

Achievement of this record was attributed by the department to a rise of 7.1 per cent in the motorization of countries outside the United States, since registrations here at the end of last year declined slightly from the Jan. 1, 1938, figure.

Registrations in the United States included 25,264,260 passenger cars, 4,427,413 trucks, 156,237 buses and an estimated 5,000 diesel units.

NEW FINANCING WILL SET 1939 HIGH THIS WEEK

150 Millions Slated; Utility in Market.

the underwriting syndicate, headed by Smith, Barney & Co., the First Boston corporation, Bonbright & Co., and Dillon, Read & Co. In addition, $28,500,000 of 4½ per cent debentures of 1974 will be offered at 104. The rest of the $132,000,000 in new financing by this company will consist of notes to be placed privately.

Power Firm Issue Slated.

Also scheduled for offering tomorrow are securities of the Central Ohio Light and Power company to be sold by a group headed by E. H. Rollins & Sons. The offering includes $4,100,000 of first mortgage, twenty-five year 4 per cent bonds, priced at 103¼; $500,000 of 3½ per cent serial notes, due Aug. 1, 1940, to Aug. 1, 1944, and priced at 101.73 to 99.55, according to maturity, and 2,500 shares of 6 per cent preferred stock, priced at $90 a share. Proceeds will be used for refunding and other corporate purposes.

The city of Cleveland, O., yesterday awarded $5,075,000 of refunding and improvement bonds to an underwriting syndicate headed by A. C. Allyn & Co. The bonds are due variously from 1940 to 1942 and bear 2½ and 2¾ per cent interest. The bankers named a price of 100.31, which is equivalent to an interest cost to the city of 2.542374 per cent.

Minneapolis Asks Bids.

The city of Minneapolis, Minn., is asking for bids to be opened Aug. 24 on $2,139,500 of serial bonds.

The interstate commerce commission authorized the issuance of $768,000 in mortgage notes by seven subsidiaries of the Greyhound lines for purchase of fifty-seven new coaches.

The Southern Railway company asked the I. C. C. to approve the sale of $400,000 of 2 per cent equipment trust notes to Blyth & Co. The road would use the proceeds and other cash to finance the purchase of new passenger train equipment costing $563,000, on which deliveries would begin next month.

To finance an improvement program, the Southern a year ago sold $13,500,000 of certificates to the Reconstruction Finance corporation. The road announced yesterday that the RFC had agreed to cancel its commitment to acquire an additional $500,000 of the certificates because of the offer from Blyth & Co.

EXPECT PANAMA TO ORDER BRANCH BANK'S REMOVAL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PANAMA CITY, Aug. 7.—A week after ratification by the United States senate of the new treaty with Panama, the Panama government was reported today to be preparing to close the branches of two American banks.

As a rule no private enterprise is permitted in the Canal Zone, but exceptions have been made in the case of oil, cable, radio, and shipping companies whose business is considered an adjunct to canal operation. On this basis the Chase National bank and the National City bank in 1938 obtained permission to open branch offices in Ancon, Balboa, and Cristobal, Canal Zone.

Panama now declares that under the treaty the only private companies permitted in the American territory are those which existed at the time the treaty was signed in 1936.

Bolivia Reaches Trade Agreement with Germany

LA PAZ, Bolivia, Aug. 7.—The Bolivian government announced recently it had reached a trade agreement with Germany. The newly nationalized Central Bank of Bolivia will be sole export agent for Bolivian products to Germany. The bank will receive askimarks [special trade currency] in exchange and will allot them to importers of German goods. German representatives left for Lima today to discuss a possible trade pact with Peru.

Signs Bill Giving Duty Free Quotas on Philippine Goods

Washington, D. C., Aug. 7.—(AP)—President Roosevelt today signed a bill establishing dutyfree trade quotas for certain Philippine products up to the date of projected independence in 1946. The new act provides duty free quotas for Philippine coconut oil, tobacco, embroidery, and pearl buttons. The quotas will decline gradually between 1940 and 1946.

Buyers from 32 States at Auto Accessory Show

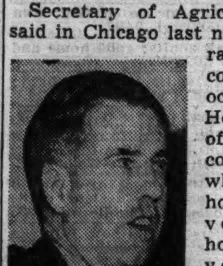
More than 3,000 buyers from thirty-two states registered yesterday at the opening of the sixth annual exposition of the Automobile Accessories association at the Navy pier, R. Garland Ames, association secretary, said. He predicted the exposition will result in the placing of more than $5,000,000 in orders for various types of equipment shown. The exhibit is not open to the public.

MILK PRICE RULE UP TO FARMERS, SAYS WALLACE

Interests of All at Stake, Institute Told.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Secretary of Agriculture Wallace said in Chicago last night that corporations may become more democratic in form. He spoke casually of the setup of coöperatives in which each shareholder has one vote no matter how large his investment in stock.



Secretary Wallace.

He also discussed briefly the proposed milk marketing, price fixing program for the Chicago area. Without commitment to an agreement, he said all groups would be benefited "if the Chicago milk market can be stabilized."

Wallace spoke before the American Institute of Coöperation, which yesterday opened its 15th annual convention at the University of Chicago with a five day program on which are approximately 100 speakers.

Plan Would Fix Prices.

Under the milk marketing plan prices paid to producers by dealers would be fixed and Wallace would appoint a supervising administrator. A hearing was held in June on the request of the Chicago Milk Producers council and the Pure Milk association, which assert they represent 90 per cent of the dairy farmers in the Chicago area. The project was opposed by distributors, who said price fixing would result in higher retail prices to consumers.

The opponents cited the experience of Boston, Mass., where investigations of Lieut. Gov. John Stelle last spring found that milk price fixing under the agricultural marketing act had inflated prices, reduced consumption, and brought about overproduction. The Chicago proposal is now under consideration.

Wallace said time was lacking to go into an extended discussion of the program.

"If a federal milk marketing agreement is placed in effect in Chicago," he said, "it will be only after the producers [farmers] have made it unmistakably plain through a referendum vote that they want to avail themselves of this machinery."

View on Corporations.

In his remarks on corporations, Secretary Wallace said inspiration could be drawn from Finland and Sweden.

"As they have done in Sweden and Finland," he said, "what we need to do is somehow to build a stronger bridge between democracy and capitalism. One way to accomplish that, perhaps, would be to make our corporations more democratic in form. Our social minded corporation officers and directors could study with profit the setups of the stronger coöperatives, with their interplay of control and function."

Farm coöperatives run the danger of absentee landlordism if loans from the government are greater than the farmers' own investment, L. R. Marchant, manager of the Illinois Farm Supply company, told the institute yesterday afternoon.

Marchant addressed a conference on coöperative purchasing. He said he was not opposed in any way to government aid.

WHEAT AND CORN RECEDE DESPITE BELATED RALLY

Wheat and corn futures declined about 1 cent a bushel in the early trading on the Chicago Board of Trade yesterday. Speculative operations were restricted as the result of holidays in Liverpool and Winnipeg.

Short covering, buying attributed to cash interests, and a forecast for light frost in the northern sections of Alberta and Saskatchewan, Canada, caused a rally from the low point. Wheat futures closed ¼ to ½ cent lower, while corn lost ¼ to ⅜ cent, the market being influenced by soaking rains in parts of Iowa and Illinois, and a forecast for showers and cooler weather over the larger part of the main producing area.

Numerous points in Illinois and Iowa received more than 1 inch of rain over the week-end, materially improving the outlook for the new corn crop. However, precipitation in other sections was light and the crop was said to be badly in need of rain.

Edwards County Oil Well Yields 30 Barrels an Hour

Effingham, Ill., Aug. 7 (AP).—Ben Taylor of the Kingwood Oil company announced today that Edwards county's first successful oil well, the No. 1 Johnson, two miles west of Grayville, produced thirty barrels of oil an hour in an initial production test. Taylor announced that the Kingwood company would start a second test, the No. 1 Helm, three-fourths mile northeast of the new Johnson producer.

Rails Order 39 Coaches, 4 Locomotives in Month

British Markets Closed for August Bank Holiday

LONDON, Aug. 7 (AP).—All security and commodity exchanges in Britain remained closed today in observance of the August bank holiday. Canadian markets, with the exception of Montreal, suspended operations today for a civic holiday. No business was transacted on the Amsterdam bourse because of a national holiday.

RULING RESERVED IN LABOR CASE OF REPUBLIC STEEL

Philadelphia, Pa., Aug. 7 (AP).—The Third Circuit Court of Appeals reserved decision today on Republic Steel corporation's petition for dismissal of a national labor relations board order. The board's order would require the company to rehire 5,000 Ohio workers involved in the 1937 "little stteel" strike.

The board issued its order Oct. 18, 1938. It directed Republic to take back all strikers at five Ohio plants and ordered an independent employés group to disband. Two days later, Republic petitioned the Federal court.

Clashes of opinion between opposition attorneys over what caused the costly and bloody strike marked today's prolonged argument on the company's petition.

Corporation counsel contended "the record discloses the sole cause" was Republic's refusal to sign a written agreement presented by the steel workers organizing committee [C. I. O.].

The labor board, however, attributed the walkout to "numerous unfair labor practices."

Belden Company Workers Insured Under Group Plan

Adoption of a group insurance plan for employés was announced yesterday by the Belden Manufacturing company, 4647 West Van Buren street, manufacturer of electrical wire. The plan includes life insurance, accident and health insurance, and hospitalization through the Connecticut General Life Insurance company, Hartford, Conn. The arrangement goes into effect Aug. 13 and the company's 1,000 employés in its Chicago and Richmond, Ind., plants are eligible.

Dutch Currency Advances; Others Remain Unchanged

Dutch currency rose in terms of the dollar yesterday despite quiet trading influenced by the shutdown of the London and Amsterdam foreign exchange markets for the August bank holiday. At New York the guilder advanced 0.03 cent, closing at 53.34 cents. Other principal European currencies were unchanged. The Federal Reserve Bank of New York reported the engagement of $5,720,000 of gold in England, $350,000 in Holland and $5,600,000 in Japan for shipment to America.

Business Failures Fewer than Week and Year Ago

New York, Aug. 7 [Special].—Commercial and industrial failures in the week ended Thursday declined 8.4 per cent compared with the preceding week and 16.5 per cent compared with the corresponding week of 1938, Dun & Bradstreet reported today. The total was 208, against 227 a week earlier and 249 a year earlier.

INSURANCE MEN DENY PART IN MISSOURI CASE

Hartford, Conn., Aug. 7 (AP).—High executives of seven fire insurance companies testified today that they were unaware funds collected from them to effect the $10,000,000 Missouri insurance rate compromise had been used illegally.

Testifying before Special Master Paul V. Barnett of Kansas City, who is determining for the United States District court in Missouri, the witnesses were asked the circumstances under which the larger eastern fire companies provided funds which were later traced to Thomas J. Pendergast, imprisoned political boss of Missouri, and former Insurance Commissioner R. Emmett O'Malley.

Richard M. Bissell, president of Hartford Fire, recalled a meeting of local insurance men with the late Charles B. Street, Chicago lawyer and insurance executive, who brought about the compromise in 1935 and 1936. He said Street told the executives the money he asked from them to settle the case was for "legal and incidental expeness."

Washington, D. C., Aug. 7 [Special].—Applications totaling $256,175,000 were received for the $100,000,000 of 91 day treasury bills dated Aug. 9 and offered Aug. 4, the treasury announced today. The average of the accepted bids was 99.992, equivalent to borrowing at an interest rate of 0.032 per cent.
